MURDER CHARGES FILED ON VERNA

Once Convicted Arsonist Held In Hospital Fire That Killed Ten

NORRISTOWN, Pa., April 1. —(AP)—Nicholas Verna was charged with murder and arson today and held without bail for grand jury action on an accusation that he started the fire that killed 10 patients at the Belle Vista Sanatorium Wednesday night.

Shortly before Verna was arraigned, the toll of the fire rose to 10. Nine patients suffocated the night of the blaze. Louis Segal, 66, died at Montgomery County Hospital today.

John Boyle, another patient, remained in critical condition at the hospital.

The short, dark - complexioned Verna, 28-year-old ex-G. I. stood with bowed head during a brief hearing before Justice of the Peace Charles W. Conyers, Sr., of Springfield township.

Police witnesses described the fire at the private sanatorium on the northwestern suburbs of Philadelphia. Sixty patients, nurses and firemen were injured in the blaze.

Earlier, Verna was quoted by Bernard E. di Joseph, assistant district attorney of Montgomery county, as saying he set the fire because he had "A sick feeling in the pit of my stomach."

Later, he helped fight the flames until he was made ill by smoke and fumes. Di Joseph said Verna admitted setting the fire after a three-hour grilling at the Valley Forge General Hospital in nearby Phoenixville.

Verna was committed to Belle Vista in February, 1949, after he was convicted of setting eight fires in the Philadelphia suburbs. The commitment order was for 14 months.

Verna was removed to Montgomery county prison here after the hearing.

Vote For Sewerage!

(An Editorial)

On Tuesday residents of Monroe will vote on a million dollar bond issue which will provide sewerage for a large part of our city. Only property owners may vote and both a majority of the popular vote and property value must be obtained if the bond issue carries.

The issue is clear-cut: Will we finally get adequate, modern sewerage facilities or will we continue to slumber in the era of slime and filth?

The Morning World long has deplored the lack of adequate sewerage facilities in the large areas which comprise the newer parts of the city, and we earnestly urge that the bond issue be given overwhelming approval. We are pleased that at last our citizens will be given an opportunity to express their wishes on this vital matter and we are confident of the outcome because we believe that common sense and the regard for the health and welfare of our people will prevail.

As explained by city officials, the program is in two phases. First, the city-wide voting of a one million dollar bond issue to extend the present sewerage trunk lines, and, second, the formation of sewerage districts, in the areas without sewerage, to finance the laying of lateral lines within the districts.

The first phase of the program will be city-wide and all property owning taxpayers of the entire city will be asked to vote a one and one-half mill tax to raise a million dollars to extend the present trunk lines. Only those areas in the city now without sewerage will participate in the second phase of the program. The bond election Tuesday concerns only the first phase.

There has been some talk of a substantial increase in taxes throughout the entire city. That is not correct at all. If the entire city votes the one and one-half mill tax, the tax rate in the old city—that part which lies within the city limits as of 1928 and which has been paying five and three-quarters more tax than those residing in the "new city"—will remain exactly the same as it exists today. The tax rate in the "new city" will be increased five and three-quarters mills, and thus for the first time in nearly 25 years, the tax rate in the entire city will be the same and we will have one city with equal facilities throughout. In other words, the tax rate for the entire city of Monroe will be equalized as required by law.

It should not be necessary to "sell" our people on the need for adequate sewerage. The threat to the health of the community has been pointed out by the Ouachita Parish Medical Society and the City Board of Health, both of whom strongly urge support of the bond issue. We have been extremely fortunate in that we have escaped an epidemic of major proportions. The scourge of infantile paralysis, which has struck down a number of persons here, is an ever-present danger under conditions as they exist today. The chances of epidemics of other deadly diseases are heightened by the lack of adequate sanitary sewerage.

Monroe has grown to such an extent that unseweraged areas comprise a large part of our city. Thus the menace to the health of the community has increased each year. Extension of our present facilities is a MUST and your affirmative vote in Tuesday's election is the only cure for the problem which has confronted us for many years.

Presidential Family Gets Census Quiz

KEY WEST, Fla., April 1. —(AP)—President Truman and his family received the census taker today.

Mr. and Mrs. Truman answered all the questions millions of other Americans will answer as the 1950 population count reaches every home in the land.

Daughter Margaret answered more. She commented later:

"I was a sample."

The longer list of questions put to Margaret are asked of every fifth person.

A young and attractive census taker, whose outward calm belied her claim she was "awfully flustered," questioned President Truman and his family for 15 minutes.

Mrs. Eileen M. Nolte, mother of two children, plied the president's daughter with extra questions about her income and schooling.

Twenty - six - year - old Margaret, who toured the country last year as a concert singer, sat with her parents. She was clad in knee length pedal pushers, a sash around the waist, a white blouse and tan Mexican sandals as she responded to questions about her schooling and income.

CENSUS TAKERS COUNTING HERE

Population Of Monroe And West Monroe Predicted At 65,000

Twin City census takers joined the army of 140,000 persons who took to the field early Saturday and began their count of the number of people in the United States.

Advance estimates predict that the population of Monroe and West Monroe will reach 65,000 by the time the count is completed.

This year's count is being broken down into three different censuses; a survey of population, another of housing and the third of the nation's agricultural equipment.

Not only will a person be asked his name and age, sex, marital status, but the state or country of birth, citizenship status and employment status.

It has been pointed out that every fifth person will be asked for statistics on income and the number of weeks worked during 1949 along with other employment questions.

Nation's Joblessness Will Probably Turn For Better

WASHINGTON, April 1. —(AP)—Officials said today that the nation's spurt of joblessness reached a turning-point in March and will yield to a strong seasonal improvement this month.

The firm tone of sales and production, plus a probable winter record in building activity, led to a general view in the administration that no "emergency-type" action by the government is needed.

The general concern over jobs, at a time when business volume is close to its all-time high, is prompted by:

1. Forecasts that the spring decline in idleness will be followed by a midsummer peak of perhaps 5,000,000 unemployed.

2. Unofficial estimates that the year-long average will be about 4,000,000, or some 6 1-2 per cent of the work force. It was 5.5 per cent last year and 3.4 per cent in 1948.

HARMONY REIGNS AMONG ATLANTIC PACT MINISTERS

Unanimously Approve Collective Plan Of Defense Against Aggression

ALL FOR ONE, ONE FOR ALL AGREEMENT REACHED

By Joseph Dynan

THE HAGUE, The Netherlands, April 1.—(AP)— Defense ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty nations approved a collective plan of self defense against aggression in less than five hours of discussion today.

Their agreement on an all for one and one for all basis in guarding the North Atlantic Treaty area was unanimous.

U. S. Secretary of Defense Louis A. Johnson presided as chairman. The meeting was held in the closely guarded headquarters of the Dutch general staff, the red-bricked Juliana Barracks.

The ministers adopted an outline of general strategy prepared by

L. S. U. BUDGET REQUEST UPPED

Approve Over Million Dollar Boost Over Last Year's Allotment

BATON ROUGE, La., April 1. —(AP)—The Louisiana State University board of supervisors approved today a request for a $12,192,727 operating budget for next year, $1,045,000 above this year's figure.

The board also approved the outline of a $5,000,000 building program, asigning first priority to an additional to the medical school in New Orleans. A special "liaison committee" was named to work with the legislature on the projects.

In addition to these proposed expenditures, the board endorsed a $3,706,170 budget for the self-financing university enterprises such as dormitory operation.

The budget recommendations now go to the state division of administration, which prepares the budget the governor submits to the legislature.

The general university budget was approved by the board without a dissenting vote, but one member, E. Monnot Lanier of Palquemine, asked to be recorded as "present but not voting."

He said he had full confidence in the university administration and the board's executive committee, but added, "I am noa a rubber stamp."

President Harold W. Stoke and Comptroller Troy Middleton said the procedure followed in the budget preparation this year had been identical with past policies and that there had been no intention of rushing it through.

Monroe Catholics will have interesting exercises which will make future history for St. Matthew's church in Monroe. His Excellency, Most Reverent Charles P. Greco, bihhop of the church, will formally dedicate the gymnasium-auditorium on Grammont Street and the rectory at 123 Jackson Street. These two buildings will complete the school and church plant, made possible by the expenditure of fully $150,000. Both buildings are the last word in architecture and will provide adequate facilities for the educational, athletic, social and religious program of Ouachita parish. TRIAL NEARS END

Robert E. Bednasek (above), 24, University of Iowa psychology student, nears the end of his trial at Iowa City for the death of his co-ed sweetheart, Margaret Anne (Gee-Gee) Jackson. He is charged with strangling the pretty girl in his rooming house. All evidence in the case was completed Friday, but final arguments were postponed until Monday. The judge believed that the state and defense arguments could not be completed in one day and ordered the court's adjournment until tomorrow. The case is expected to be ready for jury deliberation sometime Tuesday. (AP Wirephoto)

LUZON ISLAND IS PLACED ENTIRELY UNDER MILITARY

Philippines President Orders Action Against Red-Led Guerrillas

HUKS RESPONSIBLE FOR MUCH DEATH, PILLAGING

By Frank L. White

MANILA, April 1. — (AP) — The Philipine's principal island, Luzon, was placed entirely under military control tonight by presidential order to cope with outbreaks of the guerrillas.

In issuing the order, President Elpidio Quirino said it was not a proclamation of martial law, but he put the island under direct charge of Gen. Mariano M. Castaneda, army chief of staff, and placed the Philippines constabulary under the army.

At least fifty-four persons have been killed and whole villages burned since the "Huks" went on a rampage Wednesday.

The latest fighting came today (Saturday) in a constabulary attack on guerrillas on Mount Arayat, isolated 5,000-foot peak in the central Luzon plain. The constabulary advanced a short distance up the mountain, which the Huks have successfully defended for four years as the key spot in their positions in the Sierra Madre and Zambales mountains to the east and west.

2 Bills To Stamp Out Organized Gambling Submitted By M'Grath

One Would Bar Interstate Transmission Of Gaming Information; Second Would Stop Slot Machine Shipments To Illegal States

WASHINGTON, April 1. —(AP) Attorney General McGrath today handed congress two bills to smash at organized gambling—which has been called the underworld's biggest source of revenue.

One would bar interstate transmission of gambling information on horse races, football, baseball, basketball or any other sporting event.

The other aims to halt shipment of slot machines to states which outlaw them.

McGrath said in a letter to both houses that such measures "will go far to eliminate the evils at which they are so clearly pointed."

The bills were the first two emerging from a legislative committee named recently at a national crime prevention conference of federal, state and local officials.

Cities have called for federal help to crush commercialized gambling which is costing Americans billions of dollars every year. The senate soon will vote on a proposed all-out investigation of big time rackets.

The ban on gambling communications would be enforced by the federal regulatory power over radio, telephone and telegraph under the proposed bill.

It would exempt from its terms the reporting of sporting events for publication or broadcasting as news, although placing some curbs or the broadcasting of horse races.

In proposing a ban on interstate transmission of gambling information, to mean:

"Bets or wagers or related information assisting in the placing of bets or wagers on any sporting event or contest, or transactions or information facilitation betting or wagering activities in any sporting event or contest."

In an accompanying explanation, the justice department says:

1. Bets are specifically named to make clear that placing them with bookmakers by wire or phone would be illegal.

2. The reference to transactions or information facilitating betting is aimed against the practice of "laying off" bets by one bookmaker with another to maintain a "balanced book."

3. The phrase "sporting event or contest" was intended to include "the prevalent organized wagering on football, baseball and basketball games, which appears to be increasing rapidly."

In connection with horse racing, radio and television stations would be required to wait at least an hour after a race is run before giving the results. They would be prohibited from giving out gambling information before any race on the day it is run.

BOND ISSUE VOTE SLATED TUESDAY

Monroe Property Owners To Decide On City's Proposed Sewer Expansion

Property owning voters of the city of Monroe will decide Tuesday if the entire city will finally obtain adequate sewerage facilities.

The commission council has proposed a $1,000,000 bond issue to extend trunk line mains to large areas now without sewers. The polls will open at 7 a.m. and close at 6 p.m., and voting places will be the same as those serving the parish-wide representative election. However, voting for representative will open at 6 a.m. and continue until 7 p.m.

Chilly Mist Of Gloom Hangs Over N. O. French Quarter

NEW ORLEANS, April 1. —(AP)—The noisy, bawdy French quarter, where quaint wrought - iron and shuttered buildings usually emit a mixture of music, bourbon and laughter, hit a new low of moroseness today.

A bistro owner and a former hostess are under indictment charged with the knockout drops death of wealthy Robert E. Dunn, 42-year-old Nashville, Tenn. contractor and a police "clean-up" grips the quarter.

A chilly mist hung over the old section today adding to the gloom. The deserted streets looked more like a Nevada ghost town than one of America's "hottest" cabaret settlements.

Despite the grand jury's charges against Carlo Quartararo, owner of the night club where Dunn died and Lucille Cotta, 23, who was returned here from California Thursday, Chief of Detectives Harry Daniels is continuing his investigation.

Dunn's death had been attributed by Dr. C. Grenes Cole, parish (county) coroner, to a heart attack. However, Dunn's body was exhumed and it was found by Louisiana and Tennessee state chemists that he was given an overdose of chloral hydrate—knockout drops—the night of Jan. 1 during his Sugar Bowl visit.

True bills against Quartararo and the Cotta woman were returned just before midnight last night after an all-day session of questioning 37 witnesses.

"More developments are still to come," Daniels said today, but would not elaborate.

The death of the Nashville man has created something of a strike against the quarter as night spot owners bemoan sharply falling revenues.

"People are afraid to take a drink down here now," one club owner said.

Eisenhower Prescribes Wider Expense Outlay

Says Airborne Attack Could Strike 'Five Minutes' After Being Launched From Russia; Submits Military Recommendations

By Edwin B. Haakinson

WASHINGTON, April 1.—(AP)—General Dwight D. Eisenhower pointed to Alaska as the weakest link in the nation's defense today and called for increased military outlays there and elsewhere.

The wartime allied commander put Alaska at the top of a list calling for spending of from $300,000,000 to $500,000,000 plus asked congress by President Truman.

Eisenhower's recommendations, made in a letter to Chairman Elmer Thomas (D.-Okla.) of a senate appropriations subcommittee, listed top priority items this way:

"A. Garrisons in Alaska.

"B. Modernization of aircraft and army equipment and reinforcement of our antisubmarine facilities.

"C. Intelligence.

"D. Industrial mobilization."

Calling for an annual outlay of $1,500,000,000 for airplane buying by the air forces, Eisenhower warned that this should not be done by cutting funds for the navy or army. Legislation pending in the house would give the air force $1,350,000,000 for plane purchases, and Eisenhower would increase this by $150,000,000.

Thomas, chairman of the purse-string group, told a reporter he would personally support the Eisenhower proposals.

OWEN LATTIMORE IS FIGHTING MAD

Says He's Glad To Be Back In America Where He Can Get A Fair Hearing

NEW YORK, April 1.—(AP)—The man Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R.-Wis.) has called top Communist agent in the United States came home today to defend himself. He called his accuser "a base and miserable creature."

"I am glad to be back in America where I can get a fair hearing," said Owen Lattimore as he stepped from his plane.

Lattimore came home from a United Nations mission to Afghanistan. He is on leave from his post at John Hopkins Universiyt while employed by the U. N.

McCarthy told the senate this week he could show "Lattimore is a Soviet agent and also that he either is, or at least has been, a member of the Communist party."

Fighting mad on arrival, Lattimore said he had nothing but "unutterable contempt" for the Wisconsin senator.

Previously he had labeled McCarthy's charges as "an unmitigated lie."

LEVEE APPROVED AT BAWCOMVILLE

Army Engineers Agree To Reconstruct Embankment Immediately

Congressman Passman announced from his Washington office yesterday that the Corps of Army Engineers had agreed to construct the Bawcomville ring levee immediately, construction to get under way before June 30 and to be completed before the next high water season.

Mr. Passman stated the Tensas Basin Levee Board would provide $46,000.00 of the original contract, with the federal government providing approximately $100,000.00.

Mr. Passman said that the levee would be built to the full standard 10-foot grade and that it would be completed in every detail with the exception of several drainage gaps. He further stated that as soon as the congress passed the pending authorization bill that he would work to secure an additional appropriation for concrete headers and other facilities.

Mr. Passman stated that he had been working since 1947 to get the Bawcomville ring levee approved as an emergency project. Final approval came through on April 1 and the levee will be constructed in accordance with the Flood Control Act of May 15, 1928, and with Section C funds.

JURY IN BRIDGES TRIAL STILL OUT

Case Under Deliberation Since Friday; Ask Testimony Record

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1.—(AP)—The jury in the Harry Bridges perjury trial put its finger on the nub of the prosecution case today and asked for a reading of the record.

The eight men and four women who took the case under deliberation yesterday sent word from their room this morning: "May we have the testimony of John Schomaker?"

Schomaker, one-time active in waterfront union leadership and professed ex-Communist, had testified he solicited Bridges to Communist membership, issued party member books to him, and saw him pay dues.

Bridges, president of the CIO Longshore Union, was tried on the charge that he perjured himself by denying at his 1945 citizenship hearing that he was ever a Communist. During his trial he swore repeatedly he wasn't and never was one.

Juror Glenn L. Christiansen, who apparently has been elected foreman, replied: "What we have in the mind is the testimony about Schomaker and B. B. Jones, and the (Communist) application card in the restaurant, and the cross-examination on same."

Government attorneys appeared pleased. They had made much of Schomaker's testimony.

Schomaker had told the jury that in the autumn of 1933, he and Jones, another waterfront worker, went to the restaurant with Bridges for coffee. There, Bridges was asked why he didn't join the Communist party, the witness said he acted "kind of coy," and discussed what party name he could use. Schomaker said they suggested he adopt the name "T. G. Plant;" that that would be 'amusing." Thomas G. Plant then was one of the waterfront's biggest employers.

Presidential Family Gets Census Quiz

KEY WEST, Fla., April 1. —(AP)—President Truman and his family received the census taker today.

Mr. and Mrs. Truman answered all the questions millions of other Americans will answer as the 1950 population count reaches every home in the land.

Daughter Margaret answered more. She commented later:

"I was a sample."

The longer list of questions put to Margaret are asked of every fifth person.

A young and attractive census taker, whose outward calm belied her claim she was "awfully flustered," questioned President Truman and his family for 15 minutes.

Mrs. Eileen M. Nolte, mother of two children, plied the president's daughter with extra questions about her income and schooling.

Twenty-six-year-old Margaret, who toured the country last year as a concert singer, sat with her parents. She was clad in knee length pedal pushers, a sash around the waist, a white blouse and tan Mexican sandals as she responded to questions about her schooling and income.

CENSUS TAKERS COUNTING HERE

Population Of Monroe And West Monroe Predicted At 65,000

Twin City census takers joined the army of 140,000 persons who took to the field early Saturday and began their count of the number of people in the United States.

Advance estimates predict that the population of Monroe and West Monroe will reach 65,000 by the time the count is completed.

This year's count is being broken down into three different censuses; a survey of population, another of housing and the third of the nation's agricultural equipment.

Not only will a person be asked his name and age, sex, marital status, but the state or country of birth, citizenship status and employment status.

It has been pointed out that every fifth person will be asked for statistics on income and the number of weeks worked during 1949 along with other employment questions.

Under the law, the questions

Nation's Joblessness Will Probably Turn For Better

WASHINGTON, April 1. —(AP)—Officials said today that the nation's spurt of joblessness reached a turning-point in March and will yield to a strong seasonal improvement this month.

The firm tone of sales and production, plus a probable winter record in building activity, led to a general view in the administration that no "emergency-type" action by the government is needed.

The general concern over jobs, at a time when business volume is close to its all-time high, is prompted by:

1. Forecasts that the spring decline in idleness will be followed by a midsummer peak of perhaps 5,000,000 unemployed.

2. Unofficial estimates that the year-long average will be about 4,000,000, or some 6 1-2 per cent of the work force. It was 5.5 per cent last year and 3.4 per cent in 1948.

HARMONY REIGNS AMONG ATLANTIC PACT MINISTERS

Unanimously Approve Collective Plan Of Defense Against Aggression

ALL FOR ONE, ONE FOR ALL AGREEMENT REACHED

By Joseph Dynan

THE HAGUE, The Netherlands, April 1.—(AP)— Defense ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty nations approved a collective plan of self defense against aggression in less than five hours of discussion today.

Their agreement on an all for one and one for all basis in guarding the North Atlantic Treaty area was unanimous.

U. S. Secretary of Defense Louis A. Johnson presided as chairman. The meeting was held in the closely guarded headquarters of the Dutch general staff, the red-bricked Juliana Barracks.

The ministers adopted an outline of general strategy prepared by

L. S. U. BUDGET REQUEST UPPED

Approve Over Million Dollar Boost Over Last Year's Allotment

BATON ROUGE, La., April 1. —(AP)—The Louisiana State University board of supervisors approved today a request for a $12,192,727 operating budget for next year, $1,045,000 above this year's figure.

The board also approved the outline of a $5,000,000 building program, asigning first priority to an additional to the medical school in New Orleans. A special "liaison committee" was named to work with the legislature on the projects.

In addition to these proposed expenditures, the board endorsed a $3,706,170 budget for the self-financing university enterprises such as dormitory operation.

The budget recommendations now go to the state division of administration, which prepares the budget the governor submits to the legislature.

The general university budget was approved by the board without a dissenting vote, but one member, E. Monnot Lanier of Palquemine, asked to be recorded as "present but not voting."

He said he had full confidence in the university administration and the board's executive committee, but added, "I am noa a rubber stamp."

President Harold W. Stoke and Comptroller Troy Middleton said the procedure followed in the budget preparation this year had been identical with past policies and that there had been no intention of rushing it through.

Jes' Ramblin'

Today is Palm Sunday which is observed quite generally in all Catholic and Episcopal churches, where branches of these beautiful trees are distributed to those attending services.

Monroe Catholics will have interesting exercises which will make future history for St. Matthew's church in Monroe. His Excellency, Most Reverent Charles P. Greco, bihhop of the church, will formally dedicate the gymnasium-auditorium on Grammont Street and the rectory at 123 Jackson Street. These two buildings will complete the school and church plant, made possible by the expenditure of fully $150,000. Both buildings are the last word in architecture and will provide adequate facilities for the educational, athletic, social and religious program of Ouachita parish. St. Matthews is fortunate in having at the helm

ELOPES AT 90

VANCOUVER, B. C., April 1.—(AP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Edwards asked police Thursday to look for her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Eastman, 90.

They found her today. She had eloped — with A. Wilbee, 86—and was en route to Victoria on a honeymoon.

TRIAL NEARS END

LUZON ISLAND IS PLACED ENTIRELY UNDER MILITARY

Philippines President Orders Action Against Red-Led Guerrillas

By Frank L. White

MANILA, April 1. — (AP) — The Philipine's principal island, Luzon, was placed entirely under military control tonight by presidential order to cope with outbreaks of the guerrillas.

In issuing the order, President Elpidio Quirino said it was not a proclamation of martial law, but he put the island under direct charge of Gen. Mariano M. Castaneda, army chief of staff, and placed the Philippines constabulary under the army.

At least fifty-four persons have been killed and whole villages burned since the "Huks" went on a rampage Wednesday.

The latest fighting came today (Saturday) in a constabulary attack on guerrillas on Mount Arayat, isolated 5,000-foot peak in the central Luzon plain. The constabulary advanced a short distance up the mountain, which the Huks have successfully defended for four years as the key spot in their positions in the Sierra Madre and Zambales mountains to the east and west.

2 Bills To Stamp Out Organized Gambling Submitted By M'Grath

One Would Bar Interstate Transmission Of Gaming Information; Second Would Stop Slot Machine Shipments To Illegal States

WASHINGTON, April 1. —(AP)— Attorney General McGrath today handed congress two bills to smash at organized gambling—which has been called the underworld's biggest source of revenue.

One would bar interstate transmission of gambling information on horse races, football, baseball, basketball or any other sporting event.

The other aims to halt shipment of slot machines to states which outlaw them.

McGrath said in a letter to both houses that such measures "will go far to eliminate the evils at which they are so clearly pointed."

The bills were the first two emerging from a legislative committee named recently at a national crime prevention conference of federal, state and local officials.

Cities have called for federal help to crush commercialized gambling which is costing Americans billions of dollars every year. The senate soon will vote on a proposed all-out investigation of big time rackets.

The ban on gambling communications would be enforced by the federal regulatory power over radio, telephone and telegraph under the proposed bill.

It would exempt from its terms the reporting of sporting events for publication or broadcasting as news, although placing some curbs on the broadcasting of horse races.

In proposing a ban on interstate transmission of gambling information, to mean:

"Bets or wagers or related information assisting in the placing of bets or wagers on any sporting event or contest, or transactions or information facilitation betting or wagering activities in any sporting event or contest."

In an accompanying explanation, the justice department says:

1. Bets are specifically named to make clear that placing them with bookmakers by wire or phone would be illegal.

2. The reference to transactions or information facilitating betting is aimed against the practice of "laying off" bets by one bookmaker with another to maintain a "balanced book."

3. The phrase "sporting event or contest" was intended to include "the prevalent organized wagering on football, baseball and basketball games, which appears to be increasing rapidly."

In connection with horse racing, radio and television stations would be required to wait at least an hour after a race is run before giving the results. They would be prohibited from giving out gambling information before any race on the day it is run.

BOND ISSUE VOTE SLATED TUESDAY

Monroe Property Owners To Decide On City's Proposed Sewer Expansion

Property owning voters of the city of Monroe will decide Tuesday if the entire city will finally obtain adequate sewerage facilities.

The commission council has proposed a $1,000,000 bond issue to extend trunk line mains to large areas now without sewers. The polls will open at 7 a.m. and close at 6 p.m., and voting places will be the same as those serving the parish-wide representative election. However, voting for representative will open at 6 a.m. and continue until 7 p.m.

Eisenhower Prescribes Wider Expense Outlay

Says Airborne Attack Could Strike 'Five Minutes' After Being Launched From Russia; Submits Military Recommendations

By Edwin B. Haakinson

WASHINGTON, April 1.—(AP)—General Dwight D. Eisenhower pointed to Alaska as the weakest link in the nation's defense today and called for increased military outlays there and elsewhere.

The wartime allied commander put Alaska at the top of a list calling for spending of from $300,000,000 to $500,000,000 plus asked congress by President Truman.

Eisenhower's recommendations, made in a letter to Chairman Elmer Thomas (D.-Okla.) of a senate appropriations subcommittee, listed top priority items this way:

"A. Garrisons in Alaska.

"B. Modernization of aircraft and army equipment and reinforcement of our antisubmarine facilities.

"C. Intelligence.

"D. Industrial mobilization."

Calling for an annual outlay of $1,500,000,000 for airplane buying by the air forces, Eisenhower warned that this should not be done by cutting funds for the navy or army. Legislation pending in the house would give the air force $1,350,000,000 for plane purchases, and Eisenhower would increase this by $150,000,000.

Thomas, chairman of the purse-string group, told a reporter he would personally support the Eisenhower proposals.

OWEN LATTIMORE IS FIGHTING MAD

Says He's Glad To Be Back In America Where He Can Get A Fair Hearing

NEW YORK, April 1.—(AP)—The man Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R.-Wis.) has called top Communist agent in the United States came home today to defend himself. He called his accuser "a base and miserable creature."

"I am glad to be back in America where I can get a fair hearing," said Owen Lattimore as he stepped from his plane.

Lattimore came home from a United Nations mission to Afghanistan. He is on leave from his post at John Hopkins Universiyt while employed by the U. N.

McCarthy told the senate this week he could show "Lattimore is a Soviet agent and also that he either is, or at least has been, a member of the Communist party."

Fighting mad on arrival, Lattimore said he had nothing but "unutterable contempt" for the Wisconsin senator.

LEVEE APPROVED AT BAWCOMVILLE

Army Engineers Agree To Reconstruct Embankment Immediately

Congressman Passman announced from his Washington office yesterday that the Corps of Army Engineers had agreed to constuct the Bawcomville ring levee immediately, construction to get under way before June 30 and to be completed before the next high water season.

Mr. Passman stated the Tensas Basin Levee Board would provide $46,000.00 of the original contract, with the federal government providing approximately $100,000.00.

Mr. Passman said that the levee would be built to the full standard 10-foot grade and that it would be completed in every detail with the exception of several drainage gaps. He further stated that as soon as the congress passed the pending authorization bill that he would work to secure an additional appropriation for concrete headers and other facilities.

Mr. Passman stated that he had been working since 1947 to get the Bawcomville ring levee approved as an emergency project. Final approval came through on April 1 and the levee will be constructed in accordance with the Flood Control Act of May 15, 1928, and with Section C funds.

JURY IN BRIDGES TRIAL STILL OUT

Case Under Deliberation Since Friday; Ask Testimony Record

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1.—(AP)—The jury in the Harry Bridges perjury trial put its finger on the nub of the prosecution case today and asked for a reading of the record.

The eight men and four women who took the case under deliberation yesterday sent word from their room this morning: "May we have the testimony of John Schomaker?"

Schomaker, one-time active in waterfront union leadership and professed ex-Communist, had testified he solicited Bridges to Communist membership, issued party member books to him, and saw him pay dues.

Bridges, president of the CIO Longshore Union, was tried on the charge that he perjured himself by denying at his 1945 citizenship hearing that he was ever a Communist. During his trial he swore repeatedly he wasn't and never was one.

Juror Glenn L. Christiansen, who apparently has been elected foreman, replied: "What we have in the mind is the testimony about Schomaker and B. B. Jones, and the (Communist) application card in the restaurant, and the cross-examination on same."

Government attorneys appeared pleased. They had made much of Schomaker's testimony.

Schomaker had told the jury that in the autumn of 1933, he and Jones, another waterfront worker, went to the restaurant with Bridges for coffee. There, Bridges was asked why he didn't join the Communist party, the witness said he acted "kind of coy," and discussed what party name he could use. Schomaker said they suggested he adopt the name "T. G. Plant;" that that would be 'amusing." Thomas G. Plant then was one of the waterfront's biggest employers.

Chilly Mist Of Gloom Hangs Over N. O. French Quarter

NEW ORLEANS, April 1. —(AP)— The noisy, bawdy French quarter, where quaint wrought-iron and shuttered buildings usually emit a mixture of music, bourbon and laughter, hit a new low of moroseness today.

A bistro owner and a former hostess are under indictment charged with the knockout drops death of wealthy Robert E. Dunn, 42-year-old Nashville, Tenn. contractor and a police "clean-up" grips the quarter.

A chilly mist hung over the old section today adding to the gloom. The deserted streets looked more like a Nevada ghost town than one of America's "hottest" cabaret settlements.

Despite the grand jury's charges against Carlo Quartararo, owner of the night club where Dunn died and Lucille Cotta, 23, who was returned here from California Thursday, Chief of Detectives Harry Daniels is continuing his investigation.

Dunn's death had been attributed by Dr. C. Grenes Cole, parish (county) coroner, to a heart attack. However, Dunn's body was exhumed and it was found by Louisiana and Tennessee state chemists that he was given an overdose of chloral hydrate—knockout drops—the night of Jan. 1 during his Sugar Bowl visit.

True bills against Quartararo and the Cotta woman were returned just before midnight last night after an all-day session of questioning 37 witnesses.

"More developments are still to come," Daniels said today, but would not elaborate.

The death of the Nashville man has created something of a strike against the quarter as night spot owners bemoan sharply falling revenues.

"People are afraid to take a drink down here now," one club owner said.

Sitting On Federal Cushion

Economic policy in Washington is curiously muddled. There's a big hue and cry these days for higher productivity to support a growing population at a rising living standard. But at the same time government is effectively blocking some of the most desirable results of greater efficiency on farms and in factories.

The doings of the Agriculture Department afford the most striking example. In one set of buildings men are finding out how to enrich and preserve soils and step up crop yields. Their goal is more food and fiber at less cost in men and money.

If their discoveries are to be translated into better living, they obviously must be passed on to consumers through lower farm prices.

But elsewhere in the department the emphasis is on restricting output and keeping prices up. Thousands of farmers get federal money for NOT producing. And the huge support-price program is a stubborn roadblock checking any downward push of prices in response to increased efficiency.

Protecting farmers against the hardship that follows from glutted markets and tumbling prices is surely a wise and necessary objective. But we must find a way to do it that will not penalize consumers and reward grossly inefficient producers.

The Brannan plan aims at one part of this dilemma, for it would allow farm prices to seek their own level in an open market. Yet it would still safeguard the inefficient—at evident cost in taxes to the very consumers supposed to benefit from lower prices. It would do this by paying farmers the difference between market prices and the "support" level.

The truth is, inefficient marginal producers aren't entitled to such protection. They are the necessary casualties of technical progress. To insist on keeping them in business at the taxpayers' expense is to misunderstand the whole purpose of a sound economy.

These producers do deserve some sort of aid to ease the pain of their transition to another field. It is not their fault that a government scientist may have discovered a better way to raise corn which suddenly makes their farms too costly to run in competition with others.

Still, the mere fact that a man decides to undertake farming as a business shouldn't mean a government guarantee of profitable operation regardless of his possible inefficiency. It's a weird kind of welfare program that seeks to cushion every producer against failure.

Some men in Congress are showing signs of applying this same odd reasoning to the coal industry, which is expected to be troubled soon again with overproduction. We hear talk of producer quotas, controlled output and the like. To the obvious end of keeping afloat all the present producers, marginal and otherwise.

Where is the advantage of technical progress to the average consumer if he must pay in taxes or artificially supported prices for outmoded, inefficient production methods?

Wise Guy Or Sucker

Suffering from a continuing water shortage, New York City has decided to spend $50,000 in an effort to bring rain. It is hard to suppress a chuckle when reading of the undertaking.

In the face of the fact that 200 similar tests, conducted by the federal weather bureau, did not bring one good shower, New York officials, with Mayor O'Dwyer in the lead, are laying $50,000 of taxpayers' money on the line in the hope of breaking a drouth by methods which lack even the sanction of tradition.

In other days the Midwest went in for this thing. Kansas had a rainmaker who did quite well in a financial way. He offered to bring measurable rain for a certain fee making a smaller charge if his efforts failed, as they always did. Under this arrangement he couldn't lose, and he went hither and yon squirting certain chemicals into the air. The elements weren't impressed.

The general public will wish New Yorkers the best of luck in their efforts to bring rain and relieve a critical situation. But many persons will recall that it was a famous New Yorker who said "the wise guy is the sucker, after all."

NOTES OF A NEWSPAPERMAN

In the opinion of Dr. R. E. Lapp, who worked on the atom bomb during the war (and who since has headed the Nuclear Physics Branch of the Office of Naval Research), we shall have to write off most of the big cities in the U. S. if an enemy drops H-Bombs. . . . "Horrible as it may sound," he declared, "we must be prepared to lose ten to fifteen million people in the first day of superblitz. Because of the many U. S. cities with large concentrations of population in contrast to the very few large centers of population in Russia, the H-Bomb will be much more dangerous to us than Russia. Moscow would be the only Russian target for American bombers."

In a certain sense, he continued, we are rather like the man who lives in a tar paper shack and develops a flame-thrower to protect himself. . . . He recommended the navy move out of Washington and that many branches of the army and air force move from the Pentagon. The space can be used for dead records, he suggested. . . . He says the senate should meet in Alexandria, Va., and the house should move to Bethesda, Md. . . . Both are very near the Capital. . . . How that would save them, he doesn't say.

Science News Letter, a top authority on such matters, figures an H-bomb will weigh about 25 tons and consequently will be extremely hard to deliver over the target. When it gets there, however, the explosion would form a miniature sun glowing brilliantly in a searing flash of heat. . . . Figuring that the strength of the explosion would dequal 1,000,000 tons of TNT, 1,000 square miles would be damaged and the area seared by the heat rays would range from 200 to 400 square miles. . . . The heat effect from the Big Bomb will be the most enhanced property of the weapon. . . . Because at the moment of explosion there would be a flash of very penetrating nuclear radiation, but this would die out quickly and there would be little prolonged radioactivity.

Hardly any of the nation's top nuclear physicists are working on the H-Bomb. . . . During the war the employe roster of the Manhattan District (which developed the A-bomb) read like a Who's Who of the World's Best Brains in Physics. . . . Now they are scattered all over the country, most of them being applied to basic research in nuclear physics and cosmic rays. . . . They are at the U. of Chicago, Cornell, M. I. T., Columbia, Cal. Institute of Tech., and U. of Cal. . . . Most of them would express great reluctance at the prospect of working for the atomic energy commission on another bomb!

Some of the Brains Dept. (who build the A-Bomb and are not connected with the H-Bomb project) are Enrico Fermi; the two Nobel winners, Compton and Urey; Hans Bethe and Philip Morrison; Jerrold Zacharias and J. Archibald Wheller. . . . Thus, it may be that the development of the H-Bomb will be a lengthy one in this country. It would be surprising, say the experts, if the true superbomb (one with a punch of one million tons of TNT) is developed in a few years. . . . Meanwhile, the military is seeking possible targets to test an H-Bomb, when and if. . . . Since one with such a wallop would scorch an area of from 200 to 400 square miles, it would not be economically feasible to use it on a smaller target.

The wishful theory that a Truman-Stalin meeting would make everything peaceful has no roots in realism or history. . . . It is startling to see so many editorial writers and others clutching desperately at these false and perilous hopes. . . . The tough truth is that the word peace is a part of the Russian arsenal and its target is your mind. . . . The obvious objective is to lull the foes of communism into a synthetic sense of security. . . . Peace does not mean the absence of hostilities. It signfies the presence of international trust and understanding—which is the basis of friendship among nations as well as people. . . . That foundation does not exist now.

Communists can never accept the idea that communism can peacefully and permanently coexist with capitalistic nations. To believe that would shatter the core of Communist theory — which preaches capitalism Must Be Destroyed (or it will destroy itself) "thus leading to world communism". . . . Only the most abject gullibles can day-dream about an enduring friendship with Russia when the Politburo refuses to trust its own citizens. . . . They are locked behind an Iron Curtain, and the Secret Police are their wardens.

Even when Russia was locked in a death struggle with nazism its distrust of other nations remained constant. . . . It wasn't until the Teheran Conference (in 1943) that the Russians gave the allies a smattering of information about Red army operations. . . . So deep were Soviet suspicions, Stalin even refused to allow British or U. S. bombers to help defend Stalingrad!

It is important for Americans to understand the machinations of the Communist mind. . . . The ideas rattling around their skulls make the seemingly confusing tactics of communism crystal-clear. . . . For example, the Communist interpretation of both word wars is completely different from ours. . . . They don't blame the Kaiser and the fuehrer for provoking those conflicts—they blame capitalism. . . . On Feb. 9, 1946 Stalin asserted: "As a result of the first crisis in the capitalist world economy, arose the First World War. The Second World War arose as a result of the second crisis."

Surprisingly enough, the current Communist strategy was made public in 1935. . . . In November (of that year) a Russian magazine called "The Communist" bluntly stated: "The capitalist governments will at first try to defeat Germany in alliance with the Soviet Union. Every victory of the Soviet Union will add to her reputation in Europe and Asia. Our aim must first be to defeat Fascism by a common effort and then to organize the victorious German revolution into the Socialist economy of Europe". . . Remember that statement was published in Russia in 1935.

The latest Soviet peace offensive is merely another zig in their zagging "line". . . . Peace is just another word in their propaganda war. . . . Evidence of it can be found in books, speeches and activities of the Kreminals. . . . Have a look at page 42 of Stalin's book, "Problems of Leninism." . . . He writes: "The dictatorship of the proletariat is a persistent struggle—sanguinary and bloodless, violent and peaceful, military and economic—against the forces and traditions of the old society". . . . Savvyet? That means you!

George E. Sokolsky:

THESE DAYS

THE FEAST OF FREEDOM

This week, Jews all over the world celebrate the feast of Passover, which represents one of the great historic struggles for liberty. Each year, Jews sit at the Seder (a religious feast in the home) and recount the passage from Egypt to Israel. As the service is most often read in Hebrew, which the listeners generally do not understand, they wait impatiently for the delicacies of the kitchen.

But the essence of this holiday is not the festive joy, but the celebration of human freedom. It marks a revolt from and a renunciation of slavery. It establishes the doctrine of the inalienable right of the individual man to liberty, as a gift from God. This belief is inherent in the Passover.

A series of events followed the freeing of the Jews from slavery in Egypt, the climax of which was the statement of the moral law by Moses. It is difficult for our generation to realize the full meaning of this event, particularly the contrast between the worship of the Golden Calf and the Ten Commandments.

To this so-called sophisticated age, all this is fable, spoken perhaps to terrify a primitive people. Yet, this aspect must be considered: liberty without restraint can be horrible. We witness its extreme ugliness in such a reversion to the beast in the disclosure of homosexuality in the state department and other agencies of government. In fact, we witness the anarchy of our times in the inadequate public horror at such a disclosure. It is not that we are wiser but rather that we have so lost our sense of restraint that we take, as it were, in our stride every vice that human experience indicates can only lead to deterioration.

What Moses gave in the Ten Commandments was a summary of human experience, if you must reject divine inspiration. Thou shalt not bear false witness—thou shalt not lie—how far have we departed from that! As a working newspaperman, I encounter every day the shocking spectacle of great figures in our life, saying in public what they know is not true, and then saying in private—"off the record," they call it—the opposite of what they say in public.

Bearing false witness is a horrible vice because, carried to the lengths to which it is in these days, it destroys the only basis that can exist for human relations, for the contract in business, for confidence between man and woman in marriage, for faith of a people in those who govern them.

Lying is as easy as adultery and both too often cannot be uncovered. Yet, a society based on lies, as on adultery, cannot long stand. So a society in which the relations of parent and child are not grounded in respect, in truthfulness, will be without a family system, each individual moving about like a stray cat. In such a society, pity, compassion, charity and love soon disappear and nothing good can replace these qualities.

This, then, is the essence of the Passover feast: It teaches man the value of liberty, but it also bespeaks restraint, self-restraint, that liberty may not become an anarchy, a turbulent pursuit of individual impulses, without regard to the whole community and in disregard of moral law.

It was to a comparatively primitive people, not far removed from slavery in time or distance, that Moses gave the Ten Commandments, and who produced the Pentateuch—the first five books of the Bible.

It is difficult in our generation to realize that such dwellers of the desert, former slaves and the children of slaves could conceive of the loftiest ideals of human liberty and moral existence.

Yet, they did. And what is more, they carried their concepts of individual liberty and social justice and moral law until it blossomed over the Earth, in many forms, and for it men lived and died.

There have been many periods in human history when men wallowed in the trough of horrible viciousness, each pursuing his course without regard to right. Yet, somehow, breaking through the dark clouds of faithlessness, stands on Mount Sinai the figure of Moses, crying to all the people:

"Turn ye not unto idols, nor make make to yourselves molten gods: I am the Lord your God . . .

"Sanctify yourselves, therefore, and be ye holy!"

OUR CHILDREN

HAPPINESS FIRST

"Happiness first," is the motto of the Vineland Training School of New Jersey, made famous by the late Dr. Johnstone. His school was built on that idea and as it is a school for children whose minds are not fully developed, the success of it is marvelous. The children there are happy and they learn to the limit of their ability. But always they are happy.

Happiness on earth is the end men have in view all their days. To work well, to feel successful, they must be happy. There are times when sorrow falls on each of us, but if happiness has been set in our minds and souls in the very beginning, in school and at home, there underlies the blackest of sorrows a gleam of light, a thin line of courage that enables us to go on.

What makes a child happy? Not things. The gayest toy loses its charm and makes way for a new want. Endless wanting is one of the chief enemies of happiness. It breeds covetousness, envy, grudging and the array of evil spirits that go with them.

Not unbounded freedom, in which a child may do what comes into his head without regard to others' rights and feelings. That sort of freedom is poisonous to the mind and body of a child. It makes him obnoxious to his companions, isolates him and so hampers him in gaining any degree of happiness.

Usefulness, activity directed toward a desirable end, makes children happy. To be loved makes them happy. To feel wanted and admired delights their souls. To serve those they love and be thanked for it lifts them to seventh heaven. This costs very little but, well-delivered to the child's mind, it will make all the difference in the world to him.

What makes him unhappy? Deprivation. The deprivation of the spirit caused by dislike, by management that disregards his fundamental need for being counted in, the feeling of being unwanted and counted out. This sort of neglect works evil on a child although he is showered with gifts, given money he does not know how to use, pushed into an existence in which he feels no guiding hand, no limiting word, a world where he is alone to fend for himself, deprived of the sustaining faith that love, wise discipline and healthful usefulness would give to him.

A happy child is a healthy, active, loving, giving creature and he is so because his father and mother would have him so.

In Washington With

BASCOM N. TIMMONS

Big labor leaders are moving energetically to make repeal of the Taft-Hartley law a major issue in the fall congressional campaign, and to elect a congress responsive to labor's wishes. But the repeal talk in Washington is much louder than it is out in the country, in the opinion of members of congress who read their mail carefully.

Phil Murray, CIO president, wants all unions, with the exception of the few which are Communist-dominated, to get another in "an amalgamation for both political and economic action." The immediate reaction here is that Murray's political juggernaut would be super CIO-PAC, which could rise and spend money to elect and defeat candidates. Labor unions themselves are forbidden by law from doing that.

President William Green of the AFL has suggested that members of his organization contribute $2 each to a political campaign fund, which would total about $15,000,000—a whopping sum for any campaign. The heaviest money barrage would be laid down in Ohio to defeat Senator Robert A. Taft, co-author of Taft-Hartley.

It's hard to whip up hatred for something which hasn't done you any harm, the labor politicians are finding in their organization against the labor act. They have dubbed it "the slave labor law" from the beginning, but since it hasn't been enforced much, the union members themselves have shown too much indifference about its repeal to suit their leaders.

Murray, Green and the residents of the international unions haven't pushed the compromise repeal bill at this session, because its enactment would deprive them of their principal issue for this fall. Most of the objections to the act are covered in the bill, but not the $64 question—whether to repeal the bans on closed shop and secondary boycotts. Those are the big issues, and the top labor executives know they haven't enough votes in the 81st congress to restore to their arsenals two of their most powerful weapons — the completely unionized shop and the right in labor disputes to boycott retailers, wholesalers and other distributors in addition to the oroginal manufacturer.

So the blasts at the Taft-Hartley law and at congressmen who voted for it or favor its continuance will be heard again this fall.

The citizens of a Pennsylvania hamlet are not sure they like the federal government to poke its nose into such a local matter as the correct spelling of the name of their town, but somebody had to make a decsiion, so the post-office department has decided that Hellam shall be official known as Hallam (population 800).

Spelling of the town's name has been in controversy for 200 years. Straddling the Lincoln highway, U. S. 30, between Lancaster and York, Pa., the name Hellam has brought derision from passers-through, and a good many of the old residents have spelled it Hallam for some years. That's the spelling used at the city limits, on the high school facade and on the honor roll in the park.

But the old name appeals to some, including the furniture dealer whose slogan is "Sell 'em Hellam" and the mail order business which says it would have to destroy 400,000 letterheads. Then there's the local clergyman who says, "Might help folks to remind them of hell once in a while. The postmaster is neutral, says "Everything with an H and a couple of L's comes here anyhow."

It is against the law to offer a bribe to a congressman, but Representative Michael J. Kirwan (Dem., Ohio) got one the other day he wasn't so sure about.

Kirwan is chairman of the house subcommittee on appropriations for the Interior Department. A 90-year old man from La Crescenta, Calif., wrote him a letter. The oldster reminded Kirwan the Interior Department has never come through on a promise made back in 1934 to expand a reclamation project in the Coachella Valley. Meanwhile, he purchased some land there and has been paying $70 a year taxes on it, hoping someday it would have water.

He asked Kirwan if he would hurry up the appropriation, because felt he couldn't wait much longer. In a postscript he said, "If you can get this appropriation through congress, I will speak a good word for you to the gatekeeper—as I will probably precede you to the beyond."

Thurman Sensing,

DOWN SOUTH

SHALL WE IGNORE COMMON SENSE?

President Truman has requested a budget for the fiscal year, 1951, amounting to $42,400,000,000. Estimating that the potential costs to each state in the union would be in the same proportion as total Federal taxes paid from each state, we find that the South's share of this national budget, for the sixteen states from Texas to Maryland, inclusive, would be $10,345,000,000.

The South's share of this proposed budget is a sizeable sum of money, even in these days of astronomical totals. It is more money than it took to run the entire nation for any one year up until 1941, except for two years during the first world war. The share of each state is shown in the following table:

Alabama	$487,600,000
Arkansas	292,500,000
Florida	530,000,000
Georgia	585,100,000
Kentucky	508,800,000
Louisiana	504,500,000
Maryland	1,174,400,000
Mississippi	288,300,000
Missouri	1,089,600,000
North Carolina	674,100,000
Oklahoma	479,100,000
South Carolina	313,700,000
Tennessee	572,400,000
Texas	1,827,400,000
Virginia	636,000,000
West Virginia	381,600,000

If this were a sensible budget, the South should certainly have no hesitation about paying its share. But it is not a sensible budget. No budget is sensible that provides for expenditures greater than receipts—in time of peace. It is a shame and a disgrace that intelligent people in a free democratic nation should have to submit to deficit financing with times as they are at present in this country. In fact, intelligent people would not propose deficit financing under current conditions. Living beyond one's means—whether in the case of an individual or a nation—is indicative of an inherent weakness, is indicative of a lack of moral stamina, and of course if persisted in long enough means eventual bankruptcy and degredation. And we may be quite sure that if we do not have guts enough to live within our income in times like these when money is easy, it is most unlikely that we shall ever do so again; it is more likely, on the other hand, that we shall continue to "waste our substance in riotous living" until some day the bubble bursts.

Fortunately, we do have men in public office in this nation who have both financial acumen and moral stamina. Prominent among these is Senator Harry F. Byrd, of Virginia, who keeps careful watch of the nation's finances. While many were accepting the President's budget along with the statement that it could not be cut without endangering the safety of the nation, Senator Byrd was preparing his own budget. He submitted this budget for a total of $36,000,000,000 as compared with the President's $42,400,000,000, along with the statement that it could be adopted without in any way impairing the soundness or efficiency of the nation.

Senator Byrd's budget called for a saving under the President's budget of $6,400,000,000. The south's share of this saving would amount to $1,561,000,000. This is worth saving! It would be, for instance, more than five times the total of the $300,000,000 proposed in the Federal Aid for Education bill, even if all this Federal Aid went to the South. In fact, it would only take a three per cent cut in the President's budget for the states of the South to provide their own aid as proposed under the education measure—and then there would be no danger of the Federal Government nosing in and telling the states what to teach, and how to teach it, and who to teach it to, and who to get to teach it!

Moreover, Senator Byrd's budget would provide for a surplus of one billion dollars to apply on the national debt; the President's budget would add a minimum of five and one-half billion dollars to the debt. Shall we ignore common sense?

In writing about the recent Academy Award presentations, a trade paper columnist calls attention to an irony which seems to have escaped most Hollywood observers (including yours truly). The Oscar for the best picture of 1949 went to "All the Kings Men," a thinly disguised filmography of Huey Long, and it was presented by Jimmy Cagney. The irony? Well, Cagney was to have produced, and starred in, a screen version of "Lion in the Streets," also a thinly disguised story about Huey Long. The only reason he didn't carry through with his plans was that Robert Rosson, the producer of "All the King's Men", beat him to the punch. And—just to make Cagney's wound more sensitive, he would have played in "Lion of the Streets," much the same role played in "All the King's Men" by Broderick Crawford. Crawford won an Oscar, too.

At a recent studio party commemorating Charles Coburn's 60th year in show business, photographers urged Jane Wyman to pose for pictures with her ex-husband, Ronald Reagan. When the camermen became insistent, Miss Wyman left the party in a huff—and I don't blame her. It's to her own and Reagan's credit that they have remained good friends, despite their divorce. But it would be bad taste for them to make capital of that friendship by posing together for publicity pictures.

Sitting On Federal Cushion

Economic policy in Washington is curiously muddled. There's a big hue and cry these days for higher productivity to support a growing population at a rising living standard. But at the same time government is effectively blocking some of the most desirable results of greater efficiency on farms and in factories.

The doings of the Agriculture Department afford the most striking example. In one set of buildings men are finding out how to enrich and preserve soils and step up crop yields. Their goal is more food and fiber at less cost in men and money.

If their discoveries are to be translated into better living, they obviously must be passed on to consumers through lower farm prices.

But elsewhere in the department the emphasis is on restricting output and keeping prices up. Thousands of farmers get federal money for NOT producing. And the huge support-price program is a stubborn roadblock checking any downward push of prices in response to increased efficiency.

Protecting farmers against the hardship that follows from glutted markets and tumbling prices is surely a wise and necessary objective. But we must find a way to do it that will not penalize consumers and reward grossly inefficient producers.

The Brannan plan aims at one part of this dilemma, for it would allow farm prices to seek their own level in an open market. Yet it would still safeguard the inefficient—at evident cost in taxes to the very consumers supposed to benefit from lower prices. It would do this by paying farmers the difference between market prices and the "support" level.

The truth is, inefficient marginal producers aren't entitled to such protection. They are the necessary casualties of technical progress. To insist on keeping them in business at the taxpayers' expense is to misunderstand the whole purpose of a sound economy.

These producers do deserve some sort of aid to ease the pain of their transition to another field. It is not their fault that a government scientist may have discovered a better way to raise corn which suddenly makes their farms too costly to run in competition with others.

Still, the mere fact that a man decides to undertake farming as a business shouldn't mean a government guarantee of profitable operation regardless of his possible inefficiency. It's a weird kind of welfare program that seeks to cushion every producer against failure.

Some men in Congress are showing signs of applying this same odd reasoning to the coal industry, which is expected to be troubled soon again with overproduction. We hear talk of producer quotas, controlled output and the like. To the obvious end of keeping afloat all the present producers, marginal and otherwise.

Where is the advantage of technical progress to the average consumer if he must pay in taxes or artificially supported prices for outmoded, inefficient production methods?

NOTES OF A NEWSPAPERMAN

In the opinion of Dr. R. E. Lapp, who worked on the atom bomb during the war (and who since has headed the Nuclear Physics Branch of the Office of Naval Research), we shall have to write off most of the big cities in the U. S. if an enemy drops H-Bombs. . . . "Horrible as it may sound," he declared, "we must be prepared to lose ten to fifteen million people in the first day of superblitz. Because of the many U. S. cities with large concentrations of population in contrast to the very few large centers of population in Russia, the H-Bomb will be much more dangerous to us than Russia. Moscow would be the only Russian target for American bombers."

In a certain sense, he continued, we are rather like the man who lives in a tar paper shack and develops a flame-thrower to protect himself. . . . He recommended the navy move out of Washington and that many branches of the army and air force move from the Pentagon. The space can be used for dead records, he suggested. . . . He says the senate should meet in Alexandria, Va., and the house should move to Bethesda, Md. . . . Both are very near the Capital. . . . How that would save them, he doesn't say.

Science News Letter, a top authority on such matters, figures an H-bomb will weigh about 25 tons and consequently will be extremely hard to deliver over the target. When it gets there, however, the explosion would form a miniature sun glowing brilliantly in a searing flash of heat. . . . Figuring that the strength of the explosion would dequal 1,000,000 tons of TNT, 1,000 square miles would be damaged and the area seared by the heat rays would range from 200 to 400 square miles. . . . The heat effect from the Big Bomb will be the most enhanced property of the weapon. . . . Because at the moment of explosion there would be a flash of very penetrating nuclear radiation, but this would die out quickly and there would be little prolonged radioactivity.

Hardly any of the nation's top nuclear physicists are working on the H-Bomb. . . . During the war the employe roster of the Manhattan District (which developed the A-bomb) read like a Who's Who of the World's Best Brains in Physics. . . . Now they are scattered all over the country, most of them being applied to basic research in nuclear physics and cosmic rays. . . . They are at the U. of Chicago, Cornell, M. I. T., Columbia, Cal. Institute of Tech., and U. of Cal. . . . Most of them would express great reluctance at the prospect of working for the atomic energy commission on another bomb!

Some of the Brains Dept. (who build the A-Bomb and are not connected with the H-Bomb project) are Enrico Fermi; the two Nobel winners, Compton and Urey; Hans Bethe and Philip Morrison; Jerrold Zacharias and J. Archibald Wheller. . . . Thus, it may be that the development of the H-Bomb will be a lengthy one in this country. It would be surprising, say the experts, if the true superbomb (one with a punch of one million tons of TNT) is developed in a few years. . . . Meanwhile, the military is seeking possible targets to test an H-Bomb, when and if. . . . Since one with such a wallop would scorch an area of from 200 to 400 square miles, it would not be economically feasible to use it on a smaller target.

The wishful theory that a Truman-Stalin meeting would make everything peaceful has no roots in realism or history. . . . It is startling to see so many editorial writers and others clutching desperately at these false and perilous hopes. . . . The tough truth is that the word peace is a part of the Russian arsenal and its target is your mind. . . . The obvious objective is to lull the foes of communism into a synthetic sense of security. . . . Peace does not mean the absence of hostilities. It signfies the presence of international trust and understanding—which is the basis of friendship among nations as well as people. . . . That foundation does not exist now.

Communists can never accept the idea that communism can peacefully and permanently coexist with capitalistic nations. To believe that would shatter the core of Communist theory — which preaches capitalism Must Be Destroyed (or it will destroy itself) "thus leading to world communism". . . . Only the most abject gullibles can day-dream about an enduring friendship with Russia when the Politburo refuses to trust its own citizens. . . . They are locked behind an Iron Curtain, and the Secret Police are their wardens.

Even when Russia was locked in a death struggle with nazism its distrust of other nations remained constant. . . . It wasn't until the Teheran Conference (in 1943) that the Russians gave the allies a smattering of information about Red army operations. . . . So deep were Soviet suspicions, Stalin even refused to allow British or U. S. bombers to help defend Stalingrad!

It is important for Americans to understand the machinations of the Communist mind. . . . The ideas rattling around their skulls make the seemingly confusing tactics of communism crystal-clear. . . . For example, the Communist interpretation of both word wars is completely different from ours. . . . They don't blame the Kaiser and the fuehrer for provoking those conflicts—they blame capitalism. . . . On Feb. 9, 1946 Stalin asserted: "As a result of the first crisis in the capitalist world economy, arose the First World War. The Second World War arose as a result of the second crisis."

Surprisingly enough, the current Communist strategy was made public in 1935. . . . In November (of that year) a Russian magazine called "The Communist" bluntly stated: "The capitalist governments will at first try to defeat Germany in alliance with the Soviet Union. Every victory of the Soviet Union will add to her reputation in Europe and Asia. Our aim must first be to defeat Fascism by a common effort and then to organize the victorious German revolution into the Socialist economy of Europe". . . Remember that statement was published in Russia in 1935.

The latest Soviet peace offensive is merely another zig in their zagging "line". . . . Peace is just another word in their propaganda war. . . . Evidence of it can be found in books, speeches and activities of the Kreminals. . . . Have a look at page 42 of Stalin's book, "Problems of Leninism." . . . He writes: "The dictatorship of the proletariat is a persistent struggle—sanguinary and bloodless, violent and peaceful, military and economic—against the forces and traditions of the old society". . . . Savvyet? That means you!

George E. Sokolsky:

THESE DAYS

THE FEAST OF FREEDOM

This week, Jews all over the world celebrate the feast of Passover, which represents one of the great historic struggles for liberty. Each year, Jews sit at the Seder (a religious feast in the home) and recount the passage from Egypt to Israel. As the service is most often read in Hebrew, which the listeners generally do not understand, they wait impatiently for the delicacies of the kitchen.

But the essence of this holiday is not the festive joy, but the celebration of human freedom. It marks a revolt from and a renunciation of slavery. It establishes the doctrine of the inalienable right of the individual man to liberty, as a gift from God. This belief is inherent in the Passover.

A series of events followed the freeing of the Jews from slavery in Egypt, the climax of which was the statement of the moral law by Moses. It is difficult for our generation to realize the full meaning of this event, particularly the contrast between the worship of the Golden Calf and the Ten Commandments.

To this so-called sophisticated age, all this is fable, spoken perhaps to terrify a primitive people. Yet, this aspect must be considered: liberty without restraint can be horrible. We witness its extreme ugliness in such a reversion to the beast in the disclosure of homosexuality in the state department and other agencies of government. In fact, we witness the anarchy of our times in the inadequate public horror at such a disclosure. It is not that we are wiser but rather that we have so lost our sense of restraint that we take, as it were, in our stride every vice that human experience indicates can only lead to deterioration.

What Moses gave in the Ten Commandments was a summary of human experience, if you must reject divine inspiration. Thou shalt not bear false witness—thou shalt not lie—how far have we departed from that! As a working newspaperman, I encounter every day the shocking spectacle of great figures in our life, saying in public what they know is not true, and then saying in private—"off the record," they call it—the opposite of what they say in public.

Bearing false witness is a horrible vice because, carried to the lengths to which it is in these days, it destroys the only basis that can exist for human relations, for the contract in business, for confidence between man and woman in marriage, for faith of a people in those who govern them.

Lying is as easy as adultery and both too often cannot be uncovered. Yet, a society based on lies, as on adultery, cannot long stand. So a society in which the relations of parent and child are not grounded in respect, in truthfulness, will be without a family system, each individual moving about like a stray cat. In such a society, pity, compassion, charity and love soon disappear and nothing good can replace these qualities.

This, then, is the essence of the Passover feast: It teaches man the value of liberty, but it also bespeaks restraint, self-restraint, that liberty may not become an anarchy, a turbulent pursuit of individual impulses, without regard to the whole community and in disregard of moral law.

It was to a comparatively primitive people, not far removed from slavery in time or distance, that Moses gave the Ten Commandments, and who produced the Pentateuch—the first five books of the Bible.

It is difficult in our generation to realize that such dwellers of the desert, former slaves and the children of slaves could conceive of the loftiest ideals of human liberty and moral existence.

Yet, they did. And what is more, they carried their concepts of individual liberty and social justice and moral law until it blossomed over the Earth, in many forms, and for it men lived and died.

There have been many periods in human history when men wallowed in the trough of horrible viciousness, each pursuing his course without regard to right. Yet, somehow, breaking through the dark clouds of faithlessness, stands on Mount Sinai the figure of Moses, crying to all the people: "Turn ye not unto idols, nor make make to yourselves molten gods: I am the Lord your God . . . "Sanctify yourselves, therefore, and be ye holy!"

OUR CHILDREN

HAPPINESS FIRST

"Happiness first," is the motto of the Vineland Training School of New Jersey, made famous by the late Dr. Johnstone. His school was built on that idea and as it is a school for children whose minds are not fully developed, the success of it is marvelous. The children there are happy and they learn to the limit of their ability. But always they are happy.

Happiness on earth is the end men have in view all their days. To work well, to feel successful, they must be happy. There are times when sorrow falls on each of us, but if happiness has been set in our minds and souls in the very beginning, in school and at home, there underlies the blackest of sorrows a gleam of light, a thin line of courage that enables us to go on.

What makes a child happy? Not things. The gayest toy loses its charm and makes way for a new want. Endless wanting is one of the chief enemies of happiness. It breeds covetousness, envy, grudging and the array of evil spirits that go with them.

Not unbounded freedom, in which a child may do what comes into his head without regard to others' rights and feelings. That sort of freedom is poisonous to the mind and body of a child. It makes him obnoxious to his companions, isolates him and so hampers him in gaining any degree of happiness.

Usefulness, activity directed toward a desirable end, makes children happy. To be loved makes them happy. To feel wanted and admired delights their souls. To serve those they love and be thanked for it lifts them to seventh heaven. This costs very little but, well-delivered to the child's mind, it will make all the difference in the world to him.

What makes him unhappy? Deprivation. The deprivation of the spirit caused by dislike, by management that disregards his fundamental need for being counted in, the feeling of being unwanted and counted out. This sort of neglect works evil on a child although he is showered with gifts, given money he does not know how to use, pushed into an existence in which he feels no guiding hand, no limiting word, a world where he is alone to fend for himself, deprived of the sustaining faith that love, wise discipline and healthful usefulness would give to him.

A happy child is a healthy, active, loving, giving creature and he is so because his father and mother would have him so.

In Washington With

BASCOM N. TIMMONS

Big labor leaders are moving energetically to make repeal of the Taft-Hartley law a major issue in the fall congressional campaign, and to elect a congress responsive to labor's wishes. But the repeal talk in Washington is much louder than it is out in the country, in the opinion of members of congress who read their mail carefully.

Phil Murray, CIO president, wants all unions, with the exception of the few which are Communist-dominated, to get another in "an amalgamation for both political and economic action." The immediate reaction here is that Murray's political juggernaut would be super CIO-PAC, which could rise and spend money to elect and defeat candidates. Labor unions themselves are forbidden by law from doing that.

President William Green of the AFL has suggested that members of his organization contribute $2 each to a political campaign fund, which would total about $15,000,000—a whopping sum for any campaign. The heaviest money barrage would be laid down in Ohio to defeat Senator Robert A. Taft, co-author of Taft-Hartley.

It's hard to whip up hatred for something which hasn't done you any harm, the labor politicians are finding in their organization against the labor act. They have dubbed it "the slave labor law" from the beginning, but since it hasn't been enforced much, the union members themselves have shown too much indifference about its repeal to suit their leaders.

Murray, Green and the residents of the international unions haven't pushed the compromise repeal bill at this session, because its enactment would deprive them of their principal issue for this fall. Most of the objections to the act are covered in the bill, but not the $64 question—whether to repeal the bans on closed shop and secondary boycotts. Those are the big issues, and the top labor executives know they haven't enough votes in the 81st congress to restore to their arsenals two of their most powerful weapons — the completely unionized shop and the right in labor disputes to boycott retailers, wholesalers and other distributors in addition to the oroginal manufacturer.

So the blasts at the Taft-Hartley law and at congressmen who voted for it or favor its continuance will be heard again this fall.

The citizens of a Pennsylvania hamlet are not sure they like the federal government to poke its nose into such a local matter as the correct spelling of the name of their town, but somebody had to make a decsiion, so the postoffice department has decided that Hellam shall be official known as Hallam (population 800).

Spelling of the town's name has been in controversy for 200 years. Straddling the Lincoln highway, U. S. 30, between Lancaster and York, Pa., the name Hellam has brought derision from passers-through, and a good many of the old residents have spelled it Hallam for some years. That's the spelling used at the city limits, on the high school facade and on the honor roll in the park.

But the old name appeals to some, including the furniture dealer whose slogan is "Sell 'em Hellam" and the mail order business which says it would have to destroy 400,000 letterheads. Then there's the local clergyman who says, "Might help folks to remind them of hell once in a while. The postmaster is neutral, says "Everything with an H and a couple of L's comes here anyhow."

It is against the law to offer a bribe to a congressman, but Representative Michael J. Kirwan (Dem., Ohio) got one the other day he wasn't so sure about.

Kirwan is chairman of the house subcommittee on appropriations for the Interior Department. A 90-year old man from La Crescenta, Calif., wrote him a letter. The oldster reminded Kirwan the Interior Department has never come through on a promise made back in 1934 to expand a reclamation project in the Coachella Valley. Meanwhile, he purchased some land there and has been paying $70 a year taxes on it, hoping someday it would have water.

He asked Kirwan if he would hurry up the appropriation, because felt he couldn't wait much longer. In a postscript he said, "If you can get this appropriation through congress, I will speak a good word for you to the gatekeeper—as I will probably precede you to the beyond."

Thurman Sensing,

DOWN SOUTH

SHALL WE IGNORE COMMON SENSE?

President Truman has requested a budget for the fiscal year, 1951, amounting to $42,400,000,000. Estimating that the potential costs to each state in the union would be in the same proportion as total Federal taxes paid from each state, we find that the South's share of this national budget, for the sixteen states from Texas to Maryland, inclusive, would be $10,345,000,000.

The South's share of this proposed budget is a sizeable sum of money, even in these days of astronomical totals. It is more money than it took to run the entire nation for any one year up until 1941, except for two years during the first world war. The share of each state is shown in the following table:

Alabama	$487,600,000
Arkansas	292,500,000
Florida	530,000,000
Georgia	585,100,000
Kentucky	508,800,000
Louisiana	504,500,000
Maryland	1,174,400,000
Mississippi	288,300,000
Missouri	1,089,600,000
North Carolina	674,100,000
Oklahoma	479,100,000
South Carolina	313,700,000
Tennessee	572,400,000
Texas	1,827,400,000
Virginia	636,000,000
West Virginia	381,600,000

If this were a sensible budget, the South should certainly have no hesitation about paying its share. But it is not a sensible budget. No budget is sensible that provides for expenditures greater than receipts—in time of peace. It is a shame and a disgrace that intelligent people in a free democratic nation should have to submit to deficit financing with times as they are at present in this country. In fact, intelligent people would not propose deficit financing under current conditions. Living beyond one's means—whether in the case of an individual or a nation—is indicative of an inherent weakness, is indicative of a lack of moral stamina, and of course if persisted in long enough means eventual bankruptcy and degredation. And we may be quite sure that if we do not have guts enough to live within our income in times like these when money is easy, it is most unlikely that we shall ever do so again; it is more likely, on the other hand, that we shall continue to "waste our substance in riotous living" until some day the bubble bursts.

Fortunately, we do have men in public office in this nation who have both financial acumen and moral stamina. Prominent among these is Senator Harry F. Byrd, of Virginia, who keeps careful watch of the nation's finances. While many were accepting the President's budget along with the statement that it could not be cut without endangering the safety of the nation, Senator Byrd was preparing his own budget. He submitted this budget for a total of $36,000,000,000 as compared with the President's $42,400,000,000, along with the statement that it could be adopted without in any way impairing the soundness or efficiency of the nation.

Senator Byrd's budget called for a saving under the President's budget of $6,400,000,000. The south's share of this saving would amount to $1,561,000,000. This is worth saving! It would be, for instance, more than five times the total of the $300,000,000 proposed in the Federal Aid for Education bill, even if all this Federal Aid went to the South. In fact, it would only take a three per cent cut in the President's budget for the states of the South to provide their own aid as proposed under the education measure—and then there would be no danger of the Federal Government nosing in and telling the states what to teach, and how to teach it, and who to teach it to, and who to get to teach it!

Moreover, Senator Byrd's budget would provide for a surplus of one billion dollars to apply on the national debt; the President's budget would add a minimum of five and one-half billion dollars to the debt. Shall we ignore common sense?

HOLLYWOOD, April 1—Understand that Abbott and Costello are feuding with U-I bosses again (money matters), and that production of their next picture, hoped for in the immediate future, has been indefinitely deferred . . . Dorothy Lamour, dated for a stint in London's Palladium, has asked the American State Department for passports which will let her entertain U. S. troops in Germany . . . Time out for Sylvia Sidney, bedded by a severe case of arthritis . . . Lena Horne takes off for Israel in June; she'll play benefits there for a Jewish Youth organization.

20th Century-Fox will try to capitalize on public interest in the Gubitchev-Coplon trial by re-issuing "The Iron Curtain" . . . Wotzis about Warner Brothers closing the sets of "Captain Hornblower" (shooting in England) to all outsiders because of certain indiscreet remarks made to the London press by Gregory Peck? . . . Red Skelton's next picture will give him a triple role, as himself, his father and his grandfather . . . Altar-bound: Actor Steve Brodie and Mrs. Jan Savitt, widow of the famous bandleader.

I hear that Tenor Jan Peerce has had a run-in with Rudolph Bing, director of the Metropolitan Opera, and vowed he'll never sing there again . . . Margaret Sullavan and business man Campbell Brodt, reported chilling recently, are again marriage-minded . . . Evidently Audie Murphy's threat to quit Hollywood, didn't mean he wanted to quit movies; he and Tito Guizar are dickering for finance and want to produce a series of action westerns in Texas.

In writing about the recent Academy Award presentations, a trade paper columnist calls attention to an irony which seems to have escaped most Hollywood observers (including yours truly). The Oscar for the best picture of 1949 went to "All the Kings Men," a thinly disguised filmography of Huey Long, and it was presented by Jimmy Cagney. The irony? Well, Cagney was to have produced, and starred in, a screen version of "Lion in the Streets," also a thinly disguised story about Huey Long. The only reason he didn't carry through with his plans was that Robert Rosson, the producer of "All the King's Men", beat him to the punch. And—just to make Cagney's wound more sensitive, he would have played in "Lion of the Streets," much the same role played in "All the King's Men" by Brod Crawford. Crawford won an Oscar, too.

At a recent studio party commemorating Charles Coburn's 60th th year in show business, photographers urged Jane Wyman to pose for pictures with her ex-husband, Ronald Reagan. When the camermen became insistent, Miss Wyman left the party in a huff—and I don't blame her. It's to her own and Reagan's credit that they have remained good friends, despite their divorce. But it would be bad taste for them to make capital of that friendship by posing together for publicity pictures.

Looking Ahead

IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON—Cramped by the illness of Senator Vandenberg (R.-Mich., the bi-partisan foreign policy that was such a showpiece for several years is beginning to get a series of new treatments that may soon have it on its feet again.

G. O. P. senators have been restive for some time, expressing doubt they're being taken into the administration's confidence as they were when Vandenberg, the party's big wheel on foreign policy, was active.

President Truman tried to get the thing going again with a program of talks between state department men and members of both parties but it didn't work.

President Truman in the mean time has disclosed he is seeking the advice of Senators Vandenberg, and Saltonstall, (R.-Mass.), as well as Henry L. Stimson, former secretary of war, also a Republican, on getting a prominent Republican to fill ambassador-at-large Philip C. Jessup's spot as "diplomatic trouble shooter."

As part of the hoped-for-improvement in bi-partisan foreign policy dealings, Secretary of State Acheson's selection of John Sherman Cooper, former Republican senator from Kentucky, to accompany him to London for the North Atlantic council conference next month won't hurt any (although it was done primarily to offset the G. O. P. attack on Acheson in the senate).

And a member of the senate foreign relations committee says Acheson and Jessup showed "a spirit of willingness' to take the bi-partisan approach to Far East problems in a closed committee session last week.

At the heart of the administration's whole foreign policy problem is that while Marshall Plan aid has helped block communism and western Europe, and has speeded recovery there, it will not have made the area independent of American aid by 1952, when it is scheduled to expire.

Vandenberg, aware of this, has proposed that a commission be appointed to figure out what to do after 1952. Hardly had his scheme been made public, when the administration let it be known that the state department had drawn up a proposal of its own—for a 20-member bi-partisan committee of distinguished Americans to study the same thing.

Target: Acheson

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The reorganization plan announced by the state department isn't likely to cool down the group of Republican senators out gunning for Secretary Acheson—especially since the plan makes roving Ambassador Philip C. Jessup a principal adviser to Acheson on world political issues.

Jessup is one of those who Senator McCarthy (R.-Wis.) says has an "unusual affinity" for Communist-backed organizations. This has been denied by Jessup.

FBI Files

WASHINGTON — (AP) — One thing that really worries the FBI in connection with senate subcommittee demands to open confidential loyalty files is that it might utterly destroy the G-men's intricate organization of informants. Many of these are on the FBI payroll full time. Some are of the type known in local police circles as "stool pigeons."

As FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover testified: "If it did not place the lives of such persons in actual jeopardy, it would certainly ruin their future value."

Hoover also testified the FBI is concerned that innocent persons might be smeared if partial or unsubstantiated reports were made public.

Women Abroad

NEW DELHI—(AP)—The girls at the Lady Hardinge medical college for women are making a big kick about a proposal to admit men students.

"If the boys are forced upon us, we may demonstrate or even strike," says a member of the female faculty. "After all, we are emotional creatures". . .

What Others Say:

EDITORS' ROUNDTABLE

LOYALTY FIRINGS

The large majority of editors agree with the majority (2 to 1) decision of the U. S. court of appeals that the firing of a government employe under the loyalty program is a permissable administrative procedure, in which the employe has no constitutional right to have a trial on the charges or to confront his accusers. But a rather large minority, most of which concedes absence of constitutional right, argues that the charge of disloyalty is so akin to tresaon in the public mind that an accused employe should be allowed to answer specific charges and confront accusers when possible without endangering security procedures.

Lexington (Ky.) Leader (Rep): "The Federal Court of Appeals in Washington has validated the federal loyalty program, which had been attacked as unconstitutional. The matter will now go to the Supreme Court for a final review. . . . No person has any specific political or moral right to a position in the federal service. . . . As the government can hire so it can fire those who hold positions under it. . . . Moreover, the interest of any individual, where questions of loyalty arise, must give way to the public interest. . . ."

Washington (D. C.) Post (Ind.): "What is at stake is the manner in which the government exercises its right to protect itself. Must the safeguarding of the government's interest involve star-chamber proceedings in which defendants cannot know the evidence against them? In this respect we believe the court majority—which, incidentally, has not undertaken to pass upon the question whether Miss Bailey (appellant employe) is loyal or disloyal—has adopted too narrow a view of what is entailed in the deprivation of a person's good name through a badge of disloyalty unsubstantiated by judicial evidence."

New York Herald Tribune (Ind.-Rep.): "Legally, the majority of the court would seem to be on the firmer ground, unless one is to hold that there is a vested right in a government job beyond that which attaches to private employment. . . . No loyalty program of any sort is possible if it can screen out no one except on complete legal proof of disloyalty. . . . To agree with the dissent in this case is to say that the dangers of infiltration and subversion are too small to justify any risk of injustice or error in individual cases."

Christian Science Monitor (Ind.); "Granted . . . that a place on the public is simply a priviledge, is it consistent with the Bill of Rights to challenge an officeholder's loyalty to his country . . . without ever confronting him with either his accuser or the specific charges against him? . . . This sort of thing can amount to conviction and punishment by administrative fiat. A disloyalty finding, said Judge Edgerton in his dissent, 'is closely akin to a finding of treason; the public hardly distinguishes between the two.' Power for the government to purge its ranks of those who would betray it is a proper end to seek. Methods such as these do not constitute a proper means."

Greensboro (N. C.) Daily News (Ind.): "Under present conditions the danger of disloyalty among government employes is sufficiently important to justify giving the executive branch the right to fire on suspicion. It goes without saying that this right should be exerted the evidence and with due circumspection. . . . Loyal and honorable citizens would not want to go into government work if they stood any likelihood of being branded as disloyalty without cause."

St. Louis (Mo.) Star-Times (Ind.) "A disloyalty charge obviously is not always susceptible of conclusive proof. Neither is it a charge that could be prosecuted within the very strict bounds of the rules of evidence that bind the court. But . . . there should be a clear presentation and detailing of every charge that is made. There should be, wherever possible, a chance for the accused to meet his accusers or at least to know the substance of accusation. . . . Since the courts declare themselves powerless to require these things . . . the loyalty boards must furnish them on their own."

Pittsburgh (Pa.) Post-Gazette (Ind.): "In practice, the government has set safeguards against indiscriminate loyalty dismissals. An the fact that by last January, only about 1-100th of one percent of the vast army of federal employes checked by the FBI were suspended from or lost their jobs is proof that we are dealing here with a tiny minority. Fairness, of course, is in no wise contingent on sheer numbers. But we believe that the opportunities for review provided under the loyalty program serve the demands of fairness."

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK — Prospecting and drilling are going on in New York at a great rate, and soon the town and vicinity may look like a hunk of Texas. Water, not oil, is the fluid sought.

The all-winter water shortage has caused many large users of water to realize that a private source of supply is desirable. If our shortage continues into the summer the use of city water for cooling and air-conditioning may be prohibited.

It is contrary to law for anyone in New York to operate a private well or pump for production of drinking water. One purpose of this law is to prevent the possible production of contaminated water that might be a menace to health.

But it is easy now to get a permit to drill for water for industrial use. A Park avenue hotel, built on the site of an old brewery, found, after a month of digging, two old wells that had been capped when the brewery was demolished. These will furnish all the water needed for the air-conditioning of the whole hotel.

In Yonkers, where strict regulation of water use includes public car-washing, there is an ex-G. I. who got a government loan to start a car-washing place, just before the shortage began. He was being ruined by the ban on water use.

This enterprising young man quickly drilled a well beside his shop. It produces more than enough water to run his car-washing business. He has offered to fill the city street-flushing tanks free of charge. But the city has forgotten how to flush or wash streets. and I suppose some of its politicians have run off with the tanks and trucks.

The United Nations headquarters, down by the East river, has found a large intake tunnel that was used to bring in water to cool a beef-packing plant. This plant was demolished to make room for the 19-story UN building. It remains to be seen whether this was a wise substitution. But in any case the spies to be quartered there in future will be kept cool by salt water pumped from the river, only a short distance away.

Engineering concerns are now considering the possibility of pumping water from both rivers for air-conditioning other large buildings. At first this system might be used exclusively for buildings near the waterfront, but later it might be extended to an underground system, much as steam is now piped throughout Manhatten for winter heating. All of this supply would be salty and unfit for drinking.

Ebbetts field, Brooklyn, is drilling for a large supply of fresh water, to be used for cleaning and for watering the nearly four acres of grass. This is an average New York drilling job, and will cost about $10,000. The saving of water bills will offset this capital investment.

The St. George Hotel in Brooklyn has always had its own artesian wells. These supply excellent water for the immense swimming pool and for air-conditioning.

Thanks to the hundreds who have written of their sympathy in the case of the loss of our granddaughter, Jane.

And Mrs. M. H. Carlton, Lakeland, Fla., adds to her letter of sympathy the interesting news that Lakeland is now the center of the business of producing frozen juice concentrates. Should be a great industry.

IN MOVIELAND

HOLLYWOOD, April 1.—(AP) — Everybody has two businesses—their own and the movie business.

This is an old Hollywood saying. It expresses the common belief that everyone likes to kibitz on Hollywood. Since my business is to observe the film industry, maybe I can point out where it has erred.

What's wrong with the movie business? Everybody here is asking that these days. Booster clubs, industry-wide councils and other groups have been set up to answer the question. Here are 10 points which I feel have put the movie industry in its present predicament:

1. Theater prices are too high for most family budgets. Relief from the 20 per cent federal tax will help to cure this. But the public will still seek bargain entertainment.

2. Re-releases of old pictures, not advertised as such, have soured many theatergoers. Only the best old pictures should be brought back, and clearly labeled.

3. Bad theater timing is alienating ticker buyers. To see the best picture of a double feature, you generally have to be in the theater at 7 p.m. or 10:30. The secondary film goes on when most people arrive.

4. Double features have been badly handled. They should be arranged for a well-rounded entertainment. Instead, we see such bills as "The Heiress" with "All the King's Men," two long and heavy films.

5. Theaters making little effort to get customers in at the beginning of a picture. Coming in during the middle can ruin even the best picture for movie fans.

6. Producers are too often caught in cycles. Instead of trying new things, they intimate what has been successful.

7. Producers have too often placed star values above story values.

8. Misbehaving personalities have often been rewarded with stardom and contracts, with the resulting bad publicity.

9. Public relations have been generally shortsighted. Hollywood has always been more concerned with selling stars and pictures rather than itself.

10. Producers have too often underestimated their audience. In catering to the young trade, they have lost a large part of their older fans.

That's my diagnosis, gentlemen of Hollywood. All you have to do is cure those ills and the patient will be in healthy shape again.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

SHANGHAI GESTURE

This year, the Jewish Passover and the Christian Holy Week come at the same time, and this quirk of the calendar puts me in mind of a story I heard in Shanghai a year ago last February from an American soldier still stationed there. . . .

The yarn concerns itself with a lad named Danny Bronstein who was raised on the lower East Side, enlisted in 1943 and was sent to Camp Barkley, Texas, where a medical unit was training for overseas duty.

One night during an after-taps bull session, the talk got around to religion, and one of the GI's said to Danny, "Give it to me straight. If you could be born again and have your pick, would you want to be a Jew?"

Danny sensed there was more curiosity than meanness in the question, so he gave a straight answer. "I'd still want to be a Jew," he said. "It's a pretty fine religion, and besides I'm awfully close to a lot of people who believe in it."

"You people really stick together. don't you?" said the company sergeant.

"Even rats stick together when they're in trouble," said Danny.

"Is that a comparison?" said the sergeant sarcastically.

"Don't put words in my mouth," said Danny. "I didn't say Jews were rats. All I meant was that everybody sticks together when they're in a tight spot."

The sergeant thought it over. "I get what you mean," he said, "and I'm sorry I shot my mouth off. I always had you pegged as one of the good Jews."

"That makes it even," said the boy from New York. "I always had you sized up as one of the good Baptists."

The sergeant looked startled for a second, then grinned and stuck out his hand. "That was a jerky thing for me to say," he said. "Let's shake and forget it."

In 1945, shortly after VJ Day, the medical unit was stationed in Shanghai, and not far from its barracks there was a DP camp filled with Jews who had escaped to China from the Hitler countries.

A few days before Passover, Danny told the sergeant that some of the Jewish boys in the outfit would like to celebrate in the traditional way, and asked whether it would be all right if they invited the DP's.

"The DP's are outside Army jurisdiction," said his friend, "but as for the boys in the outfit, I'll be glad to pass the request along to the Old Man. What do you figure they'll need?"

Danny said they'd require a fairly large room, certain cooking supplies, and the makings for matzoths the unleavened Passover bread.

"I don't think I can get you a hall," said the sergeant, "but maybe I can requisition a plane hangar."

On Passover morning, the Jewish soldiers went to the hangar to start their preparations, and half an hour later the sergeant walked in with 200 DP's.

"The Old Man didn't have the authority to get them turned loose," he said, "but I told him how much baking and cooking had to be done, and so he made a deal with the head of the camp to lend them to us as kitchen help."

Well, as I heard it in Shanghai, the DP's were so happy they didn't know whether to laugh, cry or pray, and most of them wound up doing all three. And that evening, shortly after the festivities began, almost every man in the medical company from top brass to KP's stopped in to help the Jewish boys celebrate.

Naturally, the visitors were shy at first, but after a bit of ceremonial wine they loosened up and even went through the motions of the traditional rites. And chances are during the next few days a lot of them wrote to their folks and girl friends about the good time they had had.

On Sunday, by way of returning the courtesy, the Jewish soldiers attended the company's Easter services — and chances are a lot of them wrote home about the moving ceremony they had witnessed.

I guess it boils down to this: When people let their hair and prejudices down, it's possible for Passover and Easter to overlap, even without the assisatnce of the calendar.

Unfortunately, however, it usually takes a war to make it happen.

BIBLE THOUGHTS:

And be not drunk with wine, wherein is excess; but be filled with the Spirit; Speaking to yourselves in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing and making melody in your heart to the Lord.—Ephesians 5:18.19.

God sent His Singers upon earth
With songs of sadness and of mirth,
That they might touch the hearts of men,
And bring them back to Heaven again.

Looking Ahead

IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON—Cramped by the illness of Senator Vandenberg (R.-Mich., the bi-partisan foreign policy that was such a showpiece for several years is beginning to get a series of new treatments that may soon have it on its feet again.

G. O. P. senators have been restive for some time, expressing doubt they're being taken into the administration's confidence as they were when Vandenberg, the party's big wheel on foreign policy, was active.

President Truman tried to get the thing going again with a program of talks between state department men and members of both parties but it didn't work.

President Truman in the mean time has disclosed he is seeking the advice of Senators Vandenberg, and Saltonstall, (R.-Mass.), as well as Henry L. Stimson, former secretary of war, also a Republican, on getting a prominent Republican to fill ambassador-at-large Philip C. Jessup's spot as "diplomatic trouble shooter."

As part of the hoped-for-improvement in bi-partisan foreign policy dealings, Secretary of State Acheson's selection of John Sherman Cooper, former Republican senator from Kentucky, to accompany him to London for the North Atlantic council conference next month won't hurt any (although it was done primarily to offset the G. O. P. attack on Acheson in the senate).

And a member of the senate foreign relations committee says Acheson and Jessup showed "a spirit of willingness' to take the bi-partisan approach to Far East problems in a closed committee session last week.

At the heart of the administration's whole foreign policy problem is that while Marshall Plan aid has helped block communism and western Europe, and has speeded recovery there, it will not have made the area independent of American aid by 1952, when it is scheduled to expire.

Vandenberg, aware of this, has proposed that a commission be appointed to figure out what to do after 1952. Hardly had his scheme been made public, when the administration let it be known that the state department had drawn up a proposal of its own—for a 20-member bi-partisan committee of distinguished Americans to study the same thing.

Target: Acheson

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The reorganization plan announced by the state department isn't likely to cool down the group of Republican senators out gunning for Secretary Acheson—especially since the plan makes roving Ambassador Philip C. Jessup a principal adviser to Acheson on world political issues.

Jessup is one of those who Senator McCarthy (R.-Wis.) says has an "unusual affinity" for Communist-backed organizations. This has been denied by Jessup.

FBI Files

WASHINGTON — (AP) — One thing that really worries the FBI in connection with senate subcommittee demands to open confidential loyalty files is that it might utterly destroy the G-men's intricate organization of informants. Many of these are on the FBI payroll full time. Some are of the type known in local police circles as "stool pigeons."

As FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover testified: "If it did not place the lives of such persons in actual jeopardy, it would certainly ruin their future value."

Hoover also testified the FBI is concerned that innocent persons might be smeared if partial or unsubstantiated reports were made public.

Women Abroad

NEW DELHI—(AP)—The girls at the Lady Hardinge medical college for women are making a big kick about a proposal to admit men students.

"If the boys are forced upon us, we may demonstrate or even strike," says a member of the female faculty. "After all, we are emotional creatures". . .

What Others Say:

EDITORS' ROUNDTABLE

LOYALTY FIRINGS

The large majority of editors agree with the majority (2 to 1) decision of the U. S. court of appeals that the firing of a government employe under the loyalty program is a permissable administrative procedure, in which the employe has no constitutional right to have a trial on the charges or to confront his accusers. But a rather large minority, most of which concedes absence of constitutional right, argues that the charge of disloyalty is so akin to tresaon in the public mind that an accused employe should be allowed to answer specific charges and confront accusers when possible without endangering security procedures.

Lexington (Ky.) Leader (Rep): "The Federal Court of Appeals in Washington has validated the federal loyalty program, which had been attacked as unconstitutional. The matter will now go to the Supreme Court for a final review. . . . No person has any specific political or moral right to a position in the federal service. . . . As the government can hire so it can fire those who hold positions under it. . . . Moreover, the interest of any individual, where questions of loyalty arise, must give way to the public interest. . . ."

Washington (D. C.) Post (Ind.): "What is at stake is the manner in which the government exercises its right to protect itself. Must the safeguarding of the government's interest involve star-chamber proceedings in which defendants cannot know the evidence against them? In this respect we believe the court majority—which, incidentally, has not undertaken to pass upon the question whether Miss Bailey (appellant employe) is loyal or disloyal—has adopted too narrow a view of what is entailed in the deprivation of a person's good name through a badge of disloyalty unsubstantiated by judicial evidence."

New York Herald Tribune (Ind.-Rep.): "Legally, the majority of the court would seem to be on the firmer ground, unless one is to hold that there is a vested right in a government job beyond that which attaches to private employment. . . . No loyalty program of any sort is possible if it can screen out no one except on complete legal proof of disloyalty. . . . To agree with the dissent in this case is to say that the dangers of infiltration and subversion are too small to justify any risk of injustice or error in individual cases."

Christian Science Monitor (Ind.): "Granted . . . that a place on the public is simply a priviledge, is it consistent with the Bill of Rights to challenge an officeholder's loyalty to his country . . . without ever confronting him with either his accuser or the specific charges against him? . . . This sort of thing can amount to conviction and punishment by administrative fiat. A disloyalty finding, said Judge Edgerton in his dissent, 'is closely akin to a finding of treason; the public hardly distinguishes between the two.' Power for the government to purge its ranks of those who would betray it is a proper end to seek. Methods such as these do not constitute a proper means."

Greensboro (N. C.) Daily News (Ind.): "Under present conditions the danger of disloyalty among government employes is sufficiently important to justify giving the executive branch the right to fire on suspicion. It goes without saying that this right should be exerted the evidence and with due circumspection. . . . Loyal and honorable citizens would not want to go into government work if they stood any likelihood of being branded as disloyalty without cause."

St. Louis (Mo.) Star-Times (Ind.) "A disloyalty charge obviously is not always susceptible of conclusive proof. Neither is it a charge that could be prosecuted within the very strict bounds of the rules of evidence that bind the court. But . . . there should be a clear presentation and detailing of every charge that is made. There should be, wherever possible, a chance for the accused to meet his accusers or at least to know the substance of accusation. . . . Since the courts declare themselves powerless to require these things . . . the loyalty boards must furnish them on their own."

Pittsburgh (Pa.) Post-Gazette (Ind.): "In practice, the government has set safeguards against indiscriminate loyalty dismissals. An the fact that by last January, only about 1-100th of one percent of the vast army of federal employes checked by the FBI were suspended from or lost their jobs is proof that we are dealing here with a tiny minority. Fairness, of course, is in no wise contingent on sheer numbers. But we believe that the opportunities for review provided under the loyalty program serve the demands of fairness."

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK — Prospecting and drilling are going on in New York at a great rate, and soon the town and vicinity may look like a hunk of Texas. Water, not oil, is the fluid sought.

The all-winter water shortage has caused many large users of water to realize that a private source of supply is desirable. If our shortage continues into the summer the use of city water for cooling and air-conditioning may be prohibited.

It is contrary to law for anyone in New York to operate a private well or pump for production of drinking water. One purpose of this law is to prevent the possible production of contaminated water that might be a menace to health.

But it is easy now to get a permit to drill for water for industrial use. A Park avenue hotel, built on the site of an old brewery, found, after a month of digging, two old wells that had been capped when the brewery was demolished. These will furnish all the water needed for the air-conditioning of the whole hotel.

In Yonkers, where strict regulation of water use includes public car-washing, there is an ex-G. I. who got a government loan to start a car-washing place, just before the shortage began. He was being ruined by the ban on water use.

This enterprising young man quickly drilled a well beside his shop. It produces more than enough water to run his car-washing business. He has offered to fill the city street-flushing tanks free of charge. But the city has forgotten how to flush or wash streets, and I suppose some of its politicians have run off with the tanks and trucks.

The United Nations headquarters, down by the East river, has found a large intake tunnel that was used to bring in water to cool a beef-packing plant. This plant was demolished to make room for the 19-story UN building. It remains to be seen whether this was a wise substitution. But in any case the spies to be quartered there in future will be kept cool by salt water pumped from the river, only a short distance away.

BANDS, CHOIRS IN REHEARSALS

Start Preparing Monday For Participation In Percy Grainger Festival

Rehearsals of band and choral groups that are participating in the Percy Grainger music festival at Northeast Junior College are scheduled Monday at 6 p.m. on the local campus. Work in each division will be followed by a combined performance, announced James F. Monroe, head of the music department.

Musicians who are practicing for the event of April 17, 18 and 19 include voice and band students in several high schools of this area, those of the college and the choir of St. Matthew's Catholic Church.

Eligibility to take part in the spring program was determined by auditions under auspices of the N. J. C. music department which is sponsoring the Grainger festival. Those selected will form the hundred voice choir and the sixty-five piece band as features of the event.

Mr. Grainger is to take over the direction of both sections when he arrives April 17 for the three-day clinic. Rehearsals will culminate in a matinee performance at 3:30 p.m. and an evening concert at 8 p.m. in Brown Hall auditorium on April 19. The two programs are open to the public.

Choral numbers to be performed include portions of Mozart's Twelfth Mass. These were emphasized at the group's first general rehearsal last Monday night.

Directors and their high schools included in the list of participants are: Miss Jacquelyn Cocke, Winnsboro; Miss Hermoine Driskell Gilbert; Mrs. Charles Watson, Wisner; Miss Ramona Cormier, Ouachita parish; William Parks, Neille. Other groups include the choir of St. Matthew's Catholic Church, directed by Francis H. Burke, and the N. J. C. chorus, directed by Miss Gertrude Sandrock.

Comprising the festival band will be musicians from the following high schools: Bastrop, directed by Gerald W. Mooney; Winnsboro, under supervision of Oscar Barnes, Jr., Franklin Parish schools; Ouachita parish, under Truman McCrea and Neville, under William Parks. Also participating will be members from the N. J. C. band directed by Francis H. Burke.

Dog Pound Keeper Has Joke On Pranksters

SAN GABRIEL, Calif., April 1.—(AP)— People who think it's rare April 1 humor to call up the dog pound and ask for Mr. Barker had the table turned on them today.

Robert Maher, manager of the animal shelter for the San Gabriel Valley Humane Society, was ready for the jokesters. He re-arranged the office intercommunication system.

Anybody calling in and asking for Mr. Barker or Mr. Shepherd or Mr. Spitz, etc., was treated to the sound of real barks and growls from the kennel.

April Fool Brings Oranges To Pine Trees

SKYFOREST, Calif., April 1.—(AP)—Some residents of this mountain resort community take April Fools' Day seriously. A group of about 25 residents, led by cartoonist Frank Adams, worked most of the night preparing an elaborate gag.

When dawn came a mile section of the Rim of the World Highway presented a strange spectacle. An estimated 50,000 oranges had been hung on the pine and cedar trees that line the highway.

It was reported the oranges were leftovers from the National Orange Show that closed in nearby San Bernardino recently.

Jackson Singing Meet Sat April 9

The Jackson parish singing convention will meet April 9 in the auditorium of the high school in Chatham, states G. W. Roberts, president. The last time it met there were 3,500 present, and it is expected that there should be at least 2,500 at this meeting.

There will be many musical groups present. Among the number will be the Allen Bros. quartet, Alexandria; Benis Fulmer quartet, Natchitoches,; John Daniels quartet, Nashville, Tenn.; Stamps Quartet; Wonder State, Crossett Ark.; Stamps-Baxter, Shreveport; Melo-Tone Oak Grove, La; and many others.

On the night preceding the Sunday affair, there will be a night concert starting at 8 o'clock and en , at midnight. This will also be well attended it is anticipated.

There will be a free lecture on Christian Science, entitled "Christian Science: Divine Love in Action," given by Earl E. Simms, C. S., of Austin, Tex., at the church edifice on Auburn avenue, this afternoon at 3 o'clock, to which the public is cordially invited.

Mr. Simms is a member of the Board of Lectureship of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist in Boston, Mass.

The lecture is to be given under the auspices of the church in Monroe.

Soviet Union Pays $20,000 To Ireland

DUBLIN, Ireland, April 1.—(AP)—Soviet Russia has repaid $20,000 it borrowed from Ireland 30 years ago and has received in return the collateral — jewels which may once have belonged to the Czar.

The Irish information bureau announced completion of the deal today. It started in the United States in 1920 and ended with the return of the jewels to a Soviet representative in London. Russia paid back the money last September.

Here is the history of the transaction, as related by the bureau:

A Soviet delegation in the United States seeking American recognition ran short of cash. An Irish group was in the United States trying to get American recognition of Ireland as an independent republic.

The Russians approached the Irish and got the loan in return for the jewels, which included pieces set with sapphires, rubies and diamonds. Harry Boland, a member of the Irish mission, brought them back to Ireland.

He was killed in the Irish rebellion and his mother turned the jewels over to the Irish treasury. Gossip around here was that the gems came from the murdered Czar's crown collection. Russia never said where they came from.

By the terms of the 1920 deal, the money was repayable on demand. Some months ago Ireland made the demand and Russia made payment on the barrelhead —in dollars.

If payment had not been made, the information bureau said, Ireland would have felt free to dispose of the jewels to recover the amount. But it added:

"The jewels had been valued here by people in the business, who advised that the government would be lucky if they got up to $2,000 ($5,600 at the present devalued rate) for them. This view was confirmed by a valuation made in London."

SCIENCE ACADEMY CONVENTION ENDS

Finish Two-Day Session In Ruston; Centenary Will Be 1951 Host

RUSTON, April 1. —(Special)— Delegates to the 24th annual convention of the Louisiana Academy of Sciences wound up their two-day activities at Louisiana Tech Saturday at noon, with Shreveport selected as the site for their 1951 meeting.

Centenary college will be host to next year's convention, which includes representatives of both the junior and senior division of the academy. A date for the next meeting will be determined later.

Dr. Mary Warters, professor of biology at Centenary, is the new president of the state scientists, it was announced here today. The election was conducted by mail in advance of the Tech meeting. Dr. Warters succeeds Dr. Paul S. Delaup, professor of physics at Southwestern Louisiana Institute.

Dr. S. J. P. Chilton, botany professor at Louisiana State University, was elected vice-president. H. Bruce Boudreaux of L. S. U. and C. S. McClesky of L. S. U. were retained as secretary and treasurer, respectively.

The convention, which opened at Tech Friday morning, attracted more than 200 delegates.

Those addressing the groups during the sessions of the second day and their subjects were:

REVIVAL LEADER

DR. PAUL ROBERTS

Oklahoma Pastor To Lead Revival

Dr. Paul Roberts of Northwest Baptist Church, Oklahoma City, Okla. to preach and lead the revival in First Baptist Church, West Monroe, La. To prelude this two weeks of revival effort the church has been enlisting in a weeks extensive visitation led by Pastor Jaroy Weber. The Sunday School and Training Union are working for high goals during April 9 (Easter) and April 16, with 1100 and 1200 in Sunday School and 500 and 550 in Training Union respectively.

Edmond D. Keith will lead the Congregational Singing and direct a large chorus choir during the revival. Also the Brotherhood, the men's organization, and the W. M. U., the women's organization and the deacons numbering some thirty are backing up this effort with an all out visitation. Saturday 12, noon to 12, midnight the round the clock prayer meetings will be led by laymen and participated in by the members. Noon day prayer meetings have been held by local business men for the last month. This revival is a part of the simultaneous effort observed by over 8,000 Baptist Churches, West of the Mississippi river.

INVADING REDS ARE WIPED OUT

Nationalists At Hainan Report Victorious Slam-Bang Battle

TAIPEI, Formosa, April 1.—(AP)—Chinese Communist troops landed at several points on the Nationalist island of Hainan Saturday, but the Nationalists said today they were wiped out or captured in a slam-bang battle.

It was the latest and apparently the largest of several Red attempts to seize a foothold on the big island only ten miles off the southern mainland.

Fragmentary reports said the invaders landed at points five and ten miles from Hoikow, the Hainan capital, and forced the Nationalist temporarily to abandon the Hoihow airfield.

The official Nationalist Central News Agency, however, early today said the defense had scored a great victory.

It is estimated the Red dead at 3,000 and said 50 of the invading fleet of junks were sunk in a four-hour battle with the Nationalist navy.

Some junks managed to land their troops, but Central News said the defending ground forces soundly thrashed the reds on the beaches. At one beach, it said, every man who got ashore was slain. At another, bodies of the attackers were said to be piled high on the sand, while at a third point 200 reds hoisted the white flag.

Altogether about 1,000 Communist troops were estimated to have set foot on land.

The sounds of battle rang clearly through Hoihow, but the city was said to be calm under martial law.

One report said the Civil Air Transport, airline of the retired American Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault, had pulled out of the Hoihow airfield when it looked as if the Reds would win it.

BANDS, CHOIRS IN REHEARSALS

Start Preparing Monday For Participation In Percy Grainger Festival

Rehearsals of band and choral groups that are participating in the Percy Grainger music festival at Northeast Junior College are scheduled Monday at 6 p.m. on the local campus. Work in each division will be followed by a combined performance, announced James F. Monroe, head of the music department.

Musicians who are practicing for the event of April 17, 18 and 19 include voice and band students in several high schools of this area, those of the college and the choir of St. Matthew's Catholic Church.

Eligibility to take part in the spring program was determined by auditions under auspices of the N. J. C. music department which is sponsoring the Grainger festival. Those selected will form the hundred voice choir and the sixty-five piece band as features of the event.

Mr. Grainger is to take over the direction of both sections when he arrives April 17 for the three-day clinic. Rehearsals will culminate in a matinee performance at 3:30 p.m. and an evening concert at 8 p.m. in Brown Hall auditorium on April 19. The two programs are open to the public.

Choral numbers to be performed include portions of Mozart's Twelfth Mass. These were emphasized at the group's first general rehearsal last Monday night.

Directors and their high schools included in the list of participants are: Miss Jacquelyn Cocke, Winnsboro; Miss Hermoine Driskell Gilbert; Mrs. Charles Watson, Wisner; Miss Ramona Cormier, Ouachita parish; William Parks, Neille. Other groups include the choir of St. Matthew's Catholic Church, directed by Francis H. Burke, and the N. J. C. chorus, directed by Miss Gertrude Sandrock.

Comprising the festival band will be musicians from the following high schools: Bastrop, directed by Gerald W. Mooney; Winnsboro, under supervision of Oscar Barnes, Jr., Franklin Parish schools; Ouachita parish, under Truman McCrea and Neville, under William Parks. Also participating will be members from the N. J. C. band directed by Francis H. Burke.

Dog Pound Keeper Has Joke On Pranksters

SAN GABRIEL, Calif., April 1.—(AP) — People who think it's rare April 1 humor to call up the dog pound and ask for Mr. Barker had the table turned on them today.

Robert Maher, manager of the animal shelter for the San Gabriel Valley Humane Society, was ready for the jokesters. He re-arranged the office intercommunication system.

Anybody calling in and asking for Mr. Barker or Mr. Shepherd or Mr. Spitz, etc., was treated to the sound of real barks and growls from the kennel.

April Fool Brings Oranges To Pine Trees

SKYFOREST, Calif., April 1.—(AP)—Some residents of this mountain resort community take April Fools' Day seriously. A group of about 25 residents, led by cartoonist Frank Adams, worked most of the night preparing an elaborate gag.

When dawn came a mile section of the Rim of the World Highway presented a strange spectacle. An estimated 50,000 oranges had been hung on the pine and cedar trees that line the highway.

It was reported the oranges were leftovers from the National Orange Show that closed in nearby San Bernardino recently.

Jackson Singing Meet Sat April 9

The Jackson parish singing convention will meet April 9 in the auditorium of the high school in Chatham, states G. W. Roberts, president. The last time it met there were 3,500 present, and it is expected that there should be at least 2,500 at this meeting.

There will be many musical groups present. Among the number will be the Allen Bros. quartet, Alexandria; Benis Fulmer quartet, Natchitoches,; John Daniels quartet, Nashville, Tenn.; Stamps Quartet; Wonder State, Crossett Ark.; Stamps-Baxter, Shreveport; Melo-Tone Oak Grove, La; and many others.

On the night preceding the Sunday affair, there will be a night concert starting at 8 o'clock and en , at midnight. This will also be well attended it is anticipated.

J. WASHBURN TO HEAD ROTARIANS

Election Of Officers Among Numerous Activities At Recent Meeting

J. S. Washburn was chosen to head the Rotary Club of Monroe to succeed H. L. Rosenhein, whose office expires July 1. Election of the president and other officers was the major business item on the agenda of last week's meeting at the Virginia Hotel.

Serving with Washburn will be Dr. George Wright, vice-president, and Judge W. M. Harper, secretary-treasurer. Board members named at this time were: C. C. Boardman, Dr. C. Prentice Gray, Jr., Dr. Cecil Jarrell, F. F. Millsaps and Tom Wilson.

The program which was devoted to agriculture was directed by Matt Rice, chairman of the rural-urban committee. Emphasizing its interest in activities on the farm, the Rotary Club announced its plan to award a scholarship to an outstanding high school graduate in Ouachita parish for achievement in farm life. The $250 prize will be given to a senior 4-H Club member whose work and integrity warrant encouragement to enroll at Northeast Junior College for a two-year period. The award will be made early enough for the student to prepare to enter the college at the next semester.

Featured on the program were L. L. Price, head of the Northeast Junior College agriculture and home economics department; J. J. Joyce, Ouachita parish agriculture agent, and Tom Hicks, president of the Ouachita Valley Fair Association.

Mr. Price described plans facilities and achievements of the agricultuee department which was organized in 1940.

He emphasized the strict supervision which Louisiana State University has over N. J. C. and its other branches, and the guidance which the colleges on the main campus extends to the respective departments in the junior colleges.

The department of agriculture and home economics here prepares its curriculum each year in consultation with Dean J. G. Lee, Jr. of the university's college of agriculture. Assistance also pertains to selection of texts, laboratory outlines and content coverage.

Records of N. J. C. graduates who continue study at L. S. U. illustrate that work done here is of the highest type that the university requires, Price said. This situation also applies to other departments. Since Northeast Junior College is a community institution, "You have the right to know that the school properly counsels and trains your sons and daughters, regardless of the profession they plan to enter," the speaker explained.

Facilities on the local campus include laboratories in the new science building. These are equipped for lecture and laboraeconomics are not surpassed for tory use. Furnishings for home similar courses in the first two years in any college, the speaker declared.

Many graduates in this department are now well established in farming or dairying business. They realize the opportunities which rural life offers, he said.

J. J. Joyce, stressing the significance of the Ouchahita Valley Fair, declared, "We hope to increase the project this year by arousing greater interest in more people from various parishes so that we can enlarge the displays." The non-profit organization has been steadily growing since the removal of the German prisoners, he said. Interest and activities of the public can easily promote the fair without resorting to advertising, the agent asserted.

sue which involves a million dollars and which will be used to finance the extension of the present trunk lines of the city's sewerage systems. This will meet, it is said, the needs of a fast growing city that up to now is woefully lacking in the disposal of its waste.

High in interest at the polls on Tuesday will be the race between Paul Fink and R. C. White, Jr., for a seat in the House. Mr. Fink pledges to carry out a full program. He has been a successful attorney and has served two terms in the House in past years, and is a veteran of the late war. Mr. White pledges a good administration if elected. He is veteran of World War two and holds membership in many groups. He was acclaimed "Man of the year" by the Jaycees recently.

In the West Monroe aldermanic race a candidate must receive more than half of the total votes cast in the primary election to be elected. Each voter is required to vote for five candidates or his ballot will be spoiled.

The election officials at the polls in Monroe and West Monroe will be identical in both elections in progress, but for state representative the hours are 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. In the sewer bond issue election hours are 7 a.m. to 6 p.m.

In West Monroe polls in both cases open at 6 a.m. and close at 7 p.m.

must be answered. But government officials insist that the data on income will be kept secret.

If, after two attempts, a census enumerator cannot get in touch with persons in a household, he will leave an extensive form of four pages, including income questions to be filled out, sealed and left for the enumerator.

Enumerators themselves are political appointees, but they face stiff criminal penalities for divulging information obtained while taking the census.

Officials say it will take about two weeks to canvass city areas and about a month to cover rural areas. Under the law, the census bureau has until Dec. 1 to compile the official figures for each of the 48 states and until Dec. 31, 1952, to complete all the varied reports which will come out of seventeenth census of the United States.

It has been predicted that the final count will show there are 150,000,000 Americans. 45,000,000 homes and 6,300,000 farms in the nation.

The 195 census will be the largest ever undertaken by the United States.

ALASKA

the senate appropriations committee.

He was called here for testimony after senators noticed an Eisenhower speech indicated this country had disarmed along some lines beyond the point of safety

In his testimony the wartime leader said a surprise airborne attack could hit Alaska "five minutes" after being launched from Russian soil.

Although Eisenhower listed the defense proposals by priority he cautioned congresss against looking only at the top of his list.

"One peculiarity of a military establishment is that it is, in a crisis, only as strong as its weekest link," he warned.

"In spite of this observation, I still believe that some defense of Alaska is so importatnt that it should be considered above the others, both in time and importance."

Eisenhower repeated his recommendation that each major airfield in the Alaska area should have "not less than a reinforced infantry battalion and an anti-aircraft artillery."

"I believe that as a minimum we should place a garrison on the major airfields in the Fairbanks-Anchorage area," he said. "The service staffs might recommend small garrisons at a few other stations, particularly in the establishing of a radar screen in Alaska, but the Fairbanks-Anchorage area is of clear importance."

A radar screen is a chain of modern radio detecting devices and stations able to warn of any aircraft approaching the area.

In his testimony Eisenhower said this work should be started at once and completed in not less than three years.

The general upheld President Truman's recommendation for a 48-group regular air force, backed up 12 groups of National Guard or reserve, but he stressed that all these aircraft must be modernized.

Eisenhower acknowledged forgetting one "important point" in his testimony Wednesday, the "modernization of certain types of army equipment."

He said recent defense budgets had ignored these requirements "because of over-riding priorities in other directions."

"The time has come when we cannot afford longer to delay the modernization of such types as tanks, anti-aircraft artillery, recoilless weapons and the various classes of vehicular equipment," he said.

Thomas, who left here today by airplane for Oklahoma, said that most of Eisenhower's proposals were caused by Russia.

"What we are doing is getting ready for war," Thomas told newsmen. "Russia is doing the same thing but if we get ready we might be able to prevent it."

BOND ISSUE VOTE

perty owning voters who will be eligible to vote Tuesday. It is expected that a fairly heavy vote will be cast.

There has been no organized opposition to the bond issue while, on the other hand, many organizations have endorsed the measure. A number of these groups have advocated adequate sewerage for many years.

"The city commission council has called a special tax election for Tuesday, April 4, for the purpose of voting a bond issue of one million dollars with which to extend the present trunk lines of the city's sewerage systems.

"The lack of adequate sewerage facilities in the newer sections of our city has long been one of our most serious needs. It is a must from a health standpoint.

"After much study and careful consideration of the problem we believe we have a comprehensive sewerage program that is fair and just to everyone in our city. The program is in two phases. First, the city-wide voting of a one million dollar bond issue to extend the present sewerage trunk lines, and, second, the formation of sewerage districts, in the areas without sewerage, to finance the laying of the lateral lines within the districts.

"The first phase of the program will be city-wide and all property owning taxpayers of the entire city will be asked to vote a 1 1-2 mill tax to raise the one million dollars necessary to extend the present sewerage trunk lines.

"Only those areas in the city now without sewerage will participate in the second phase of the program.

"The special tax election called for April 4, concerns only the first phase of our sewerage program.

"In order to properly understand the issue, it should be realized that the old city, meaning the city as it existed prior to 1928, has for some time been paying 5 3-4 mills more tax than the new city, being those additions annexed to the city since 1928.

"This difference in tax rate of 5 3-4 mills has been financing the cost of the electric and water systems and the old sewerage system. The new city has never paid this tax, although, it has always received its water and electricity at the same rate as the old city.

"If taxes are equalized as required by law on all property within the city, the only millage affected will be the 5 3-4 mills above mentioned. We propose to equalize the tax rate throughout the entire city which will mean a reduction of 1 1/2 mills in the tax rate of the old city and an increase of 4 1-4 mills in the tax rate of the new city.

"If the entire city votes 1 1-2 mills, the tax rate in the old city will not be increased but will remain exactly as it exists today. The tax rate in the new city will be increased by 5 3-4 mills, but the tax rate in the entire city will be the same for the first time in nearly twenty-five years and we will have one city with equal facilities throughout.

"Upon completion of this program all parts of Monroe "old and new" will be required to use sewerage facilities.

"For your information we are enclosing herewith a plat showing the existing sewerage trunk lines, the proposed extensions to the trunk lines and the boundaries of the old city. Also, we are enclosing a tax study showing all municipal taxes as they exist today and as they will exist after the bond issue has been voted.

"We strongly urge that you go to the polls on Tuesday, April 4, 1950, and vote "yes" for our sewerage program in order to carry out this important sewerage program which will make Monroe a more healthy and prosperous city."

Automobile Reported Stolen In West Monroe

An automobile belonging to J. N. Edwards was reported stolen yesterday afternoon in West Monroe.

Edwards, a resident of Rt. 3, West Monroe, told the police the car was a 1941 Chevrolet, bearing license number 226-812. The car was stolen from the 100 block of Cotton street.

CENSUS TAKERS START COUNTING

Nation's Seventeenth Nose Count Being Conducted By Staff Of 145,000

WASHINGTON, April 1. —(AP)— The big door-to-door quiz of 1950 was launched today by 145,000 census takers.

Four weeks from now—after visiting every family in the United States in the 17th nose count in the nation's history—the enumerators will hang up their walking shoes until 1960, when the huge tallying job starts all over.

Meanwhile, they will have learned that the nation's 1950 population totals something over 151,000,000, plus about 4,000,000 more in the territories and possessions. They probably will have found that California has been the big gainer, and is therefore entitled to seven more seats in the house of representatives.

They also will have the ingredients for valuable statistics on a wide range of subjects—like the number of farms equipped with machinery, and the number of kitchen equipped with sinks.

Those questions are on the list being asked by the enumerators, along with others dealing with the marital status, race, sex, age and occupation of every American.

Girl Scouts and Paramount theater are bringing "Women of Tomorrow" to Monroe today, Monday and Tuesday in an 18-minute technicolor film which had its world premiere, March 10 in New Bedford, Mass where much of the picture was filmed. The public will be interested in this picture, starting with a Brownie Scout making her promise and which takes her through senior Scouting and shows the benefits which are derived from this worthwhile Girl Scout program that encircles the globe. The local council urges that children, parents and others interested in youth will see this picture.

A certain theater manager the other day is reported to have been greatly surprised as well as pleased when he received a letter with check which stated.

"Dear Sir: I guess you remember the time I wrote you and asked forgiveness for entering your theater at half fare when I should have paid adult admissioh. I beliee. I've saved enough to send you what I owe you. I figure I owe you about $2. The money is enclosed. Since the Lord has saved me and changed my life, I'm making my wrongs right. Thank you."

Tax Assessor Bert Coverdale announces that now we have turned the corner into April, that April 15 will be the last day to sign homestead tax exemption applications. He urges all who have failed to do so to come to his office and give the matter prompt attention. As ever he has all papers made out and it will take only the fraction of a minute to sign up. That's his efficient way of serving the public.

The civil air patrol reminds the young people of Twin Cities that rides are still being given to interested high school students who bring a note of permission from their parents. These rides are given to increase interest in the C.A.P. and are conducted by registered pilots with every precaution made for a safe voyage.

The rides Sunday will start at 2:00 p.m. and continue until 5:30 but arrangements can be made for earlier rides if a call is made to Capt. Jack Hover at 834, Lieut. Joe Joseph at 8972, or Capt. Chas. Stratford at 4320 or 2298.

Girls are invited as well as boys and special arrangements are made for groups of three or four students.

There is little reason to fear for what has been termed "race suicide" if the Pittman family of Epps is taken as an example. Picture of their most recent additions, triplets, is shown in this issue in another column. Father and mother seem quite happy with their group and all the world despite the fact that they had five children when the triplets arrived just 19 months ago. The triplets are named Wilma, William and Wilford. The five children in the family before triplets arrived are: Doyle, 15; Markle, 12; Gayle 9; Roland7 and Jeanette, 5.

Father Pittman does not have full time employment and states that his health is not good but they manage to make out with the aid of some welfare assistance.

Dr. C. C. Colvert and Mrs. Colvert of Austin, Tex., spent Friday night in Monroe. They were enroute home from Roanoke, Va., where Dr. Colvert attended the annual convention of junior colleges. He is a former dean of Northeast Junior College and is now in charge of junior colleges for the state of Texas which are operated through state university supervision.

The former dean regretted that he was unable to see many of his old time friends but making less than a 24-hour stay, it was possible to see only a few of his former associates in the Twin Cities.

Sam H. Awl, city building inspector, on Saturday rounded out 14 years in this office. He has seen, quite naturally, much construction in this period of time and he anticipates that in years to come it will show far greater increase then ever as the city expands in several directions.

In the West Monroe aldermanic race a candidate must receive more than half of the total votes cast in the primary election to be elected. Each voter is required to vote for five candidates or his ballot will be spoiled.

The election officials at the polls in Monroe and West Monroe will be identical in both elections in progress, but for state representative the hours are 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. In the sewer bond issue election hours are 7 a.m. to 6 p.m.

In West Monroe polls in both cases open at 6 a.m. and close at 7 p.m.

CENSUS

must be answered. But government officials insist that the data on income will be kept secret.

If, after two attempts, a census enumerator cannot get in touch with persons in a household, he will leave an extensive form of four pages, including income questions to be filled out, sealed and left for the enumerator.

Enumerators themselves are political appointees, but they face stiff criminal penalties for divulging information obtained while taking the census.

Officials say it will take about two weeks to canvass city areas and about a month to cover rural areas. Under the law, the census bureau has until Dec. 1 to compile the official figures for each of the 48 states and until Dec. 31, 1952, to complete all the varied reports which will come out of seventeenth census of the United States.

It has been predicted that the final count will show there are 150,000,000 Americans. 45,000,000 homes and 6,300,000 farms in the nation.

The 195 census will be the largest ever undertaken by the United States.

ALASKA

the senate appropriations committee.

He was called here for testimony after senators noticed an Eisenhower speech indicated this country had disarmed along some lines beyond the point of safety

In his testimony the wartime leader said a surprise airborne attack could hit Alaska "five minutes" after being launched from Russian soil.

Although Eisenhower listed the defense proposals by priority he cautioned congresss against looking only at the top of his list.

"One peculiarity of a military establishment is that it is, in a crisis, only as strong as its weekest link," he warned.

"In spite of this observation, I still believe that some defense of Alaska is so importatnt that it should be considered above the others, both in time and importance."

Eisenhower repeated his recommendation that each major airfield in the Alaska area should have "not less than a reinforced infantry battalion and an anti-aircraft artillery."

"I believe that as a minimum we should place a garrison on the major airfields in the Fairbanks-Anchorage area," he said. "The service staffs might recommend small garrisons at a few other stations, particularly in the establishing of a radar screen in Alaska, but the Fairbanks-Anchorage area is of clear importance."

A radar screen is a chain of modern radio detecting devices and stations able to warn of any aircraft approaching the area.

In his testimony Eisenhower said this work should be started at once and completed in not less than three years.

The general upheld President Truman's recommendation for a 48-group regular air force, backed up 12 groups of National Guard or reserve, but he stressed that all these aircraft must be modernized.

Eisenhower acknowledged forgetting one "important point" in his testimony Wednesday, the "modernization of certain types of army equipment."

He said recent defense budgets had ignored these requirements "because of over-riding priorities in other directions."

"The time has come when we cannot afford longer to delay the modernization of such types as tanks, anti-aircraft artillery, recoilless weapons and the various classes of vehicular equipment," he said.

Thomas, who left here today by airplane for Oklahoma, said that most of Eisenhower's proposals were caused by Russia.

"What we are doing is getting ready for war," Thomas told newsmen. "Russia is doing the same thing but if we get ready we might be able to prevent it."

BOND ISSUE VOTE

perty owning voters who will be eligible to vote Tuesday. It is expected that a fairly heavy vote will be cast.

There has been no organized opposition to the bond issue while, on the other hand, many organizations have endorsed the measure. A number of these groups have advocated adequate sewerage for many years.

"The city commission council has called a special tax election for Tuesday, April 4, for the purpose of voting a bond issue of one million dollars with which to extend the present trunk lines of the city's sewerage systems.

"The lack of adequate sewerage facilities in the newer sections of our city has long been one of our most serious needs. It is a must from a health standpoint.

"After much study and careful consideration of the problem we believe we have a comprehensive sewerage program that is fair and just to everyone in our city. The program is in two phases. First, the city-wide voting of a one million dollar bond issue to extend the present sewerage trunk lines, and, second, the formation of sewerage districts, in the areas without sewerage, to finance he laying of the lateral lines within the districts.

"The first phase of the program will be city-wide and all property owning taxpayers of the entire city will be asked to vote a 1 1-2 mill tax to raise the one million dollars necessary to extend the present sewerage trunk lines.

"Only those areas in the city now without sewerage will participate in the second phase of the program.

"The special tax election called for April 4, concerns only the first phase of our sewerage program.

"In order to properly understand the issue, it should be realized that the old city, meaning the city as it existed prior to 1928, has for some time been paying 5 3-4 mills more tax than the new city, being those additions annexed to the city since 1928.

"This difference in tax rate of 5 3-4 mills has been financing the cost of the electric and water systems and the old sewerage system. The new city has never paid this tax, although, it has always received its water and electricity at the same rate as the old city.

"If taxes are equalized as required by law on all property within the city, the only millage affected will be the 5 3-4 mills above mentioned. We propose to equalize the tax rate throughout the entire city which will mean a reduction of 1 1-2 mills in the tax rate of the old city and an increase of 4 1-4 mills in the tax rate of the new city.

"If the entire city votes 1 1-2 mills, the tax rate in the old city will not be increased but will remain exactly as it exists today. The tax rate in the new city will be increased by 5 3-4 mills, but the tax rate in the entire city will be the same for the first time in nearly twenty-five years and we will have one city with equal facilities throughout.

"Upon completion of this program all parts of Monroe "old and new" will be required to use sewerage facilities.

"For your information we are enclosing herewith a plat showing the existing sewerage trunk lines, the proposed extensions to the trunk lines and the boundaries of the old city. Also, we are enclosing a tax study showing all municipal taxes as they exist today and as they will exist after the bond issue has been voted.

"We strongly urge that you go to the polls on Tuesday, April 4, 1950, and vote "yes" for our sewerage program in order to carry out this important sewerage program which will make Monroe a more healthy and prosperous city."

Automobile Reported Stolen In West Monroe

An automobile belonging to J. N. Edwards was reported stolen yesterday afternoon in West Monroe.

Edwards, a resident of Rt. 3, West Monroe, told the police the car was a 1941 Chevrolet, bearing license number 226-812. The car was stolen from the 100 block of Cotton street.

CENSUS TAKERS START COUNTING

Nation's Seventeenth Nose Count Being Conducted By Staff Of 145,000

WASHINGTON, April 1. —(AP)— The big door-to-door quiz of 1950 was launched today by 145,000 census takers.

Four weeks from now—after visiting every family in the United States in the 17th nose count in the nation's history—the enumerators will hang up their walking shoes until 1960, when the huge tallying job starts all over.

Meanwhile, they will have learned that the nation's 1950 population totals something over 151,000,000, plus about 4,000,000 more in the territories and possessions. They probably will have found that California has been the big gainer, and is therefore entitled to seven more seats in the house of representatives.

They also will have the ingredients for valuable statistics on a wide range of subjects—like the number of farms equipped with machinery, and the number of kitchen equipped with sinks.

Those questions are on the list being asked by the enumerators, along with others dealing with the marital status, race, sex, age and occupation of every American.

the joint chiefs of staff, reviewed the pact powers' financial situation and ordered production chiefs to expedite the standardization of military equipment.

The plan adopted was drafted earlier this week by the military committee, joining in one instrument a strategic program prepared by the five regional sectors of the alliance and assigning to each member the role it is to play in countering any aggression.

Without mentioning Soviet Russia by name, Secretary Johnson laid down the three-fold objective of the 12 member nations in a speech:

"First we seek to deter aggression if he forces war upon us."

Girl Scouts and Paramount theater are bringing "Women of Tomorrow" to Monroe today, Monday and Tuesday in an 18-minute technicolor film which had its world premiere, March 10 in New Bedford, Mass where much of the picture was filmed. The public will be interested in this picture, starting with a Brownie Scout making her promise and which takes her through senior Scouting and shows the benefits which are derived from this worthwhile Girl Scout program that encircles the globe. The local council urges that children, parents and others interested in youth will see this picture.

A certain theater manager the other day is reported to have been greatly surprised as well as pleased when he received a letter with check which stated.

"Dear Sir: I guess you remember the time I wrote you and asked forgiveness for entering your theater at half fare when I should have paid adult admissioh. I beliee. I've saved enough to send you what I owe you. I figure I owe you about $2. The money is enclosed. Since the Lord has saved me and changed my life, I'm making my wrongs right. Thank you."

Tax Assessor Bert Coverdale announces that now we have turned the corner into April, that April 15 will be the last day to sign homestead tax exemption applications. He urges all who have failed to do so to come to his office and give the matter prompt attention. As ever he has all papers made out and it will take only the fraction of a minute to sign up. That's his efficient way of serving the public.

The civil air patrol reminds the young people of Twin Cities that rides are still being given to interested high school students who bring a note of permission from their parents. These rides are given to increase interest in the C.A.P. and are conducted by registered pilots with every precaution made for a safe voyage.

The rides Sunday will start at 2:00 p.m. and continue until 5:30 but arrangements can be made for earlier rides if a call is made to Capt. Jack Hover at 834, Lieut. Joe Joseph at 8972, or Capt. Chas. Stratford at 4320 or 2298.

Girls are invited as well as boys and special arrangements are made for groups of three or four students.

There is little reason to fear for what has been termed "race suicide" if the Pittman family of Epps is taken as an example. Picture of their most recent additions, triplets, is shown in this issue in another column. Father and mother seem quite happy with their group and all the world despite the fact that they had five children when the triplets arrived just 19 months ago. The triplets are named Wilma, William and Wilford. The five children in the family before triplets arrived are: Doyle, 15; Markle, 12; Gayle 9; Roland7 and Jeanette, 5.

Father Pittman does not have full time employment and states that his health is not good but they manage to make out with the aid of some welfare assistance.

Dr. C. C. Colvert and Mrs. Colvert of Austin, Tex., spent Friday night in Monroe. They were enroute home from Roanoke, Va., where Dr. Colvert attended the annual convention of junior colleges. He is a former dean of Northeast Junior College and is now in charge of junior colleges for the state of Texas which are operated through state university supervision.

The former dean regretted that he was unable to see many of his old time friends but making less than a 24-hour stay, it was possible to see only a few of his former associates in the Twin Cities.

Sam H. Awl, city building inspector, on Saturday rounded out 14 years in this office. He has seen, quite naturally, much construction in this period of time and he anticipates that in years to come it will show far greater increase then ever as the city expands in several directions.

Curtain Call
by Sue Williams

"The Voice of the Turtle", Monroe Little Theatre's fifth production for the 1949-50 season, from the pen of Author John van Druten had its opening premiere at the Schubert Theatre, New Haven, Conn. on November 4, 1943. That same year on December 8, 1943 it opened on Broadway and ran well into its third year before it took to the road for a successful road tour.

The sprightly, human comedy of "The Voice of the Turtle" leaves one a little in awe of the fact that Playwright van Druten born in London in 1901, began his career with a bachelor of law degree. Talents such as he possessed were not to be stilled and his second play "Young Woodley", objectional to the long haired of English government, opened on Broadway in 1925 and proved an instant success, opening in London three years later.

Author van Druten came to the United States on a lecture tour in 1926 and completed his naturalization to this country in Los Angeles in 1944. Described as an accurate observer, he had nineteen productions to his credit between 1928 and 1943, mostly comedies of manner and character. "Old Acquaintance" one of his better known plays is a charming adult study of feminine friendship. His sensative collaboration with Lloyd Norris on "Damask Cheek" proved his ability as a director, a trade which he does well for he also directed "The Voice of the Turtle" for producer Alfred de Liagre. He is credited with the play "I Remember Mamma" which he adapted for Rodgers and Hammerstein from Kathryn Forbes' novel "Mamma's Bank Account". "There's Always Juliette" is another of his plays that has enjoyed much success in both professional and community theatre.

RANDOM NOTES—Say you know spring is in the air and Easter Sunday just around the corner. The budding flowers and schrubs were not all that reminded us of this wonderful season of the year. Helen and Ralph Bird were week ending this week at a camp on Lake Bruin . . . Frank and Beth Breese with sons Kim and Frederick, Bill Bassett, Evelyn and Dan Moore were guests of Evelyn's former school chum Millette Fletcher at the family camp near DeRidder. Frank says 'No dish washing for me on this trip," he must still be remembering holding down the fort while Beth was working on that wonderful job she did of Amanda in "The Glass Menagerie"—Our artist of Little Theatre circles, Leigh Russell was all aglow on Saturday, anticipating the arrival of her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Skinner and their two daughters from Evanston, Ill. They will arrive sometime Tuesday afternoon, via automobile for the Easter holidays—Director Stocker Fontelieu took advantage of these few days rest before starting rehearsal of "The Voice of the Turtle", to chaper one group of O. P. H. S. students to the Music Festival in Ruston where approximately twelve parishes were participating. In the choral events held on Friday, O. P. H. S. came through with a rating of superior on seven. Stocker said this was his first time to hear the famous Ouachita choir that made last years trip to Llangollyn Wales. He described them as simply wonderful, "They were so good that I had chills up and down my spine just listening to them." He must have been much impressed with his visit, because he returned Saturday for the band part of the festival.

Youth Balances Self On His Plastic Legs

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 1. —(AP)—Freddie Thomason, a cheerful young fellow, balanced himself carefully on plastic legs today and beamed proudly at his approving mother.

And standing alone was a major accomplishment for two-year-old Freddie—born without arms or legs.

He and his mother, Mrs. Herschel Thomason of Magnolia, Ark., arrived here by plane on their way home from Newark, N. J. where Freddie had been fitted with specially designed artificial legs.

"I hope to be able to teach him how to walk within the next four months," Mrs. Thomason said. "And then we return to Newark. I am so thankful for the help we've received."

Freddie may receive artificial arms at a later date. He is being helped in his fight for a more normal life by the Magnolia Kiwanis Club, which figures the project will cost $15,000.

Mrs. Thomason said she expected to arrive home late tonight.

Slight Tremor Felt At Columbia, S. C.

COLUMBIA, S. C., April 1.—(AP)—A slight earth tremor shook Columbi . at 12:54 p.m. (EST) today, according to the University of South Carolina's seismograph.

Dr. Charles F. Mercer, physics department head, said the seismograph showed the quake lasted only five seconds. It did not compare in intensity, he added, with a one-minute quake recorded July 27, 1945.

Mercer said the tremor was felt in the university library but that when he was infromed he thought it an "April Fool's Day" joke. Then he looked at the seismograph.

STATIONERS START CONVENTION HERE

Over 200 Delegates Participate In Dance Launching Activities

Saturday afternoon marked the opening of the annual convention of the Printers and Stationers Association of Louisiana at the Frances Hotel in Monroe. The highlight of the social and entertainment activities for more than two hundred delegates and their families was the dance Saturday night at the Cherokee Terrace of the Frances, featuring the music of Collie Fontana and his orchestra.

Business sessions and addresses by prominent leaders of the industry occupied the time of the delegates in the afternoon, from the invocation at 2:30 until business meetings adjourned shortly after five. Speakers at the afternoon sessions included Howard Dear of Jackson, Miss., and J. Snyder Consoulin of the U. S. Department of Labor in New Orleans.

While the delegates were attending the industry talks, their wives were entertained at an afternoon tea at the Lotus Club, later rejoining the men at a cocktail party at the Frances.

At seven, the entire convention met again at the banquet in the hotel. Principal speaker for the occasion was Dr. R. O. Cawker of Shreveport, who discussed "Organization and What It Means."

Business sessions resume at 9:30 today, stressing the stationery industry's problems and practices. Before adjournment shortly after noon today, officers for the next year will be selected and the convention city for 1951 chosen.

General chairman of the convention is Sam Futrell of Monroe, with A. V. Breard serving as co-chairman. The meeting is sponsored by local member firms of the association.

Singing Telegrams Humming Once More

"Happy birthday to you. Happy birthday to you, Happy birthday, dear honer, Happy birthday to you."

With these words, sent by a Monroe girl this morning to a boy in another city, the famous singing telegram made its long awaited return to the local scene.

Now people here may send "Happy Birthday to you" telegrams to be sung to their friends and loved ones in 77 large cities in all parts of the country.

Since good messenger crooners are scarce, Miss Bess Owens, Western Union relief manager explained, delivery of singing telegrams will be made by girls at the telegraph company's switchboards in cities where the company has enough songbirds in its offices to provide the service.

The singing telegram was discontinued in September, 1942 to leave the wires and telegraph people free to handle vital war messages. With the resumption of the service today, cartoonists, columnists and commentators can sharpen their pencils and get out of their files the countless stories and jokes they used in the years when millions of people sent telegrams in song. Few customs in our generation have been the subject of more wit and alleged humor.

JAMES HALL

James Hall Is Back On Furlough

James H. Hall, known to intimate friends of Monroe as "Bobo", son of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus J. Hall of 217 Peach Street, Monroe, is home on furlough. He states, "It sure is nice to get back to Monroe among old friends."

James graduated from O.P.H.S., class of 1948. Attended Louisiana Polytechnic Institute one semester. Being of draft age, he decided to fulfill the requirements of the national military draft law and get that over with. James could have enlisted for one year, instead, he chose the three year term, because he qualified for and was assured of attending the navy's trade school for electronics technician.

He was "sworn in" on January 4, 1949. Since then he has completed 13 weeks of recruit training at San Diego, Calif., and a 42 week "pressure course" in electronics at San Francisco, Calif.

Arkansas Woman, Who Was Near 102, Dies

TEXARKANA, Ark., April 1. —(AP)—Mrs. Fannie Judith Gill, who would have been 102 on April 20, died today at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Joe E. Gill here.

Mrs. Gill was born April 20, 1848 at Arkadelphia, Ark., the daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. John D. Parker. The family moved to Ashdown and was living there when the civil war broke out.

Mrs. Gill made her home here since the death of her husband, W. R. Gill, 26 years ago.

She also is survived by another daughter, Mrs. Frank Perrin, Atlanta, Tex., a step-daughter, Mrs. Jack Bearden, Ashdown, and a brother, L. E. Parker, Conroe, Tex.

Funeral services will be held here Monday morning and burial will be in the Ashdown cemetery.

FERRIDAY

Mrs. Nell Gates and sons, of Winnsboro, visited relatives in Ferriday over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Burley will spend the week end in Baton Rouge as guests of Mrs. E. Barnett and Mrs. H. Cunningham.

The movie projector, which has been donated to the club from the T. B. Association, has been received. This projector is to be used by schools, churches, and other civic organizations. Election of officers for the coming year was held with the following results: president, Mrs. Josephine Warren; vice-president, Mrs. Johnny Vollmer; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Martha West, and corresponding secretary, Mrs. Lane Crews. During the interesting program, color films on "The New South" and "Highlights of 1949" were shown on the new projector. During the social hour, the hostess served a delicious dessert course to the 18 members and two guests present. The next meting is slated for the home of Mrs. Bob Warren.

Mr. and Mrs. Enoch McLain and family spent several days last week in New Orleans.

George Latham and Cecil Hart have joined the army. They left Monday for Alexandria and from there they will be sent to their stations.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Shruber, of Alexandria, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Shruber and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lindley and son visited relatives recently in Gainesville, Texas.

Mrs Garth Randall is a patient in the Ferriday hospital.

Barbara Bateman, daughter of Mr and Mrs Hugh Bateman, continues to be quite ill at the Ferriday hospital.

Des Moines Makes Plans For Maxim, Cestac Match

DES MOINES, April 1.—(AP)—Plans to promote a heavyweight fight in Des Moines in June between Abel Cestac, Argentine fighter, and Joey Maxim were announced here today.

Jack Dempsey said he and Pinky George, Des Moines sports promoter, already have signed Cestac for the projected bout and that negotiations are under way to attempt to sign Maxim.

The proposed fight would be an outdoor affair in the Des Moines ball park.

Maxim, world light heavyweight champion of Cleveland, recently defeated England's Freddie Mills in a fight in London.

Curtain Call
by Sue Williams

"The Voice of the Turtle", Monroe Little Theatre's fifth production for the 1949-50 season, from the pen of Author John van Druten had its opening premiere at the Schubert Theatre, New Haven, Conn. on November 4, 1943. That same year on December 8, 1943 it opened on Broadway and ran well into its third year before it took to the road for a successful road tour.

The sprightly, human comedy of "The Voice of the Turtle" leaves one a little in awe of the fact that Playwright van Druten born in London in 1901, began his career with a bachelor of law degree. Talents such as he possessed were not to be stilled and his second play "Young Woodley", objectional to the long haired of English government, opened on Broadway in 1925 and proved an instant success, opening in London three years later.

Author van Druten came to the United States on a lecture tour in 1926 and completed his naturalization to this country in Los Angeles in 1944. Described as an accurate observer, he had nineteen productions to his credit between 1928 and 1943, mostly comedies of manner and character. "Old Acquaintance" one of his better known plays is a charming adult study of feminine friendship. His sensative collaboration with Lloyd Norris on "Damask Cheek" proved his ability as a director, a trade which he does well for he also directed "The Voice of the Turtle" for producer Alfred de Liagre. He is credited with the play "I Remember Mamma" which he adapted for Rodgers and Hammerstein from Kathryn Forbes' novel "Mamma's Bank Account". "There's Always Juliette" is another of his plays that has enjoyed much success in both professional and community theatre.

RANDOM NOTES—Say you know spring is in the air and Easter Sunday just around the corner. The budding flowers and schrubs were not all that reminded us of this wonderful season of the year. Helen and Ralph Bird were week ending this week at a camp on Lake Bruin . . . Frank and Beth Breese with sons Kim and Frederick, Bill Bassett, Evelyn and Dan Moore were guests of Evelyn's former school chum Millette Fletcher at the family camp near DeRidder. Frank says 'No dish washing for me on this trip," he must still be remembering holding down the fort while Beth was working on that wonderful job she did of Amanda in "The Glass Menagerie"—Our artist of Little Theatre circles, Leigh Russell was all aglow on Saturday, anticipating the arrival of her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Skinner and their two daughters from Evanston, Ill. They will arrive sometime Tuesday afternoon, via automobile for the Easter holidays—Director Stocker Fontelieu took advantage of these few days rest before starting rehearsal of "The Voice of the Turtle", to chaper one group of O. P. H. S. students to the Music Festival in Ruston where approximately twelve parishes were participating. In the choral events held on Friday, O. P. H. S. came through with a rating of superior on seven. Stocker said this was his first time to hear the famous Ouachita choir that made last years trip to Llangollyn Wales. He described them as simply wonderful, "They were so good that I had chills up and down my spine just listening to them." He must have been much impressed with his visit, because he returned Saturday for the band part of the festival.

Youth Balances Self On His Plastic Legs

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 1.—(AP)—Freddie Thomason, a cheerful young fellow, balanced himself carefully on plastic legs today and beamed proudly at his approving mother.

And standing alone was a major accomplishment for two-year-old Freddie—born without arms or legs.

He and his mother, Mrs. Herschel Thomason of Magnolia, Ark., arrived here by plane on their way home from Newark, N. J. where Freddie had been fitted with specially designed artificial legs.

"I hope to be able to teach him how to walk within the next four months," Mrs. Thomason said. "And then we return to Newark. I am so thankful for the help we've received."

Freddie may receive artificial arms at a later date. He is being helped in his fight for a more normal life by the Magnolia Kiwanis Club, which figures the project will cost $15,000.

Mrs. Thomason said she expected to arrive home late tonight.

LA. COLLEGE WINS NORTHWESTERN RELAYS

COLUMBIA COMES HOME 1ST IN 'B-C' SECTION OF MEET

Ouachita Finishes 3rd In A-AA Division; Neville Ranks 7th

NATCHITOCHES, La., April 1.—(AP)—Louisiana College of Pineville took four first places to win the college division of the Northwestern Relays today. Wet weather hurt the times in all events.

The Louisiana College trackmen won the 440-yard relay, the 100-yard dash, the shotput and tied for first in the high jump.

Two seconds and two thirds brought their point total to 36 5/6. Northwestern State of Natchitoches was second with 29 1/6 points, Southwestern Louisiana Institute third with 16 and Loyola of the South of New Orleans fourth with 10 points.

In the high school division, Bossier City High won the Class A and AA section with 51 points and Columbia won the B and C class with 39 1/2 points.

Following in the A-AA class were Byrd of Shreveport 43, Ouachita of Monroe 14, Springhill 12 1/2, Bolton of Alexandria 11, Haynesville 10, Neville of Monroe 6 1/2, Fair Park of Shreveport 3 1/2, and Oakdale 2 1/2.

Trailing Columbia in the B-C class were Rodessa 34 1/2, Mamou 33, Plain Dealing 12, Dry Prong 11 1/2, Adax 5, Hall Summitt 5, Coushatta 5, West Lake 3 1/2, Zwolle 2 1/2, Iowa 2, Pelican 1, Camtp 1, and Georgetown 1/2.

The outstanding feature of the high school section was the performance of the four-man Mamou team. The four boys won all three relay events, getting a fine 3:35.5 mile time. The team was made up of Fuselier, Johnson, Cloud and Young.

Summary:

High jump—Won by Johnny McConathy of Northwestern State James Poole of Northwestern, and Eugene Langford of Louisiana College (all tied), 5 feet 10 inches.

Sugar Bowl Cage Selections Made

NEW ORLEANS, April 1.—(AP)— Participants in the 1950 Sugar Bowl Basketball Tournament were named today: Bradley University, University of Kentucky, St. Louis University and Syracuse University.

Of the four named by the New Orleans Mid - Winter Sports Association, Sugar Bowl sponsors, only Syracuse is a newcomer to the tourney. St. Louis won the tourney title in 1948 and Kentucky in 1949, the latter defeating Bradley 71-66 for the title.

Bradley, ranked No. 1 in the nation during the 1949-50 season won 27 of 30 games, was National Collegiate Athletic Association western champion, Missouri Valley Champion and runner-up in both the N. C. A. A. and N. I. T. tourneys.

Kentucky won the Southeastern Conference title for the 12th time after winning 22 of 26 games, including the Sugar Bowl title.

The Sugar Bowl tournament is scheduled for Dec. 29-30, with two games to be played each night. First night winners will play for the title Dec. 30 while the losers battle for consolation honors.

National Prep Game Billed For Memphis

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas, April 1.—(AP)—The second annual National High School All-American football game will be played in Crump Stadium at Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 10. Mose Simms, chairman of the game committee of the Wigwam Wisemen of America announced this today.

Simms said Memphis was chosen because of its fine stadium, training facilities, hotels and geographical location. The game will be at night.

"Memphis always has been a great prep football center and this game will highlight the 1950 season," Simms said.

Forty-four high school senior football players of the 1949 season will be selected from the All-American prep squad that was picked last January 13 by the Wigwam Wisemen, an organization with headquarters in Oklahoma City.

Twenty-two boys will be named from east of the Mississippi river to make up one squad. Twenty-two from west of the Mississippi will make up the other.

Last year the East team defeated the West squad 12-7.

Bill Holland Races Today In Reading Big Car Event

READING, Pa., April 1.—(AP)—Bill Holland, winner of the 1949 Indianapolis 500, heads an imposing list of drivers in tomorrow's seven-event big car sprint program at the Reading Fairgrounds.

Others participating as the 1950 eastern auto race season opens are Lee Wallard, Altamont, N. Y.; George Lynch, Detroit; Tommy Hinnershitz, Reading; Spider Webb, Dayton, O.; Mark Light, Lebanon, Pa.; Ed Terry, New Brunswick, N. J.; Otis Stine, York, Pa.; Mike Josephs, Philadelphia; Hank Rogers, Fords, N. J., and Buster Werke, Allentown, Pa.

CURTIS, STEDDUM, 'BLACK PHANTOM' APPEAR ON SHOW

Joe Wolfe, Max Pazzello Also Billed For Date In Mass Mayhem

A five-man battle royal headlines Tuesday's mat show at Gus "Wild Bill" Steddum, Joe Wolfe, Kallio's Arena with Jack Curtis, "Black Phantom," and a newcomer to the southern wrestling circuit, Max Pazzello, furnishing the entertainment.

Promoter Kallio last night said the mass mayhem that brought such a rousing finish to last Tuesday's tag team scramble between men and girls had decided him on the battle royal this week although he has billed such events before.

But the battle royal will be the opening event on the card, beginning at 8 o'clock, with results of the event to determine the lineup for semi-final and final matches to follow.

First wrestler to be pinned in the mad scramble will be through for the night. The next two to bow out will come back for the semi-final match.

The last two wrestlers on their feet in the opener will wait until after the semi-final to come back and decide the best man of the night in the final bout on the card.

Kallio said he has promised a bonus of $10 extra to the wrestler winning a pin fall in the battle royal. It is possible for the same wrestler to eliminate three and thereby claim a total of $30 bonus.

The semi-final will have an hour time limit, and the nightcap will have a 90-minute limit.

Regular admission prices, now that the girls are gone, will be back in force, and Bill Barney will referee.

Awards Worth $10,000 Offered In Penn Relays

PHILADELPHIA, March 31.—(AP)—Cups, medallions, watches, medals, wreaths, ribbons and batons valued at approximately $10,000 will be distributed to winners in the 56th annual Penn Relay Carnival on Franklin Field April 28 and 29.

The latest addition to the trophy collection is a new Mike Murphy Challenge Cup to be presented to the winner of the one-mile relay championship of America. The cup is being placed in competition by W. West Frazier, Third, a former track manager who was a personal friend of Mike Murphy, former Penn track coach and trainer.

More than 400 schools and colleges have signified their intention to take part in the relays.

Four Famous Tennis Stars Coming Here

Four of the world's best-known tennis stars will make their initial appearance in Monroe Thursday, April 27. The troupe, led by net star Bobby Riggs, and featuring Jack Kramer, Pancho Gonzales and Frank Parker, are slated to appear in the Ouachita Parish High School gymnasium under the sponsorship of the Optimist Club of Monroe.

The four-star group, which boasts the holders of many net championships, is touring the country, playing in smaller cities where the tennis enthusiasts have not had the opportunity of seeing championship play.

Prices of admission and distribution plans for tickets have not yet been announced.

CROWVILLE ENDS GRID WORKOUTS

'Whites' Beat 'Greens,' 7 To 0; Coach Kay Announces Schedule

CROWVILLE, La., April 1.—(Special)—The Whites downed the Greens, 7 to 0, here Thursday night as the Crowville High School Bulldogs ended four weeks of spring football training with their intra-squad game.

The Whites scored on a pass from Ralph Lewis to Royce Parker with less than two minutes of playing time remaining. Marvin Womack went over for the extra point. Each team made 16 first downs during the game but bogged down in payoff territory.

Coaches Leo Kay and Vernon Beall expressed pleasure at the showing of their squad.

Playing for the Greens were Norris and Knox, ends; Stevens and Chowns, tackles; M. Jester and Curry, guards; J. Parker, center; and Mixon, Ashley, Rhodes, and Guy, backs. For the Whites it was Clay and Laird, ends; G. Franklin and McManus, tackles; L. Jester and Lanier, guards; Clement, center; and Lewis, Womack, Moore, and Parker, backs.

Coach Kay announced his 1950 schedule as follows:

Sept. 15-Clarks, here.
Sept. 22-Sicily Island, there.
Sept. 29-Newellton, there.
Oct. 6-St. Matthew's at Monroe.
Oct. 13-Block of Jonesville, here.
Oct. 20-Start, there.
Oct. 26-L. T. I. of Monroe, here.

DEMON GYMNASTS WILL SHOW HERE

Unusual Presentation To Be Introduced At Neville Tuesday Night

It's new! It's different! It's thrilling! Three main descriptions of the coming gym circus with plans being made for presentation at the Neville High School auditorium, Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. This program is being sponsored by the Ouachita parish unit of the Northwestern State College Alumni Association.

Although this is sponsored by the Ouachita parish unit, there will be no admission charge.

Under the able direction of John Piscopo, thrills, spills and fascinating breath-taking acts for the audience will be staged. Everyone who saw the show here last year will remember the enjoyment received from the full hour's entertainment.

Something new has been added to the well-rounded cast of last year's troupe, and it will be the main feature of this year's show. That being the 'Living Statuaries", or "Men in Bronze." This tablo will present the muscles of men in action and experiments are now made for the use of the "black light."

Al Kopp, 1949 all-round gymnastic champion, again will be one of the feature attractions.

Burt Babcock, a new member of the group, and former L. S. U. gymnast, will join Al and Piscopo in a parallel bar exhibition.

Fred "Sonny" Hoff, fast-rising Demon star, will present an exhibition of advanced skills on the "trampoline." Joining him in this act will be Dale Branch and Chuck Castaing.

A balance quartet, composed of Bill Barnidge, Burt Babcock, Al Kopp and John Piscopo will give breath-taking acts on the parallel bars.

Kopp and Babcock will team with Sonny Hoff on the still and flying rings.

A comedy duo and gym trix will be furnished by Ken Howard, Slim Howell, and Ralph "Kayo" Gremillion.

Fast-action tumbling will be seen when Ben Duhon, Richard Henderson Dale Branch, Burt Babcock, Ken Howard, Al Kopp, and Chuck Castaing cover the mats in split-second acts.

Gene Flores, Demonairre leader, will combine his acrobatic skill and comedy acts for another feature.

The main attraction of this year's show will be the" Living Statuaries." The men who will put this part of the show over are Lee Reese, Bill Barnidge, Joe Holley, Kayo Gremillion, Pat Harrington, Jim Brannon, Fair Haynes, Ken Howard, Jack Gaston, and Joe.

Leland Langridge, Cecil Neilson, and Kellar Dick will present an Indian club drill.

LONGDEN RIDES

MELBOURNE, Australia, April 1. — (AP) — Ace American Jockey Johnny Longden rode Beau Gem in a six-furlong exhibition gallop at Caulfield Race course this afternoon. It was the American's first appearance here. Thousands of race fans cheered as he rode past the finishing post. The time was 1:12 3-4.

Connie Mack

My 66 Years In The Big Leagues

By

Connie Mack

The staff of four star pitchers was now down to two: only Benton and Dietrich were left. Benton having struck out eighteen men in six innings in exhibition games, should have done great things. For some unknown reason he just could not compete with the big league batters. He was good one day and average on his next appearance, so I had to send him out on option. I felt sure that Benton had big stuff in him once he started.

Now it was up to Dietrich, the last of the four. We had a little heart to heart talk. I said to him: "Bill, I've tried everything I know. I've tried you at starting your games and I've tried you at finishing games."

"Mr. Mack," he replied, as he kicked a clump of sod with his foot, "I'll tell you what's the matter with me. I've got a wife and baby. And I'm worried about my job."

"Is that all that's worrying you?" I asked.

"Yes," he answered.

"Well," I replied, "if that's all, you may rest easy. If I am here, your job is safe for the next three years."

"Start me right now, Mr. Mack," he exclaimed, shaking my hand vigorously. "Start me this afternoon."

I did, and he was knocked out of the box. But I kept my word to him because I had full confidence in him. I put him on the mound in Washington. In the first inning the Senators got five runs off him. In the second inning they got five more.

"Take him out! Take him out!" the fans in the stand began to yell.

I walked over from the dugout to the tier of boxes. "I'm going to keep Bill Dietrich in there until Washington gets twenty-one runs off him," I announced.

Bill heard my voice that reassured him, and he settled down to work with a vengeance. The Senators were mowed down in rapid order. From that time on, they got only one more run.

Ty Cobb's First Game with the A's

I have found that it never pays to show favoritism to a player. And I have learned never to reprimand a player in front of his comrades, never to show strong dislike for any member of the team. Always treat them all as members of a family in a congenial household.

When Ty Cobb played his first game for the A's, I felt somewhat embarrassed. Here was the greatest player of his time, twenty-two years as the star fielder with Detroit and six years its able manager. He was noted as an expert on the strong and weak points of all the batters of all the other teams. I hesitated in giving orders to this great of the greats.

However, I realized that I was responsible for the strategy of the game. A rival batter came to the plate. I felt that Ty knew where to play him, but it seemed to me that he was playing too far to the right of the batter. I was about to signal my pitcher to put the ball where, if hit, it would go far to the left of where Ty was standing.

Standing up in the dugout, I waved to Ty with my score card to move over to the left. Everybody saw the signal. Even the pitcher turned and looked. What would the great Cobb do? Would he follow his own judgment or would he accept my decision? He saluted me as a soldier salutes a soldier salutes a general and followed orders.

Now I was on the spot. If the batter hit the ball to where Ty had been standing, I'd certainly look silly. Ty had barely reached the position I had designated when the batter walloped the ball. Where did it go? Right into the hands of Ty Cobb! Did I feel relieved? I'll say I did.

When John McGraw retired from the game in 1932 I was greatly disappointed. He had won ten pennants for the Giants; I had won

LA. COLLEGE WINS NORTHWESTERN RELAYS

COLUMBIA COMES HOME 1ST IN 'B-C' SECTION OF MEET

Ouachita Finishes 3rd In A-AA Division; Neville Ranks 7th

NATCHITOCHES, La., April 1.—(AP)—Louisiana College of Pineville took four first places to win the college division of the Northwestern Relays today. Wet weather hurt the times in all events.

The Louisiana College trackmen won the 440-yard relay, the 100-yard dash, the shotput and tied for first in the high jump.

Two seconds and two thirds brought their point total to 36 5/6. Northwestern State of Natchitoches was second with 29 1/6 points, Southwestern Louisiana Institute third with 16 and Loyola of the South of New Orleans fourth with 10 points.

In the high school division, Bossier City High won the Class A and AA section with 51 points and Columbia won the B and C class with 39 1/2 points.

Following in the A-AA class were Byrd of Shreveport 43, Ouachita of Monroe 14, Springhill 12 1/2, Bolton of Alexandria 11, Haynesville 10, Neville of Monroe 6 1/2, Fair Park of Shreveport 3 1/2, and Oakdale 2 1/2.

Trailing Columbia in the B-C class were Rodessa 34 1/2, Mamou 33, Plain Dealing 12, Dry Prong 11 1/2, Adax 5, Hall Summitt 5, Coushatta 5, West Lake 3 1/2, Zwolle 2 1/2, Iowa 2, Pelican 1, Camtp 1, and Georgetown 1/2.

The outstanding feature of the high school section was the performance of the four-man Mamou team. The four boys won all three relay events, getting a fine 3:35.5 mile time. The team was made up of Fuselier, Johnson, Cloud and Young.

Summary:

High jump—Won by Johnny McConathy of Northwestern State James Poole of Northwestern, and Eugene Langford of Louisiana College (all tied), 5 feet 10 inches.

Sugar Bowl Cage Selections Made

NEW ORLEANS, April 1.—(AP)— Participants in the 1950 Sugar Bowl Basketball Tournament were named today: Bradley University, University of Kentucky, St. Louis University and Syracuse University.

Of the four named by the New Orleans Mid - Winter Sports Association, Sugar Bowl sponsors, only Syracuse is a newcomer to the tourney. St. Louis won the tourney title in 1948 and Kentucky in 1949, the latter defeating Bradley 71-66 for the title.

Bradley, ranked No. 1 in the nation during the 1949-50 season won 27 of 30 games, was National Collegiate Athletic Association western champion, Missouri Valley Champion and runner-up in both the N. C. A. A. and N. I. T. tourneys.

Kentucky won the Southeastern Conference title for the 12th time after winning 22 of 26 games, including the Sugar Bowl title.

The Sugar Bowl tournament is scheduled for Dec. 29-30, with two games to be played each night. First night winners will play for the title Dec. 30 while the losers battle for consolation honors.

Fast-action tumbling will be seen when Ben Duhon, Richard Henderson Dale Branch, Burt Babcock, Ken Howard, Al Kopp, and Chuck Castaing cover the mats in split-second acts.

Gene Flores, Demonairre leader, will combine his acrobatic skill and comedy acts for another feature.

The main attraction of this year's show will be the" Living Statuaries." The men who will put this part of the show over are Lee Reese, Bill Barnidge, Joe Holley, Kayo Gremillion, Pat Harrington, Jim Brannon, Fair Haynes, Ken Howard, Jack Gaston, and Joe.

Leland Langridge, Cecil Neilson, and Kellar Dick will present an Indian club drill.

LONGDEN RIDES

MELBOURNE, Australia, April 1. — (AP) — Ace American Jockey Johnny Longden rode Beau Gem in a six-furlong exhibition gallop at Caulfield Race course this afternoon. It was the American's first appearance here. Thousands of race fans cheered as he rode past the finishing post. The time was 1:12 3-4.

Connie Mack

My 66 Years In The Big Leagues

By

Connie Mack

The staff of four star pitchers was now down to two: only Benton and Dietrich were left. Benton having struck out eighteen men in six innings in exhibition games, should have done great things. For some unknown reason he just could not compete with the big league batters. He was good one day and average on his next appearance, so I had to send him out on option. I felt sure that Benton had big stuff in him once he started.

Now it was up to Dietrich, the last of the four. We had a little heart to heart talk. I said to him:

"Bill, I've tried everything I know. I've tried you at starting your games and I've tried you at finishing games."

"Mr. Mack," he replied, as he kicked a clump of sod with his foot, "I'll tell you what's the matter with me. I've got a wife and baby. And I'm worried about my job."

"Is that all that's worrying you?" I asked.

"Yes," he answered.

"Well," I replied, "if that's all, you may rest easy. If I am here, your job is safe for the next three years."

"Start me right now, Mr. Mack," he exclaimed, shaking my hand vigorously. "Start me this afternoon."

I did, and he was knocked out of the box. But I kept my word to him because I had full confidence in him. I put him on the mound in Washington. In the first inning the Senators got five runs off him. In the second inning they got five more.

"Take him out! Take him out!" the fans in the stand began to yell.

I walked over from the dugout to the tier of boxes. "I'm going to keep Bill Dietrich in there until Washington gets twenty-one runs off him," I announced.

Bill heard my voice that reassured him, and he settled down to work with a vengeance. The Senators were mowed down in rapid order. From that time on, they got only one more run.

Ty Cobb's First Game with the A's

I have found that it never pays to show favoritism to a player. And I have learned never to reprimand a player in front of his comrades, never to show strong dislike for any member of the team. Always treat them all as members of a family in a congenial household.

When Ty Cobb played his first game for the A's, I felt somewhat embarrassed. Here was the greatest player of his time, twenty-two years as the star fielder with Detroit and six years its able manager. He was noted as an expert on the strong and weak points of all the batters of all the other teams. I hesitated in giving orders to this great of the greats.

However, I realized that I was responsible for the strategy of the game. A rival batter came to the plate. I felt that Ty knew where to play him, but it seemed to me that he was playing too far to the right of the batter. I was about to signal my pitcher to put the ball where, if hit, it would go far to the left of where Ty was standing.

Standing up in the dugout, I waved to Ty with my score card to move over to the left. Everybody saw the signal. Even the pitcher turned and looked. What would the great Cobb do? Would he follow his own judgment or would he accept my decision? He saluted me as a soldier salutes a soldier salutes a general and followed orders.

Now I was on the spot. If the batter hit the ball to where Ty had been standing, I'd certainly look silly. Ty had barely reached the position I had designated when the batter walloped the ball. Where did it go? Right into the hands of Ty Cobb! Did I feel relieved? I'll say I did.

When John McGraw retired from the game in 1932 I was greatly disappointed. He had won ten pennants for the Giants; I had won

HARRISON JOINS FAZIO IN AZALEA OPEN LEAD

MIDDLECOFF TWO STROKES BEHIND IN SECOND PLACE

Arkansas Traveler Comes From 5 Strokes Back To Gain Deadlock

By Ken Alyta

WILMINGTON, N. C., April 1.—(AP)— E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, golf's Arkansas traveler came charging through third round of the $10,000 Wilmington Azalea Open Tournament today to make up five strokes on George Fazio and tie him for the 54-hole lead at 209.

Harrison, playing out of St. Andrews, Ill., racked up a 34-35—69 while Fazio, the Washington veteran, with whom he was playing in the day's last threesome, fell off to 37-37—74, two over par for the 6,652-yard Cape Fear Country Club course.

Two strokes to the rear with 211 after 71 today came National Open Champion Cary Middlecoff from Ormond Beach, Fla. still in contention with 213 following a third round 74 was Joe Kirkwood, Jr., Hollywood, Calif., locked in fifth place at 214.

Five strokes from the lead, were Lloyd Mangrum, Chicago, and Ed Furgol, Royal Oak, Mich. Furgol, trailing by three strokes in second place at the start of the round was as cold as the dark, windy day. He needed a 76 after a fat 41 on the first nine.

Fazio simply couldn't buy a birdie today and that, briefly, was his trouble. Those long putts he canned the first two days when he scored 67-68 just didn't drop. He had 16 pars and shot over twice. On the par three eighth he over-shot the green for his four and on 16, another short hole, he missed his putt for a par.

Harrison, who last year won the Canadian Open Title, which Fazio took down in 1946, played a steady unspectacular round that, coupled with Fazio's inability to master par, gave him his tie.

The stoop - shouldered veteran amassed 15 pars and three birdies. On three he canned a 12-foot putt and on six, another par five, he chipped to within six inches of the pin for an easy four.

On 15, where Fazio failed to get his birdie four, Harrison succeeded to square the tournament, going into tomorrow's final round.

Middlecoff had scrambling front nine in getting his par 36. He balanced two pars with two holes on which he went over. Two birdies coming in made up for a lapse on short 10th.

The day's best round. A 32-35—67, went to North Carolina's Skip Alexander, playing out of Knoxville, Tenn., but his total was 216, seven strokes off the front end.

Jimmy Clark, Huntington Beach, Calif., pro., followed a front side 40 with a 31 coming home for the tournament's best nine. It gave him 219 for 54 holes.

Jimmy McHale of Philadelphia wrested the amateur lead from Bill Stalls, Greenville, N. C. with 73 for 222, three strokes ahead of his East Carolina Teachers College rival.

Stock Car Races Back To Shreveport Today

SHREVEPORT, April 1.—(Special)—With speed in the spotlight the Southwestern Racing Association presents its first stock car race of the season Sunday afternoon at the Fair Grounds track.

More than 30 skilled drivers have entered the lid-lifter and association officials predict a turn-away crowd for the 100-mile feature event.

Top attractions on the program include the big three of the 1949 win parade—Red Dowdy of Dallas, Herbert Craig of Summer Grove and Shreveport's Brussell Rains. This trio accounted for all the decisions in the local track last year with the wins evenly divided.

A new track rule eliminating convertibles has been established by the association so Rains' convertible that finished strongly last season has been converted into a steel-top job. Craig will stick to his standard mount while Dowdy will pilot a '47 Ford.

More than 20 drivers from the Shreveport Driver's Association have entered as well as competitors from other cities of the Ark-La-Tex area.

The time trials for the drivers will begin at 10 a.m. Sunday with the 15-lap consolation race for non-qualifiers at 1:45 p.m. The 16 fastest time trial cars and the first four from the consolation race will run in the 200-lap feature at 2:30 p.m.

Cambridge Crew Defeats Oxford In Thames Event

LONDON, April 1.—(AP)— Cambridge's powerful eight-oared crew skimmed through the rough water of the Thames river today to a three and a half length victory over Oxford in the 96th rowing of the world's oldest collegiate boat race.

It was the fourth straight victory for Cambridge which now has won the venerable event 51 times. Oxford has triumphed 44 times. There was a tie in 1877.

Sports-Tech Contest Called Off Saturday

The Monroe Sports had their scheduled exhibition game with the Louisiana Tech Bulldogs called off here yesterday because of wet grounds and threatening weather.

However, Manager Al Mazur pushed his charges through a brisk workout during the morning and expects to resume the rugged grind tomorrow toward getting the Sports ready for their Cotton States season opener at Natchez April 18.

The process of cutting down on the Monroe squad is also dus to begin at any time, and the locals are also looking forward to new strength to be assigned by Shreveport, parent club. The Texas Leaguers left only Pitcher Bobby Johnson, former Northwestern State College athlete, during their two-day stand here Thursday and Friday.

CONTROVERSIAL RULE COMES UP FOR ARGUMENT

Conference Commissions To Decide What's Wrong With Provisions

By Jerry Liska

CHICAGO, April 1.—(AP)—The controversial "sanity code" of the National Collegiate Athletic Association comes up for top rank debate next week. The result may be a softening of the code next year.

The N. C. A. A.'s executive committee and commissioners from a score of athletic conferences meet Wednesday and Thursday. The purpose is to "implement" the so-called Byrd resolution calling for a survey of athletic policies in the nation's colleges.

In less high-flown language, this means that the commissioners will decide what's right or wrong about the code which sharply restricts financial aid to athletes. Southern forces think there is plenty wrong with it.

The recommendations will be channeled to a three-member screening committee which in turn will report to the policy-making council of the N. C. A. A. this summer. The council will present any proposed code changes to the N. C. A. A. convention at Dallas, Tex., next January for final action.

The seven-member executive committee will meet on routine business Tuesday and then join the commissioners Wednesday and Thursday.

Invitations were sent by Secretary-treasurer K. L. (Tug) Wilson to commissioners of 28 conferences and approximately 20 have indicated they will be represented at the confab.

Most displeased with the present code are the Southwest, Southeastern and Southern Conferences, who hope to sell the other commissioners on a modification. This reportedly could be a form of tuition-board aid to athletes, who

DOG ACT SLATED AT SKEET RANGE

R. L. Fuller To Exhibit Trained Pointers During Shoot Session Today

While skeet and trap shooting will be the main reason for most sportsmen of this area making their regular weekly visit to the Monroe skeet range today, additional fans are expected to be on hand to see Robert L. Fuller, Monroe sportsmen, work his brace of bird dogs in their exceptional show.

Fuller has trained the pointers, Pete and Jake, to obey almost his every command. They can hold poses like statues, balance varied objects on their noses, heads, and bodies, many at the same time. Fuller's dogs do just "about everything except load his gun and kill his game," one observer declared.

The dogs put on their act at 2:30 o'clock today. All shooting on the range will cease during the time Fuller is busy with his pointers. There is no admission charge, and visitors are welcomed at the range.

Shooting will begin early, around noon, and resume after the dog act is finished.

Ross Graves, Mer Rouge, broke 96 out of 100 in skeet last Sunday for the second week in a row and was the top skeet shooter at the range for the month of March.

T. O. "Toby" Bancroft was tops on the traps, breaking 96X100, the highest score in four weeks the range has been open this season. Bancroft also led trapshooters for March.

J. B. Thoman, who shares range management with S. K. Bernheim, last night said fathers are being urged to bring their children to the range.

"I am personally interested in the boys at this time," Thoman said. "We want the youth to get the benefit of a clean sport. We are also inviting out-of-town shooters to meet with us each week."

Thoman said the light poles at the range are being changed for larger poles and that a lighted field for night shooting seems certain.

NEW YORK, April 1.—(AP)—The International Boxing Club announced today it had signed Paddy Young of New York and Charley Fusari of Irvington, N. J., for a ten-round middleweight scrap in Madison Square Garden. The bout will be stayed May 12 or May 19.

Kiwanis League

The championship finals of the Kiwanis Basketball League will be delayed in opening until Tuesday night, it was announced yesterday.

Colbert's Hardware, league leader at the close of the schedule, and Saxon's Barber Shop, which gained the finals by eliminating Sanders Lumber Company, had been slated to go into their two-out-of-three playoff tomorrow.

Instead, the playoff begins Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock at the Ouachita Valley Fair Grounds.

Arizona Protests Pro Scout Methods

TUCSON, Ariz., April 1.—(AP)—The University of Arizona today protested actions of scouts of two National League baseball clubs.

The protests were contained in letters sent to Presidents Horace G. Stoneham of the New York Giants and Frank E. McKinney of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The letters were sent by Arizona Coach Frank Sancet. They had the backing of J. F. McKale, director of athletics at the University and president of the American Association of College Baseball Coaches.

Sancet wrote to Stoneham that the Giant scout, Mickey Shader, slipped into town and "contacted several of our players, all of whom are members of our varsity baseball team, trying to persuade them to leave school.

"We appreciate having professional baseball interest in our players, praticularly when scouts make their presence known.

"But when they gum-shoe in and out of town and use every method to hide their identity with the exception of false whiskers, we doubt whether they are using the proper procedure," he wrote.

In his letter to McKinney, Sancet says Scout Tom Downey made his presence known to the coach but before he left town propositioned one of their better ball players to leave school immediately. The player, a sophomore, was asked to say nothing about the conference, Sancet wrote.

Neither the scouts named in the letters, nor the club presidents were available for comment.

Marie Jacks, Mrs. Doering Advance To Women's Final

PHOENIX, Ariz., April 1.—(AP)—Medalist Marie Jacks of Yuma, Ariz., and Mrs. Shirley Ann Doering, Phoenix, will meet tomorrow in the 36-hole championship final of the Women's Southwestern Golf Tournament.

Miss Jacks today scored an easy semi-final round 4 and 3 victory over Mrs. Millie Frantz, Litchfield Park, Ariz.

Mrs. Doering won a hard-fought one up victory over Mrs. C. D. Lee, El Paso, Tex., in 21 holes. Mrs. Doering's birdie 4 on the 18th had sent the match into extra holes.

Mrs. Lee had scored the big upset of the match yesterday when she down the defending champion, Mrs. Jean Bauer Glantz, Albuquerque, N. M., 2 and 1.

When Wisconsin's boxing team lost to Michigan State recently, it was the first home defeat for the Badgers since 1933.

Unable To Find What's Ailing Hal Newhouser

LAKELAND, Fla., April 1.—(AP)—An examining physician reported today he could find no cause for Hal Newhouser's ailing left arm.

Dr. Edgar Watson said X-rays showed no calcium deposits, no arthritic condition or abnormalities in the pitching arm of the star Detroit southpaw.

Newhouser, who has pitched only two innings of an exhibition game this spring, cut short his throwing in batting practice Tuesday. He complained: "My arm hurts."

After the checkup by Dr. Watson, Newhouser went to the Tiger clubhouse for treatment by Trainer John Homel. He is not donning a uniform these days.

He probably will start working out when the arm responds to treatment.

One club official said he believed recent cool weather caused Newhouser's ailment. Newhouser will leave with the club when it breaks camp Tuesday.

ABINGTON, Mass., April 1.—(AP)—Richard F. Morey, inventor of the glass backboard for basketball courts, is eligible to teach again at Abington High School.

He was suspended Thursday for attending a coaches conference in New York allegedly without permission of school authorities.

IDAHO, GONZAGA TIE FOR CROWN IN BOXING MEET

Favored Michigan State Fails In Clutch; Thrash Wins For L. S. U.

By Hugh Fullerton Jr.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., April 1.—(AP)—Two dark horse teams from the west, Idaho and Gonzaga, tied for the team championship in the 13th National Collegiate A. A. Boxing Tournament tonight as favored Michigan State saw three finalists go down to defeat.

Idaho and Gonzaga, winning two individual titles apiece, earned 18 points each. Michigan State finished third with 13 points, one more than Louisiana State, last year's champion, and Penn State.

Two of last year's individual champions, Ted Thrash of Louisiana State and Leonard Walker of Idaho, came through again, although Walker fought in a different class this year.

Walker, winner in the 135-pound division, walked off with the 145-pound crown this year and Herb Carlson, a two-time former champion, won the 165-pound crown to put Idaho on top.

For Gonzaga it was Eli Thomas, a 155-pounder, and light heavyweight Carl Maxey who scored the important five point victories. The other champions crowned tonight were Marc Martinez, San Jose State, 125 pounds; Everett Conley, Washington State, 135, and Chuck Drazenovich, Penn State, heavyweight.

Light heavyweight Charles Spieser, a member of the 1948 Olympic boxing team, lost a close decision to the clever, sharpshooting Maxey and heavyweight Gabriel 'Gabby' Marek, wasn't quite big or strong enough to beat the Penn State football star, Drazenovich.

In addition to sharing possession of the John J. Walsh team trophy, Idaho took the other coveted award of the tournament, the John S. Rowe Memorial trophy. Herb Carlson won this as the outstanding individual boxer in the tournament. The trophy is awarded in memory of the former University of Virginia boxing coach.

DOG ACT SLATED AT SKEET RANGE

R. L. Fuller To Exhibit Trained Pointers During Shoot Session Today

While skeet and trap shooting will be the main reason for most sportsmen of this area making their regular weekly visit to the Monroe skeet range today, additional fans are expected to be on hand to see Robert L. Fuller, Monroe sportsmen, work his brace of bird dogs in their exceptional show.

Fuller has trained the pointers, Pete and Jake, to obey almost his every command. They can hold poses like statues, balance varied objects on their noses, heads, and bodies, many at the same time. Fuller's dogs do just "about everything except load his gun and kill his game," one observer declared.

The dogs put on their act at 2:30 o'clock today. All shooting on the range will cease during the time Fuller is busy with his pointers. There is no admission charge, and visitors are welcomed at the range.

Shooting will begin early, around noon, and resume after the dog act is finished.

Ross Graves, Mer Rouge, broke 96 out of 100 in skeet last Sunday for the second week in a row and was the top skeet shooter at the range for the month of March.

T. O. "Toby" Bancroft was tops on the traps, breaking 96X100, the highest score in four weeks the range has been open this season. Bancroft also led trapshooters for March.

J. B. Thoman, who shares range management with S. K. Bernheim, last night said fathers are being urged to bring their children to the range.

"I am personally interested in the boys at this time," Thoman said. "We want the youth to get the benefit of a clean sport. We are also inviting out-of-town shooters to meet with us each week."

Thoman said the light poles at the range are being changed for larger poles and that a lighted field for night shooting seems certain.

YOUNG VS. FUSARI

NEW YORK, April 1.—(AP)—The International Boxing Club announced today it had signed Paddy Young of New York and Charley Fusari of Irvington, N. J., for a ten-round middleweight scrap in Madison Square Garden. The bout will be stayed May 12 or May 19.

5 RECORDS FALL AS TEXAS WINS ITS OWN RELAYS

Pat Bowers, U. Of Kansas, Individual Standout Of Track Show

By Harold V. Ratliff

AUSTIN, Tex., April 1.—(AP)—Five records fell as the University of Texas returned to domination of its own Texas Relays today but the University of Kansas — or rather its Pat Bowers — stole the show.

Kansas romped to three relay titles with Bowers the man of the moment in each. It earned for the stocky distance runner the accolade of "outstanding performer of the relays."

Yesterday Bowers sparked the Kansas distance medley relay team to victory with a 3:02.4 three-quarters mile and today he ran a 4:16.0 mile in leading the Jayhawker quartet to first place in the four-mile relay and a 1:52.0, 880 in pacing the two-mile relay team to triumph.

Bowers beat out Charley Parker, the great University of Texas sprinter, and a couple of high jumpers for the honor. Parker won the 100-yard dash in 9.6 and anchored two sprint relay teams to victory although suffering from a muscle injury in his leg. He ran with the leg bandaged.

Texas scored 28 points to win the university division title. Oklahoma A. and M. and Kansas State tied for second with 23 while Kansas wound up third with 18.

North Texas State won the 440 and 880-yard relays and gained places in two individual events to take top honors in the college class with 15 points. San Diego State was second with 10 1-3 points.

In the junior college - college freshman division Oklahoma A. and M. romped home first with 18 points. Rice was second with 11.

In the high school class Galveston upset favored Corpus Christi with 16 points to 12.

Three of the records were in the university class.

One was on a prodigious high jumps by Jack Razzetto of San Diego State and Virgil Severns of Kansas State, each clearing the bar at six feet, 8 1-4 inches. It wiped out the record of six feet, 7 7-8 inches set by Don Boydston of Oklahoma A. and M. and Dub Walters of Baylor in 1941.

Razzeto and Severans tied Parker for second place in the selection of outstanding performer of the meet.

The Kansas four-mile relay team and the Rice mile relay team set the other university class records. The Kansas foursome of Cliff Abel, Herb Semper, Bowers and Bob Karnes did the four-mile in 17:10.9, bettering the oldest record in the Texas relays book — the 17:40.1 set by Illinois in 1929.

The Rice mile relay team with Tom Cox doing a 46.5 anchor lap smashed the record set by Texas A. and M. in 1948 by slmost three seconds. Cox came from second place at the last turn to overtake Jerry Meader of Oklahoma and win going away. The Rice time was 3:14.5 the old record was 3:17.2.

Loyola of Chicago set a new record in the sprint medley relay of the college class with 3:25.0. The old record of 3:27.9 was set in 1949 by East Texas State.

The other record also was in the college class and was only because of a new event. North Texas State's time in the 440-yard relay was 42.0 and that will go into the books as record as this event was instituted only this year.

A crowd of 12,000 watched the big track and field carnival.

maintain proper class-room levels. The code now allows mainly only tuition on the basis of need. This results in subterfuge in athletic recruiting, code critics claim.

At the New York convention, the three southern conferences backed a proposal for a year-around training table for athletes which was voted down. The Southwest Conference submitted a proposal for a training table of three meals daily within the season of the affected sport. This was withdrawn when the convention approved the survey resolution of President H. C. Byrd of Maryland.

Byrd's resolution charges the N. C. A. A. neglected to study the athletic problem in all its aspects and complexities relating to jobs, alumni and other forms of subsidization, not to mention the inequity of applying the same code to a school of 300 students and one, say, of 20,000.

A showdown in code enforcement at the New York convention resulted in a ballot failure to oust seven cited violator schools. Since then, two of the schools—Boston College and Maryland—have been restored to good standing. Villanova, Virginia, Virginia Tech and V. M. I., still are regarded as violators. The seventh school, The Citadel, resigned at the New York meeting.

Unquestionably, the conclusions of the commissioners at next week's meeting will carry great weight at the 1951 Dallas convention.

The executive committee membership includes: Asa Bushnell, Eastern College Athletic Conference commissioner; Bernie Moore, Southeastern Conference commissioner; James Stewart of the Southwest Conference; Dean Earl Fullbrook, University of Nebraska faculty representative; Robert J. Kane, Cornell University athletic director; Dr. J. H. Nichols, Oberlin College athletic director; and Ike J. Armstrong, University of Utah athletic director.

Vols Get First Baseman On Option From Bruins

NEW ORLEANS, April 1.—(AP)—Fred Richards, 22-year-old first baseman, has been optioned to the Nashville Vols by the Chicago Cubs on a 24-hour recall basis.

He is expected to join the Vols here. The Nashville squad came in from training at Baton Rouge for a two-game exhibition series with New Orleans today and tomorrow.

OLYMPIA EASILY WINS PAUMONOK 'CAP; ARISE 2ND

Guillotine Home First In 4th Race Of Jamaica's Opening Card

By John Chandler

NEW YORK, April 1. — (AP) — Olympia and a near record of 50,518 customers celebrated the return of racing to New York today, with Fred Hooper's speedy star grabbing an easy victory in the $30,450 Paumonok Handicap.

For Olympia and Jockey Eddie Arcaro, it was a triumphant return to Jamaica where a year ago they swept everything in sight and wound up the favorite Kentucky Derby combination.

Olympia went in front shortly after the start of today's six furlong dash and Eddie kept him there all the way to the wire. A length and a quarter back in second place was Addison stable's Arise.

Arise was half a length ahead of Woolford farm's Delegate at the finish, with Robert M. Smith's Sagittarius another three lengths back in fourth. Fifteen horses, one of the largest fields in the 41 runnings of the traditional opening-day event, went to the post.

The chilled crowd, watching in cloudy, windy weather, backed Olympia down to a favorite's $6.60, $4.60 and $3.10 payoff. The four-year-lod son of Heliopolis toured the egg-shaped layout in a snappy 1:10 4-5 over a fast track

Olympia won the Experimental handicaps Nos. 1 and 2 last spring, then the Wood Memorial, before heading for Louisville only to run out of money in the 1949 Derby. This was his first start over the Jamaica course since the Wood.

It was in 1945 that the record opening-day crowd of 56.115 truned out. Jamaica's top, and the biggest crowd of any New York track, was the 64,670 for Memorial Day, 1945.

The crowd got a good peek at Greentree stable's Derby hope, as the son of Bimelech won easily under Ted Atkingson. Guillotine beat 10 three-year-old rivals, including three other derby nominees, as he ran the five and one-half furlongs in 1:06.

Leading all the way shortly after the start, Guillotine went under the wire a length ahead of Quick Fire. Ferd was third. Guillotine returned $3.30, $2.90 and $2.40, in his initial start of the year. The other derby horses were Greek Song, fourth; Admiral's Pride, seventh; and Blue W., tenth.

Tulane's Golfers Spank Badger Linksmen, 17 To 1

NEW ORLEANS, April 1.—(AP)—Tulane Co-Captain Fritz Frantz fired a three under par 69 to spark his team to a 17 to 1 golf victory over Spring Hill College of Mobile, Ala., today.

The Tulane team took every match, played over the long Lakewood course.

Frantz went out in a par 36, but came in with a 33 to win three points from Bud Wade of Spring Hill. Wade got a 75.

The other Tulane co-captain, Dick Chassee, got a 78 to beat Cleve Thomas of Spring Hill 2 1/2-1/2. Tulane won the best-ball 3-0.

CONNIE MACK

nine for the Philadelphia Athletics. I was anxious to get one more to tie McGraw, then he could retire, and I'd go on to try to beat his record.

I rate John McGraw's Giants of 1921 as his masterpiece. He had such top stars as Long George Kelly, Johnny Rawlings, Dave (Beauty) Bancroft and Frankie Frisch in the infield; Irish Meusel, George Burns and Ross Youngs in the outfield. Such a combination is hard to beat. On his pitching staff were such able men as Art Nehf, only pitcher to win games in four successive World Series; Fred Toney, Jesse Barnes and Phil Douglas.

John knew how to collect aggregations of great players through the years, such as Travis Jackson, famous shortstop and third baseman, with an arm that could throw a ball with the accuracy of a shot from a gun; Bill Terry, the first baseman, who hit .401 in 1930 and later became the manager of the Giants.

Every day was a thrill during the eight years I had Rube Waddell under my wing. With Rube one never knew what was going to happen next. He was the atom bomb in baseball long before the atom bomb was discovered, but his story will be told in another chapter.

Longest Games Ever Played

The greatest games in baseball were the two historic ones that went to twenty-four innings in the American League, finally to be game in the National League.

Our Philadelphia Athletics, in a terrific battle with Boston, played the first twenty-four-inning game on September 1, 1906. The game in Boston was tied at 1-1 until, in the twenty-fourth inning, Philadelphia scored three runs and won 4-1.

The game lasted 4 hours, 47 minutes. Our battery was Coombs and Powers; Boston's battery, Harris and Carrigan and Criger. Both Coombs and Harris went all the way.

Fourteen years later Brooklyn and the Boston Nationals broke this record with a twenty-six-inning game played in Boston on May 1, 1920. After 3 hours 50 minutes, the game was called on account of darkness. Brooklyn's battery was Cadore and Krueger, Elliott, and Boston's Oeschger, O'Neill and Gowdy. The pitchers went all the way but both catchers needed relief.

Twenty-five years later, the Philadelphia Athletics engaged in another twenty-four-inning battle with the Detroit Tigers on July 21, 1945, in Shibe Park. We scored in the fourth inning, Detroit scored in the seventh inning and the breath-taking struggle continued, with neither side able to cross home plate during the next seventeen innings. This game tied at 1-1 was called on account of darkness after 4 hours, 48 minutes, and was the longest game on record. The batteries were Mueller (19 2-3 innings), Trout (4 1-3) and Swift; Christopher (13), Berry (11) and Rosar.

The longest scoreless tie game was played between the Brooklyn Dodgers and the Cincinnati Reds in Brooklyn on September 11, 1946: nineteen innings, when the game was called on account of darkness after 4 hours, 40 minutes of play. Batteries, for Brooklyn, Gregg (10 innings), Casey (5), Herring (3), Behrman (1) and Edwards; for Cincinnati, Vander Meer (15), Gumbert (4) and Mueller.

The Pittsburgh Pirates and the Boston Braves played twenty scoreless innings in the National League on August 1, 1918, but the tie was broken in the twenty-first inning, when Pittsburgh scored two runs and won.

Those who witnessed these games got the excitement of a lifetime. But, as I have said before, one of my biggest thrills was the day when my pitcher Ehmke struck out thirteen men in one game and established a World Series record in 1929. And you would have risen out of your seat and thrown your hat in the air if you had been there on May 3, 1938, when Lefty Grove, then with Boston, struck out his 2,000th batter and gained his 260th victory when he fanned six Detroit Tigers. By 1941 he had won 300 victories and his strike-outs mounted high.

Eight pitchers in the major leagues have passed the 2,000 strike-out mark. Three of the eight record breakers had worn the Philadelphia A's uniform: Grove, Waddell, and Plank. Here's the record: Walter Johnson, 3,497; Cy Young, 2,836; Christy Mathewson, 2,447; Rube Waddell, 2,369; Grover Cleveland Alexander, 2,184; Dazzy Vance, 2,030. Lefty Grove (2,271) and Eddie Plank (2,257) also passed the 2,000 mark.

Historic Trip to Japan and Philippines

I'm going to tell you now about one of the greatest thrills I ever experienced in my career. It was when I was delegated to go with the first American baseball team to Japan and the Philippines in 1934 to demonstrate our national game.

Babe Ruth managed the all-star team, which was made up of players from both major leagues, and Judge Landis asked me to go along as good-will delegate. B. F. Shibe and my son, Earle, made the arrangements for the trip. Babe Ruth received $12,000 and all expenses, and he took his wife and daughter with him. Among the others who went were Lou Gehrig and Bing Miller.

The Japanese were literally crazy about the great national game of America and walked miles to see the great American athletes. We drew 209,000 people to the four games we played; every game was sold out at least three weeks in advance. Babe Ruth was their idol.

Tremendous parades welcomed us to each city. A Japanese general walked thirty miles to present his sword to the first man who made a home run. He didn't seem to think it was possible to knock a ball so far that the batter could make a home run, but when Babe Ruth stepped to the plate and hit the ball out of the park, the august general fawningly presented his sword to the King of Swat.

Ambassador Grew, a master of Japanese psychology, was enthusiastic over our "diplomatic" mission. The Japanese even began to get up before daylight to play America's national game at sunrise. One day when we went out about twenty miles from the city to practice in a place where there were no houses, about 20,000 came to watch us. Where they came from no one knew, but they seemed to spring up from all directions.

Whenever they wanted to address the umpire, the Japanese always took off their hats! On one occasion they had twelve cameras to record our plays, so that they could imitate them later. No Japanese women were permitted to attend the games, however; quite a contrast to this country, where thousands of women fans enjoy the games.

While we were in Japan, we met four senators, who accompanied us on our trip to Manila. Governor-General Frank Murphy, later a member of the nited States supreme court, gave us a reception with the senators as fellow guests. Governor Murphy was an ardent admirer of our national game and attended all the exhibitions.

At one game I sat beside him in the dugout and heard them calling for our battery, Whitehill and Hayes, to play a game with the Manila boys. It lasted one inning. The Pilipinos were good fielders and good runners, but at that time they had not learned to hit.

They played the game differently than we do. When a pitcher went into the game he had to show that he was in good condition, so he would stand on the sideline and pitch to the catcher until the crowd was satisfied that he could finish the game. They consider it a dishonor to take a pitcher out of the box.

The Philippine pitcher was an excellent contortionist—but we made twenty-four runs (including several home runs) to their lone one run. Nevertheless, we congratulated them on their remarkable feat of making one run against what we considered the greatest ball players in the world.

Everywhere we went we had magnificent reception, and I know our boys did great honor to Uncle Sam. We played about twenty-seven games in Japan and the Phillipines, for our tour took us about 800 miles from Tokyo. We were gone two months, and some of our boys later went around the world.

Since World War II, both the Japanese and the Filipinos have adopted baseball as their national game. General Douglas MacArthur, who was an excellent ball player in his youth has given them great encouragement. With deep respect for their national traditions, he has performed epoch-making services in guiding them in the reconstruction of their devastated countries.

5 RECORDS FALL AS TEXAS WINS ITS OWN RELAYS

Pat Bowers, U. Of Kansas, Individual Standout Of Track Show

By Harold V. Ratliff

AUSTIN, Tex., April 1.—(AP)—Five records fell as the University of Texas returned to domination of its own Texas Relays today but the University of Kansas — or rather its Pat Bowers — stole the show.

Kansas romped to three relay titles with Bowers the man of the moment in each. It earned for the stocky distance runner the accolade of "outstanding performer of the relays."

Yesterday Bowers sparked the Kansas distance medley relay team to victory with a 3:02.4 three-quarters mile and today he ran a 4:16.0 mile in leading the Jayhawker quartet to first place in the four-mile relay and a 1:52.0, 880 in pacing the two-mile relay team to triumph.

Bowers beat out Charley Parker, the great University of Texas sprinter, and a couple of high jumpers for the honor. Parker won the 100-yard dash in 9.6 and anchored two sprint relay teams to victory although suffering from a muscle injury in his leg. He ran with the leg bandaged.

Texas scored 28 points to win the university division title. Oklahoma A. and M. and Kansas State tied for second with 23 while Kansas wound up third with 18.

North Texas State won the 440 and 880-yard relays and gained places in two individual events to take top honors in the college class with 15 points. San Diego State was second with 10 1-3 points.

In the junior college - college freshman division Oklahoma A. and M. romped home first with 18 points. Rice was second with 11.

In the high school class Galveston upset favored Corpus Christi with 16 points to 12.

Three of the records were in the university class.

One was on a prodigious high jumps by Jack Razzetto of San Diego State and Virgil Severns of Kansas State, each clearing the bar at six feet, 8 1-4 inches. It wiped out the record of six feet, 7 7-8 inches set by Don Boydston of Oklahoma A. and M. and Dub Walters of Baylor in 1941.

Razzeto and Severans tied Parker for second place in the selection of outstanding performer of the meet.

The Kansas four-mile relay team and the Rice mile relay team set the other university class records. The Kansas foursome of Cliff Abel, Herb Semper, Bowers and Bob Karnes did the four-mile in 17:10.9, bettering the oldest record in the Texas relays book — the 17:40.1 set by Illinois in 1929.

The Rice mile relay team with Tom Cox doing a 46.5 anchor lap smashed the record set by Texas A. and M. in 1948 by almost three seconds. Cox came from second place at the last turn to overtake Jerry Meader of Oklahoma and win going away. The Rice time was 3:14.5 the old record was 3:17.2.

Loyola of Chicago set a new record in the sprint medley relay of the college class with 3:25.0. The old record of 3:27.9 was set in 1949 by East Texas State.

The other record also was in the college class and was only because of a new event. North Texas State's time in the 440-yard relay was 42.0 and that will go into the books as record as this event was instituted only this year.

A crowd of 12,000 watched the big track and field carnival.

maintain proper class-room levels. The code now allows mainly only tuition on the basis of need. This results in subterfuge in athletic recruiting, code critics claim.

At the New York convention, the three southern conferences backed a proposal for a year-around training table for athletes which was voted down. The Southwest Conference submitted a proposal for a training table of three meals daily within the season of the affected sport. This was withdrawn when the convention approved the survey resolution of President H. C. Byrd of Maryland.

Byrd's resolution charges the N. C. A. A. neglected to study the athletic problem in all its aspects and complexities relating to jobs, alumni and other forms of subsidization, not to mention the inequity of applying the same code to a school of 300 students and one, say, of 20,000.

A showdown in code enforcement at the New York convention resulted in a ballot failure to oust seven cited violator schools. Since then, two of the schools—Boston College and Maryland—have been restored to good standing. Villanova, Virginia, Virginia Tech and V. M. I., still are regarded as violators. The seventh school, The Citadel, resigned at the New York meeting.

Unquestionably, the conclusions of the commissioners at next week's meeting will carry great weight at the 1951 Dallas convention.

The executive committee membership includes: Asa Bushnell, Eastern College Athletic Conference commissioner; Bernie Moore, Southeastern Conference commissioner; James Stewart of the Southwest Conference; Dean Earl Fullbrook, University of Nebraska faculty representative; Robert J. Kane, Cornell University athletic director; Dr. J. H. Nichols, Oberlin College athletic director; and Ike J. Armstrong, University of Utah athletic director.

Vols Get First Baseman On Option From Bruins

NEW ORLEANS, April 1.—(AP)—Fred Richards, 22-year-old first baseman, has been optioned to the Nashville Vols by the Chicago Cubs on a 24-hour recall basis.

He is expected to join the Vols here. The Nashville squad came in from training at Baton Rouge for a two-game exhibition series with New Orleans today and tomorrow.

OLYMPIA EASILY WINS PAUMONOK 'CAP; ARISE 2ND

Guillotine Home First In 4th Race Of Jamaica's Opening Card

By John Chandler

NEW YORK, April 1. — (AP) — Olympia and a near record of 50,518 customers celebrated the return of racing to New York today, with Fred Hooper's speedy star grabbing an easy victory in the $30,450 Paumonok Handicap.

For Olympia and Jockey Eddie Arcaro, it was a triumphant return to Jamaica where a year ago they swept everything in sight and wound up the favorite Kentucky Derby combination.

Olympia went in front shortly after the start of today's six furlong dash and Eddie kept him there all the way to the wire. A length and a quarter back in second place was Addison stable's Arise.

Arise was half a length ahead of Woolford farm's Delegate at the finish, with Robert M. Smith's Sagittarius another three lengths back in fourth. Fifteen horses, one of the largest fields in the 41 runnings of the traditional opening-day event, went to the post.

The chilled crowd, watching in cloudy, windy weather, backed Olympia down to a favorite's $6.60, $4.60 and $3.10 payoff. The four-year-lod son of Heliopolis toured the egg-shaped layout in a snappy 1:10 4-5 over a fast track

Olympia won the Experimental handicaps Nos. 1 and 2 last spring, then the Wood Memorial, before heading for Louisville only to run out of money in the 1949 Derby. This was his first start over the Jamaica course since the Wood.

It was in 1945 that the record opening-day crowd of 56,115 truned out. Jamaica's top, and the biggest crowd of any New York track, was the 64,670 for Memorial Day, 1945.

The crowd got a good peek at Greentree stable's Derby hope, as the son of Bimelech won easily under Ted Atkingson. Guillotine beat 10 three-year-old rivals, including three other derby nominees, as he ran the five and one-half furlongs in 1:06.

Leading all the way shortly after the start, Guillotine went under the wire a length ahead of Quick Fire. Ferd was third. Guillotine returned $3.30, $2.90 and $2.40, in his initial start of the year. The other derby horses were Greek Song, fourth; Admiral's Pride, seventh; and Blue W., tenth.

Tulane's Golfers Spank Badger Linksmen, 17 To 1

NEW ORLEANS, April 1.—(AP)—Tulane Co-Captain Fritz Frantz fired a three under par 69 to spark his team to a 17 to 1 golf victory over Spring Hill College of Mobile, Ala., today.

The Tulane team took every match, played over the long Lakewood course.

Frantz went out in a par 36, but came in with a 33 to win three points from Bud Wade of Spring Hill. Wade got a 75.

The other Tulane co-captain, Dick Chassee, got a 78 to beat Cleve Thomas of Spring Hill 2 1/2-1/2. Tulane won the best-ball 3-0.

Herbie Abraham tabbed a 73 to win 3-0 from his opponent, while Harry Burglass, with an 83, won 2 1/2-1/2 in his match. Tulane won the best-ball 3-0.

nine for the Philadelphia Athletics. I was anxious to get one more to tie McGraw, then he could retire, and I'd go on to try to beat his record.

I rate John McGraw's Giants of 1921 as his masterpiece. He had such top stars as Long George Kelly, Johnny Rawlings, Dave (Beauty) Bancroft and Frankie Frisch in the infield; Irish Meusel, George Burns and Ross Youngs in the outfield. Such a combination is hard to beat. On his pitching staff were such able men as Art Nehf, only pitcher to win games in four successive World Series; Fred Toney, Jesse Barnes and Phil Douglas.

John knew how to collect aggregations of great players through the years, such as Travis Jackson, famous shortstop and third baseman, with an arm that could throw a ball with the accuracy of a shot from a gun; Bill Terry, the first baseman, who hit .401 in 1930 and later became the manager of the Giants.

Every day was a thrill during the eight years I had Rube Waddell under my wing. With Rube one never knew what was going to happen next. He was the atom bomb in baseball long before the atom bomb was discovered, but his story will be told in another chapter.

Longest Games Ever Played

The greatest games in baseball were the two historic ones that went to twenty-four innings in the American League, finally to be game in the National League.

Our Philadelphia Athletics, in a terrific battle with Boston, played the first twenty-four-inning game on September 1, 1906. The game in Boston was tied at 1-1 until, in the twenty-fourth inning, Philadelphia scored three runs and won 4-1.

The game lasted 4 hours, 47 minutes. Our battery was Coombs and Powers; Boston's battery, Harris and Carrigan and Criger. Both Coombs and Harris went all the way.

Fourteen years later Brooklyn and the Boston Nationals broke this record with a twenty-six-inning game played in Boston on May 1, 1920. After 3 hours 50 minutes, the game was called on account of darkness. Brooklyn's battery was Cadore and Krueger, Elliott, and Boston's Oeschger, O'Neill and Gowdy. The pitchers went all the way but both catchers needed relief.

Twenty-five years later, the Philadelphia Athletics engaged in another twenty-four-inning battle with the Detroit Tigers on July 21, 1945, in Shibe Park. We scored in the fourth inning, Detroit scored in the seventh inning and the breath-taking struggle continued, with neither side able to cross home plate during the next seventeen innings. This game tied at 1-1 was called on account of darkness after 4 hours, 48 minutes, and was the longest game on record. The batteries were Mueller (19 2-3 innings), Trout (4 1-3) and Swift; Christopher (13), Berry (11) and Rosar.

The longest scoreless tie game was played between the Brooklyn Dodgers and the Cincinnati Reds in Brooklyn on September 11, 1946: nineteen innings, when the game was called on account of darkness after 4 hours, 40 minutes of play. Batteries, for Brooklyn, Gregg (10 innings), Casey (5), Herring (3), Behrman (1) and Edwards; for Cincinnati, Vander Meer (15), Gumbert (4) and Mueller.

The Pittsburgh Pirates and the Boston Braves played twenty scoreless innings in the National League on August 1, 1918, but the tie was broken in the twenty-first inning, when Pittsburgh scored two runs and won.

Those who witnessed these games got the excitement of a lifetime. But, as I have said before, one of my biggest thrills was the day when my pitcher Ehmke struck out thirteen men in one game and established a World Series record in 1929. And you would have risen out of your seat and thrown your hat in the air if you had been there on May 3, 1938, when Lfty Grove, then with Boston, struck out his 2,000th batter and gained his 260th victory when he fanned six Detroit Tigers. By 1941 he had won 300 victories and his strike-outs mounted high.

Eight pitchers in the major leagues have passed the 2,000 strike-out mark. Three of the eight record breakers had worn the Philadelphia A's uniform: Grove, Waddell, and Plank. Here's the record: Walter Johnson, 3,497; Cy Young, 2,836; Christy Mathewson, 2,447; Rube Waddell, 2,369; Grover Cleveland Alexander, 2,184; Dazzy Vance, 2,030. Lefty Grove (2,271) and Eddie Plank (2,257) also passed the 2,000 mark.

Historic Trip to Japan and Philippines

I'm going to tell you now about one of the greatest thrills I ever experienced in my career. It was when I was delegated to go with the first American baseball team to Japan and the Philippines in 1934 to demonstrate our national game.

Babe Ruth managed the all-star team, which was made up of players from both major leagues, and Judge Landis asked me to go along as good-will delegate. B. F. Shibe and my son, Earle, made the arrangements for the trip. Babe Ruth received $12,000 and all expenses, and he took his wife and daughter with him. Among the others who went were Lou Gehrig and Bing Miller.

The Japanese were literally crazy about the great national game of America and walked miles to see the great American athletes. We drew 209,000 people to the four games we played; every game was sold out at least three weeks in advance. Babe Ruth was their idol.

Tremendous parades welcomed us to each city. A Japanese general walked thirty miles to present his sword to the first man who made a home run. He didn't seem to think it was possible to knock a ball so far that the batter could make a home run, but when Babe Ruth stepped to the plate and hit the ball out of the park, the august general fawningly presented his sword to the King of Swat.

Ambassador Grew, a master of Japanese psychology, was enthusiastic over our "diplomatic" mission. The Japanese even began to get up before daylight to play America's national game at sunrise. One day when we went out about twenty miles from the city to practice in a place where there were no houses, about 20,000 came to watch us. Where they came from no one knew, but they seemed to spring up from all directions.

Whenever they wanted to address the umpire, the Japanese always took off their hats! On one occasion they had twelve cameras to record our plays, so that they could imitate them later. No Japanese women were permitted to attend the games, however; quite a contrast to this country, where thousands of women fans enjoy the games.

While we were in Japan, we met four senators, who accompanied us on our trip to Manila. Governor-General Frank Murphy, later a member of the nited States supreme court, gave us a reception with the senators as fellow guests. Governor Murphy was an ardent admirer of our national game and attended all the exhibitions.

At one game I sat beside him in the dugout and heard them calling for our battery, Whitehill and Hayes, to play a game with the Manila boys. It lasted one inning. The Pilipinos were good fielders and good runners, but at that time they had not learned to hit.

They played the game differently than we do. When a pitcher went into the game he had to show that he was in good condition, so he would stand on the sideline and pitch to the catcher until the crowd was satisfied that he could finish the game. They consider it a dishonor to take a pitcher out of the box.

The Philippine pitcher was an excellent contortionist—but we made twenty-four runs (including several home runs) to their lone one run. Nevertheless, we congratulated them on their remarkable feat of making one run against what we considered the greatest ball players in the world.

Everywhere we went we had magnificent reception, and I know our boys did great honor to Uncle Sam. We played about twenty-seven games in Japan and the Phillipines, for our tour took us about 800 miles from Tokyo. We were gone two months, and some of our boys later went around the world.

Since World War II, both the Japanese and the Filipinos have adopted baseball as their national game. General Douglas MacArthur, who was an excellent ball player in his youth has given them great encouragement. With deep respect for their national traditions, he has performed epoch-making services in guiding them in the reconstruction of their devastated countries.

Two Players Disposed Of By Shreveport Club

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—(AP)—The Shreveport Sports of the Texas League have sold Outfielder Lewis Davis and Pitcher Kenneth Rogers to Macon of the South Atlantic League, Bonneau Peters, president of the Sports, announced today.

Davis played center field most of last season for the Sports and early in the 1949 campaign led the league in batting.

Both players were sold outright. Shreveport is in Little Rock today to open a two-game series with the Little Rock Travelers of the Southern Association.

Morrison-Long Peace Rumors Persisting

WASHINGTON, April 1.—(AP)—Persistent but unofficial reports that a truce is in the making between Louisiana Gov. Earl Long and New Orleans Mayor de Lesseps Morrison have been strengthened by a statement here by Dudley LeBlanc, president pro tem of the Louisiana senate.

LeBlanc, who backed Gov. Long with his strong south Louisiana following during the last gubernatorial campaign, spoke at a dinner he gave here before a group of Louisianans and federal trade commission members earlier this week.

Those who attended quoted LeBlanc as saying the state administration desires harmony with New Orleans and that he intends to see if he can't bring Morrison and Long together.

Two years ago the mayor and the governor were political enemies and the long-dominated legislature enacted several laws aimed at New Orleans power. They reduced the city's revenues, changed its form of government and took the police department from under the mayor's direct supervision.

William Green Will Speak In New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, April 1.—(AP)—A. F. L. President William Green will address the state federation of labor here Wednesday.

The announcement came today from E. H. Williams, state federation president.

Williams said that Green realizes "the new frontier of this nation is located in the south." And he said an effort must be made to dovetail the purposes of labor and management to develop the area.

"I think it will be universally conceded that the greatest detriment to such development is coming from the obstructionists who are blocking efforts of conscientious members of congress to promote general progress," Williams said.

"We can rest assured that President Green is going to expose these bitter partisan moves. His address here will give the people of Louisiana some very startling facts about how the obstructionists are preventing progress in the south," Williams added.

The state federation will open a four-day meeting Monday.

Bobby Brown Reports For Duty With New York Yanks

ST. PETERSBURGH, Fla., Apr. 1. — (AP) — Bobby Brown, New York Yankee third baseman, reported to camp with his signed contract today thereby bringing all the bombers in line for the 1950 season. Brown's absence was caused by his desire to complete his medical course at Tulane University. He will receive his diploma this summer.

Following his first workout, Brown said he felt in good shape. He has been working out the past month with the New Orleans Pelican as well as with the Tulane nine.

Leftover oatmeal may be made into a pudding and served with a caramel or cocoa sauce.

OIL PRODUCTION GAINS IN U. S.

Kansas Records Largest Increase In Nation; La. Output Is Upped

TULSA, April 1—(AP)—The nation's crude oil production averaged 4,776,665 barrels daily during the week ended March 25, a bare 115-barrel increase over the previous week, the Oil and Gas Journal reported.

Kansas had the greatest gain, up 5,000 barrels to 264,700 barrels. Illinois and Oklahoma each increased its output 1,300 barrels to 179,100 and 419,950 barrels, respectively.

Louisiana gained 50 barrels to 506,800 barrels, Michigan rose 900 to 44,800, Mississippi increased 700 to 97,700 and Utah added 100 to 3,000.

Only two states, Colorado and Montana, reported declines over 2,000 barrels. The former was down 2,600 to 57,300 and the latter was off 2,100 to 22,000.

Other large losses were in Alabama, down 1,350 barrels to 1,300, and California off 1,300 to 861,800.

The eastern field lost 100 barrels to 56,700, Florida dropped 35 to 1,065, Indiana declined 600 to 26,-900, Kentucky was off 200 to 25,-500, Nebraska was down 50 to 1,400 and Wyoming fell 900 to 158,100.

Production was unchanged in Arkansas, 80,700 barrels; New Mexico 129,400, and Texas 1,838,-450.

Agents Raid Illegal Liquor Operations

HATTIESBURG, Miss., April 1. — (AP) — One of the largest illicit whiskey operations ever found in Mississippi was raided early today seven miles west of Laurel. Four men were arrested by the raiders, by Special Agents of the U. S. alcohol tax unit.

The agents said they destroyed 812 gallons of "moonshine" whiskey, four whiskey stills and 5,-000 gallons of rye mash in 100 steel drums.

Three trucks were confiscated.

C. D. Meeks,NATU investigator, in charge, identified the men arrested as Clarence Holifield, 45; J. Curtis Coleman, 35; H. V. McDonald, 38, and Eli Lee, 35.

Holifield, Coleman and McDonald were charged with violating the internal revenue code, Meeks said, and Lee with transporting untaxed liquor.

None of the federal agents was seriously injured in a 90-mile-an-hour auto crash near Collins, Miss., while pursuing a fleeing carload of moonshine, Meeks said.

He is William Barcus, being treated at Laurel General Hospital.

Police Seek Youth Who Attacked Girl

STOCKTON, Calif., April 1.—(AP)— Police today continued their search for a stout youth "about 18"-who kidnapped and raped pretty 12-year-old Esther Lobato last night.

The child was seized as she was walking home from a movie with her little brother. She told undersheriff Michaels Canlis a car stopped alongside, the driver dragged her inside and then drove to a barn at a nearby town.

Esther said the youth struck her twice, threatening to kill her if she didn't stop screming. When she regained consciousness after he last hit her, the youth had disappeared.

Esther limped to a service station at Lokeford, 17 miles east of Stockton.

A medical examination verified the schoolgirl's claim that she had been raped.

Pope Charged With Attempted Murder

Police Chief Jeff Caldwell of West Monroe said yesterday that a charge of attempted murder had been filed against Jacob Robert Pope, Jr., in the shooting his wife Friday night.

His bond was fixed at $5,000.

The shooting occurred at Joe's Cafe, 100 Coleman avenue. Mrs. Pope, employed as a waitress in the cafe, was shot in her left hand when a hail of 22. caliber rifle bullents bored through the plate glass window. Her injury was not termed serious.

Pope, 25, said he was an employe of a local truck transport company.

It was reported that the couple had been on unfriendly terms and had recently separated.

Violent Earth Shock Terrorizes Leghorn

LIVORNO (Leghorn), Italy, Sunday, April 2. —(AP)—A violent earth shock spread terror in Livorno and the surrounding countryside last night. At least 30 persons were reported injured.

First reports said three buildings collapsed in Livorno.

The shock hit this seaport in northwest Italy about 11 p.m. (5 p.m. Eastern Standard Time) and was accompanied by loud dumblings.

Large crowds poured into the streets and numerous persons jumped into their cars to head for safety in the open country.

At nearby Lucca another sharp shock was reported about five minutes earlier but there were no reports of damage of casualties.

WORLD MARKETS

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

NEW YORK, April 1.—(AP)—Stocks: Firm, low-priced rails in demand. Bonds: Mixed, changes slight. Cotton: Higher, house passes foreign aid bill.

CHICAGO — Wheat: Steady; no rain in southwest. Corn: Steady; trade relatively light. Oats: steady; seeding behind in midwest. Hogs: Nominally steady. Cattle Nominally steady.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, April 1.—(AP)— Grain and lard prices inched upward today in much quieter dealings than in previous sessions this week. Gains were small in all pits with oats giving the best display of underlying firmness from the start.

Wheat closed 1/8-1/4 higher, May $2.24 1/4-3/8, Corn was 1/8 lower to 1/4 higher, May $1.35 1/2-5/8, oats were 1/4-3/8 higher, May 75, rye was 1/4-1 1/4 higher, May $1.34 3/4, soybeans were 5/8 lower to 1/2 higher, May $2.63 3/4-$2.64, and lard was 5 to 10 cents a hundred pounds higher, May $11.30.

COTTON

New York

NEW YORK, April 1.—(AP)—Cotton futures turned firm in late dealings today following early easiness. There was some replacement buying of new crop months on house passage of the foreign aid bill which now goes to the senate.

Earlier, commission house selling was attracted to new crop months by news that President Truman had signed legislation calling for an increase in the 1950 cotton goal acreage.

Futures closed 10 to 50 cents a bale higher than the previous close.

COTTON

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, April 1.—(AP)—Cotton futures advanced here today on trade buying and weekend short covering.

Closing prices were steady 20 cents to 55 cents a bale higher.

Early in the dealings new crop months sold off under long liquidation attributed to the signing by President Truman of legislation increasing cotton acreage allotments, but later on they strengthened on new buying.

Some buying resulted from Washington reports that the economic cooperation administration had authorized some Marshall Plan countries to purchase over $40,-000,000 worth of American cotton.

Spot cotton remained unchanged with middling 15 16-inch quoted at 31.75 cents a pound. Local sales totalled 839 bales.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, April 1.—(AP)—Low-priced stocks, particularly the cheaper rails, dominated the market at higher prices today.

Gains ranged to around a point for favored issues. Elsewhere the tendency was upward but traders took scant interest in many of the market's usual leaders.

Business started off slowly but about half way through the two-hour session gathered speed as the rails made more frequent appearances on the ticker tape. Toward the close there was another slowdown. Volume hit a rate of about 600,000 shares for the day.

Store Burglarized On Louisville Ave.

Burglars for the second consecutive night Friday raided a Louisville avenue business taking $50 from the cash register, a pistol, an undetermined amount of whisky ky and cigarettes, according to Monroe police.

The Rendezvous, 1400 Louisville avenue, was broken into through a north window, police said. An attempt to gain entrance to the safe failed.

Investigating officers pointed out a wooden panel door on the southeast side of the building was broken out, but the burglars were unable to get through an iron door and resorted to the window.

A German pistol was missing Saturday morning, the cigarette machine robbed of change and contents, an undetermined amount of whiskey taken and about $50 from the cash register.

Thursday night two Louisville avenue business concerns were burglarized and three DeSiard street stores.

No arrests had been made in connection with the burglars late Saturday.

OIL PRODUCTION GAINS IN U. S.

Kansas Records Largest Increase In Nation; La. Output Is Upped

TULSA, April 1—(AP)—The nation's crude oil production averaged 4,776,665 barrels daily during the week ended March 25, a bare 115-barrel increase over the previous week, the Oil and Gas Journal reported.

Kansas had the greatest gain, up 5,000 barrels to 264,700 barrels. Illinois and Oklahoma each increased its output 1,300 barrels to 179,100 and 419,950 barrels, respectively.

Louisiana gained 50 barrels to 506,800 barrels, Michigan rose 900 to 44,800, Mississippi increased 700 to 97,700 and Utah added 100 to 3,000.

Only two states, Colorado and Montana, reported declines over 2,000 barrels. The former was down 2,600 to 57,300 and the latter was off 2,100 to 22,000.

Other large losses were in Alabama, down 1,350 barrels to 1,300, and California off 1,300 to 861,800.

The eastern field lost 100 barrels to 56,700, Florida dropped 35 to 1,065, Indiana declined 600 to 26,-900, Kentucky was off 200 to 25,-500, Nebraska was down 50 to 1,400 and Wyoming fell 900 to 158,100.

Production was unchanged in Arkansas, 80,700 barrels; New Mexico 129,400, and Texas 1,838,-450.

Agents Raid Illegal Liquor Operations

HATTIESBURG, Miss., April 1.—(AP)—One of the largest illicit whiskey operations ever found in Mississippi was raided early today seven miles west of Laurel. Four men were arrested by the raiders, by Special Agents of the U. S. alcohol tax unit.

The agents said they destroyed 812 gallons of "moonshine" whiskey, four whiskey stills and 5,-000 gallons of rye mash in 100 steel drums.

Three trucks were confiscated.

C. D. Meeks,NATU investigator, in charge, identified the men arrested as Clarence Holifield, 45; J. Curtis Coleman, 35; H. V. McDonald, 38, and Eli Lee, 35.

Holifield, Coleman and McDonald were charged with violating the internal revenue code, Meeks said, and Lee with transporting untaxed liquor.

None of the federal agents was seriously injured in a 90-mile-an-hour auto crash near Collins, Miss., while pursuing a fleeing carload of moonshine, Meeks said.

He is William Barcus, being treated at Laurel General Hospital.

Morrison-Long Peace Rumors Persisting

WASHINGTON, April 1.—(AP)—Persistent but unofficial reports that a truce is in the making between Louisiana Gov. Earl Long and New Orleans Mayor de Lesseps Morrison have been strengthened by a statement here by Dudley LeBlanc, president pro tem of the Louisiana senate.

LeBlanc, who backed Gov. Long with his strong south Louisiana following during the last gubernatorial campaign, spoke at a dinner he gave here before a group of Louisianans and federal trade commission members earlier this week.

Those who attended quoted LeBlanc as saying the state administration desires harmony with New Orleans and that he intends to see if he can't bring Morrison and Long together.

Two years ago the mayor and the governor were political enemies and the long-dominated legislature enacted several laws aimed at New Orleans power. They reduced the city's revenues, changed its form of government and took the police department from under the mayor's direct supervision.

William Green Will Speak In New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, April 1.—(AP)—A. F. L. President William Green will address the state federation of labor here Wednesday.

The announcement came today from E. H. Williams, state federation president.

Williams said that Green realizes "the new frontier of this nation is located in the south." And he said an effort must be made to dovetail the purposes of labor and management to develop the area.

"I think it will be universally conceded that the greatest detriment to such development is coming from the obstructionists who are blocking efforts of conscientious members of congress to promote general progress," Williams said.

"We can rest assured that President Green is going to expose these bitter partisan moves. His address here will give the people of Louisiana some very startling facts about how the obstructionists are preventing progress in the south," Williams added.

The state federation will open a four-day meeting Monday.

Bobby Brown Reports For Duty With New York Yanks

ST. PETERSBURGH, Fla., Apr. 1. — (AP) — Bobby Brown, New York Yankee third baseman, reported to camp with his signed contract today thereby bringing all the bombers in line for the 1950 season. Brown's absence was caused by his desire to complete his medical course at Tulane University. He will receive his diploma this summer.

Following his first workout, Brown said he felt in good shape. He has been working out the past month with the New Orleans Pelican as well as with the Tulane nine.

Leftover oatmeal may be made into a pudding and served with a caramel or cocoa sauce.

Police Seek Youth Who Attacked Girl

STOCKTON, Calif., April 1.—(AP)— Police today continued their search for a stout youth "about 18"—who kidnapped and raped pretty 12-year-old Esther Lobato last night.

The child was seized as she was walking home from a movie with her little brother. She told undersheriff Michaels Canlis a car stopped alongside, the driver dragged her inside and then drove to a barn at a nearby town.

Esther said the youth struck her twice, threatening to kill her if she didn't stop screming. When she regained consciousness after he last hit her, the youth had disappeared.

Esther limped to a service station at Lokeford, 17 miles east of Stockton.

A medical examination verified the schoolgirl's claim that she had been raped.

Pope Charged With Attempted Murder

Police Chief Jeff Caldwell of West Monroe said yesterday that a charge of attempted murder had been filed against Jacob Robert Pope, Jr., in the shooting his wife Friday night.

His bond was fixed at $5,000.

The shooting occurred at Joe's Cafe, 100 Coleman avenue. Mrs. Pope, employed as a waitress in the cafe, was shot in her left hand when a hail of 22. caliber rifle bullents bored through the plate glass window. Her injury was not termed serious.

Pope, 25, said he was an employe of a local truck transport company.

It was reported that the couple had been on unfriendly terms and had recently separated.

Violent Earth Shock Terrorizes Leghorn

LIVORNO (Leghorn), Italy, Sunday, April 2. —(AP)—A violent earth shock spread terror in Livorno and the surrounding countryside last night. At least 30 persons were reported injured.

First reports said three buildings collapsed in Livorno.

The shock hit this seaport in northwest Italy about 11 p.m. (5 p.m. Eastern Standard Time) and was accompanied by loud dumblings.

Large crowds poured into the streets and numerous persons jumped into their cars to head for safety in the open country.

At nearby Lucca another sharp shock was reported about five minutes earlier but there were no reports of damage of casualties.

WORLD MARKETS

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

NEW YORK, April 1.—(AP)—Stocks: Firm, low-priced rails in demand. Bonds: Mixed, changes slight. Cotton: Higher, house passes foreign aid bill.

CHICAGO — Wheat: Steady; no rain in southwest. Corn: Steady; trade relatively light. Oats: steady; seeding behind in midwest. Hogs: Nominally steady. Cattle Nominally steady.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, April 1.—(AP)— Grain and lard prices inched upward today in much quieter dealings than in previous sessions this week. Gains were small in all pits with oats giving the best display of underlying firmness from the start.

Wheat closed 1/8-1/4 higher, May $2.24 1/4-3/8, Corn was 1/8 lower to 1/4 higher, May $1.35 1/2-5/8, oats were 1/4-3/8 higher, May 75, rye was 1/4-1 1/4 higher, May $1.34 3/4, soybeans were 5/8 lower to 1/2 higher, May $2.63 3/4-$2.64, and lard was 5 to 10 cents a hundred pounds higher, May $11.30.

COTTON

New York

NEW YORK, April 1.—(AP)—Cotton futures turned firm in late dealings today following early easiness. There was some replacement buying of new crop months on house passage of the foreign aid bill which now goes to the senate.

Earlier, commission house selling was attracted to new crop months by news that President Truman had signed legislation calling for an increase in the 1950 cotton goal acreage.

Futures closed 10 to 50 cents a bale higher than the previous close.

COTTON

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, April 1.—(AP)—Cotton futures advanced here today on trade buying and weekend short covering.

Closing prices were steady 20 cents to 55 cents a bale higher.

Early in the dealings new crop months sold off under long liquidation attributed to the signing by President Truman of legislation increasing cotton acreage allotments, but later on they strengthened on new buying.

Some buying resulted from Washington reports that the economic cooperation administration had authorized some Marshall Plan countries to purchase over $40,-000,000 worth of American cotton.

Spot cotton remained unchanged with middling 15/16-inch quoted at 31.75 cents a pound. Local sales totalled 839 bales.

Deaths

GEORGE H. LATTA

George H. Latta, a resident of Monroe for seven years, died today at the home of his sister. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. E. G. Britain, Vicksburg, Miss., Mrs. Ethel Johnson, Monroe.

Funeral services will be conducted by Hixson Brothers Funeral Chapel today at 2:30 p.m., Rev. E. M. Serex officiating. Interment will be in the Old City cemetery in Bastrop.

JIM M. BALL

RUSTON, La., April 1.—(Special)—Funeral services for Jim M. Ball, 75, who died Friday afternoon, will be held at Mt. Zion Baptist Church Sunday.

Survivors are his wife, two daughters, Mrs. H. T. Willis, Clay, and Mrs. A. C. Knox, Quitman; one son, Grady, Vienna, La.; one sister, Mrs. Lilly Edmonston, Monroe; one brother, Henry, Ruston.

Interment will be in Mt. Zion cemetery. Funeral arrangements will be under the direction of Kilpatrick Funeral Home where the body will lie in state until time for the services.

WILLIAM B. COLLINS

William B. Collins, 76, died Saturday morning at his residence in Swartz. He was formerly employed with the Missouri-Pacific Railroad as an engineer.

Surviving are his wife, three daughters, Mrs. John W. Moore, Monroe, Mrs. T. T. Brown, Georgetown, South Carolina, and Mrs. Ed Trippe, Bastrop; four sisters, Mrs Mary Roark, Shreveport, Mrs. Emma Freeman, Los Angeles, Calif., Mrs. Walter Meusche, Battle Creek Mich., and Mrs. Albert Abernathy, Fordyce, Ark.

The body remained in state at Hixon Brothers Funeral Home until this morning when it was taken to Tyro, Ark., where funeral will be held, Rev. O. P. Bazer, Fairbanks, officiating.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, April 1.—(AP)—Low-priced stocks, particularly the cheaper rails, dominated the market at higher prices today.

Gains ranged to around a point for favored issues. Elsewhere the tendency was upward but traders took scant interest in many of the market's usual leaders.

Business started off slowly but about half way through the two-hour session gathered speed as the rails made more frequent appearances on the ticker tape. Toward the close there was another slowdown. Volume hit a rate of about 600,000 shares for the day.

YOU WANTA TELL ME?
About the kind of house you have in mind. I know a lot of people dream about being out on a nice quiet ranch with music of rippling branch water and the clatter of cattle hoofs.
And then there are those that are out and want the busy bustle of city life. They have to get up rushing and burning that precious gas to drive miles to work and would give anything for a place in town.
Now which ever way you are dreaming its time to wake up and do something about it . . . .

YOU WANTA TELL ME?
About the kind of house you have in mind. I know a lot of people dream about being out on a nice quiet ranch with music of rippling branch water and the clatter of cattle hoofs.

And then there are those that are out and want the busy bustle of city life. They have to get up rushing and burning that precious gas to drive miles to work and would give anything for a place in town.

Now which ever way you are dreaming its time to wake up and do something about it . . . .

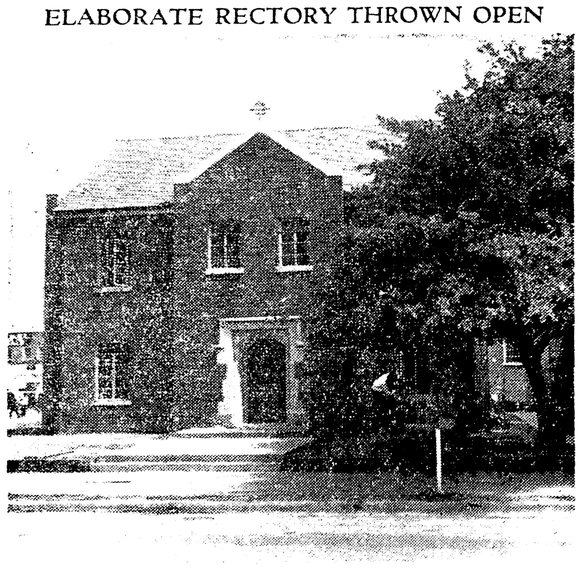
ELABORATE RECTORY THROWN OPEN



Following the blessing of this structure this afternoon by the bishop, this magnificent new home for the priesthood of St. Matthew's will be occupied in a few days time. (News-Star—World Photo by Marvin DuBos.)

St. Matthew's Dedicating 2 Fine New Buildings Today

Monroyans and friends of St. Matthew's Church from the surrounding area will witness this afternoon the church's official blessing of new buildings erected to the service of God. His Excellency, Most. Reverend Charles P. Greco, D. D., will dedicate the new rectory and gymnasium-auditorium, at 3:30 this afternoon.

The term "rectory" is synonymous with "priests' house" and usually serves the dual purpose of living quarters and parish offices. St. Matthew's new rectory at 123 Jackson Street has three offices and reception room on the ground floor. The kitchen, dining room, housekeeper's quarters and power room are also on the first floor.

The second floor is distinctly residential. One enters a large room furnished in etchwood at the head of the stairs. Four bedrooms provide living quarters for the pastor, assistants and guests.

The rectory is of solid brick, fireproof, centrally cooled and heated. Built at a cost of approximately $50,000.00, its design conforms effectively to the purpose of service to priests and parishioners.

On the site of the venerable old rectory which served St. Matthew's for nearly a century, at 309 Grammont street, stands the new gymnasium - auditorium, which was built simultaneously with the new rectory at a cost of $100,000.00. The brick building, measuring 145 x 62 feet serves the manifold needs of St. Matthew's school and parish. The stage and gym space are of ample size and are to be provided with modern accoutrements and bleachers.

The front two-story wing includes the lobby, office, religious articles store and cloak room at ground level. The entire second floor of this wing comprises a meeting room for parish organizations.

In its entirety, the school building, the new gymnasium-auditorium and the new rectory provide adequate facilities for a complete educational, athletic, social and service program for the entire parish.

MASSIVELY IMPRESSIVE GYM FOR ST. MATTHEW'S

OTTO MATTHIESSEN COMMITS SUICIDE

Famed Harvard Man Writes Note Saying He Was 'Depressed Over World Affairs'

BOSTON, April 1.—(AP)—A world-famed Harvard man of letters, long active in the Progressive party, leaped to his death from a hotel today after writing in a last note that he was "depressed over world affairs."

Dr. Francis Otto Matthiessen, 48, was termed a suicide by medical examiner Timothy Leary after a plunge from the 15th floor of the Hotel Manger.

Matthiessen, known as an authority on the Novelist Henry James and for other works of literary criticism and history, had been a professor of literature and history at Harvard University since 1942.

He was Massachusetts delegate-at-large to the Progressive party from 1944 to 1948 and a member of the National Executive Committee of the Progressive Citizens of America.

In addition he was an official of the Massachusetts Civil Liberties Union and a trustee of the Samuel Adams School of Boston.

That school was listed as subversive once by U. S. Attorney Tom Clarke. Its officers denied the charge.

Matthiessen, a bachelor, had been living on Beacon Hill during a year's leave of absence from Harvard while at work on a biography of the novelist, Theodore Dreiser.

A note found in the hotel room said:

"I am depressed over world affairs. I am a Christian and a Socialist and I am against any order that interferes with that objective. I would like to be buried by the side of my mother in Springfield, Mass."

Harvard Professor Kenneth B. Murdock said Matthiessen visited him shortly before midnight last night and that when he left he seemed "suffering from extreme depression."

Born in Pasadena, Calif., Matthiessen was graduated from Yale in 1923 and took other degrees at Harvard and Oxford University in England.

His writings on James included "Henry James: The Mayor Phase" and he was also known for "American Renaissance" and "The Achievement of T. S. Eliot," among his other books.

Harvard Dean Wilbur J. Bender said Matthiessen's death was "A great and tragic loss to the college."

Acquitted Policemen Will Not Keep Jobs

LAFAYETTE, Ala., April 1.—(AP)—Two white ex-policemen acquitted of charges they beat a Negro youth to death will not be restored to their jobs.

Acting Mayor Harrell Huguley said today the city council fired one of them, James R. Clark, 28, and the other, Doyle Mitcham, 24, resigned of his own accord.

They were indicted on first degree murder charges in the fatal beating of 18-year-old Willie B. Carlisle. The Negro had been arrested for letting the air out of a tire of their squad car, they said. At their trial they testified they beat Carlisle, but only after he pulled a knife on them and refused to enter a jail cell.

Garden Club Delegates Suddenly Stricken Ill

BRUNSWICK, Ga., April 1.—(AP)—Thirty-five or more delegates at the State Garden Club convention became ill suddenly last night.

"There is no doubt that it was food poisoning," said Dr. M. E. Winchester, Glynn county health officer.

Several of the women required hospital treatment, but all were reported in satisfactory condition today.

Dr. Winchester said the food poisoning could not be attributed at present to any one place. He said the convention had a banquet last night and that delegates also attended a tea in the afternoon.

Pope Pius Reported Fatigued, Suffering

VATICAN CITY, April 1.—(AP)—Vatican informants said today Pope Pius XII is fatigued and suffering from pains in his right leg and foot.

They noted that the Pontiff did not descend from his portable throne at a general audience today and mingle with the Holy Year pilgrims as has been his custom. Instead, he retired immediately after the audience to his private apartment to rest.

The frail, 74-year-old Pope has been suffering from arteriosclerosis (hardening of the arteries) in his right leg for some time. One informant who attended today's audience said the Pope's right foot appeared slightly swollen.

No formal activities are scheduled for the Pope tomorrow.

LADIES' NIGHT HELD BY LIONS

Evening Of Magic Is Utilized For Unique Entertainment

Congeniality and surprises were keynotes of the North Monroe Lion's recent meeting which took the form of a Ladies Night celebration, with H. M. James directing the program for the special event.

Representatives from other organizations and women guests added to the banquet at the Rendezvous. Long tables in the fireside room were decorated with flags of various nations, red roses and other spring flowers.

The gala affair included special music, magic and presentation of gifts to three lucky persons.

Highlighting the novelty features was a program of magic given by Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Hodges of Monroe. They captivated their audience with a variety of tricks that offered both interest and artistry. The couple, with eighteen years of professional experience, presented a series of unique demonstrations in their evening's performance as guests of the organization. The innumerable challenging stunts involving all kinds of paraphernalia brought an ovation for the couple who were billed as Oleta and LaMont during their stage career.

Also on the surprise list was the presentation of two gifts to persons drawing lucky numbers. The contents of the Lions Club piggy bank went to W. E. Moore, Jr., organization member, and a piece of pottery was awarded to Miss Lila Fortenberry, guest of Earl B. "Flash" Williams.

Musical numbers were sung by a quartet comprising Charles Biggar, Ruel Ferguson, William Latham and Joe Haddad. Among their selections, in which they were accompanied by Max Kulcke, was a song honoring the birthday anniversary of Eugene Galligan who was presented a small fire extinguisher.

President Fran Brennan introduced as a particular guest his mother, Mrs. Rebecca Brennan, and Lion officers and directors. Officers included: Joe Haddad, first vice-president; Lee Koehler, second vice-president; William Latham, third vice-president; Eugene am, third vice president; Eugene Galligan, secretary - treasurer; Charles Biggar, tail twister and Curt L. Hensley, Lion tamer.

Members of the board of directors included: H. M. James, S. E. Strausser, Dr. T. A. Brulte, Ray Frankowicz and Ivan Calk.

The North Monroe Lions Club, organized about one and a half years ago, now has a membership of forty-two. It has assisted in various civic projects, and last year the group sponsored a community Christmas tree. In keeping with this idea, the organization planted a large tree on the Central Grammar School grounds so that in future years a living tree could be decorated.

Getting Pal Out Of Tight Spots Routine

ALLENTOWN, Pa., April 1. —(AP)—Getting little Nick out of tight spots is becoming routine to nine-year-old Dennis Daskalakes.

Today, Dennis and his chum, Nicholas Rompilla, 7, went on a spring exploration along Jordan creek. Nick, who can't swim, tumbled into the creek.

Unhesitatingly, Dennis waded into the three-feet deep water, pulled his friend to safety. They went home, changed clothes and resumed their adventuring.

Yesterday, Dennis and Nick paused to watch a pile of old boxes burning in a field near their home. Nick's foot became caught in the boxes.

Unhesitatingly, Dennis grabbed a board that lay nearby and pried Dennis' shoe from his foot. The shoe burned.

Dennis scoffed today at the townfold who call him "hero." With magnificent disdain, Dennis grumbled: "Aaah, it wasn't anything."

Add small pieces of cooked smoked tongue cut from the trimmings—to a tomato sauce for spaghetti. Good with a tossed green salad and toasted garlic bread.

THE ELEMENTARY DISCUSSION GROUP OF SHERROUSE P. T. A. HAVE MEETING

"The Measure of Responsibility" was the subject for thought when the elementary discussion group of the Sherrouse P. T. A. met on Friday morning in the home of Mrs. J. Herbert Walker.

"By the time a youngster arrives at school age, the problem of finding how much he can take in the way of responsibility is a little easier, perhaps, than when he was a pre-school child; but it is none too easy now," stated Mrs. George Pearce, Jr., discussion leader.

Members present took part in the interesting discussion and the following views were agreed upon.

We think of responsibility in two ways. We think of it from an ethical standpoint, as a quality that helps build good moral character and also, more practically, as a very necessary ability to answer for one's conduct and obligations. Responsibility is not the same thing as good behavior or obedience or cooperation. It is not any one particular thing that a child does or refrain from doing. When we say responsibility we are referring not to the process of behavior but to the end product.

Children of all ages will accept responsibilities more readily when they are definite and visible. Hence the more simply they can be defined in terms of space, time, or quantity, the better. To have a certain room in order by a certain time every day will give the young person a feeling of pride and achievement that may be difficult to gain through a miscellany of scattered and irregular tasks.

As has been shown, responsibility can be considered in a practical light—as a way to obtain results. Responsibility also has another aspect, which has to do with developing a quality of character. These two aspects go hand in hand, and the measure of responsibility may also be seen as a measure of the independence and maturity of the child.

This session covered the seventh article in the elementary school series of the "Freedom to Grow" study courses sponsored by the National Parent-Teacher. Time and place of the next discussion will be announced.

MARY HELEN M'DANIEL BRIDE OF JOSEPH HUBERT TRICHEL

The First Baptist Church of this city at four o'clock Sunday afternoon was the scene of the marriage of Miss Mary Helen McDaniel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver McDaniel of Clarks, Louisiana and Mr. Joseph Hubert Trichel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hays Trichel of Monroe.

Rev. Jas. Horton, pastor, performed the impressive double-ring ceremony before the altar, decorated with tall white baskets of gladiolli and greenery. Candelabra held myraids of tall white tapers, and the pews were marked with white satin bows.

Mrs. Florence Albritton played the prenuptial music at the organ, accompanied by Mrs. J. Norman Coon who sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly." At the close of the ceremony she sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Preceeding the ceremony the candles were lighted by Ingrid Peterson whose blonde loveliness was set off by her pink taffeta frock and Eva Sue Trichel, a charming little brunette in blue.

The bride's only attendant was Miss Alice Chilton, who was wearing a blue silk spring model with a matching straw hat. She carried an old-fashioned nosegay of pink and white carnations.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in a white crepe frock, fashioned with a deep lace bertha with which she wore a corsage of orchids. Her pink straw hat was an off-the-face model. She carried a white Bible, topped with carnations. She observed all the time honored traditions wearing something new, blue and borrowed.

The groom's attendant was his brother-in-law, Mr. John Otnott, and the ushers were Mr. James Larkin and Mr. Herbert Milford.

Following the wedding, a reception was held in the social center of the church, which was decorated with a profusion of iris, stock, and bridal wreath.

The bride's table, covered with a white lace cloth was centered with a tiered wedding cake, atop of which stood a miniature bride and groom.

Mrs. E. G. Touchstone and Mrs. E. H. Eshelman presided at the punch bowl. Assisting in the serving were Mrs. F. H. Peterson, Mrs. H. S. Chilton, Mrs. W. L. Rothermel, Mrs. Marion Tetreau, and Mrs. Jack Hollingworth.

For their wedding trip along the coast, the bride was wearing a dusty pink wool suit with white blouse, and black accessories. An orchid corsage completed her ensemble.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Oliver McDaniel, of Clarke; Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Tarver, of Kelly; Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Broussard, of Lake Charles; Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Moor, Mr. Muriel McDaniel, Miss Genenieve Carter, of Clarke; Mr. John Allen McDaniel of Ruston, and Miss Imogene McDaniel of Kelly.

Mr. and Mrs. Trichel will make their home in Monroe.

Rehearsal Dinner

The rehearsal dinner for the McDaniel-Trichell wedding party was given in the Hays Trichell home with Mrs. George Harrell serving as co-hostess.

The bride-elect wore a spring suit of light-weight pink wool, with a corsage of carnations.

A delectable array of food was served buffet style from a linen-covered table. The unique center piece was fashioned of miniature yellow brair-roses.

Miss McDaniel chose this occasion to present her attendants with gifts. To Miss Alice Chilton she presented a piece of silver, to Mrs. J. Norman Coon and Mrs. Florence Albritton she gave crystal and to Misses Ingrid Peterson and Eva Sue Trichell little silver thimbles. Mr. J. Hubert Trichell also presented his attendants, Mr. John Otnott, Mr. Herbert Milford, and Mr. Jimmie Larkins, with sets of sterling silver cuff links.

MISS BEVERLY RINGWALD BRIDE-ELECT OF BOBBY CARROLL WILSON

Mr. and Mrs. Cyril O. Ringwald announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Beverly, to Bobby Carroll Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Wilson of West Monroe.

Miss Ringwald was graduated from Ouachita Parish High School and attended Northeast Junior College. She received a Bachelor of Science degree from Northwestern State College where she was a member of Alpha Sigma Alpha sorority and Kappa Delta Pi fraternity. Miss Ringwald is now located in Beaumont, Texas where she is a member of the faculty of the Beaumont City Schools.

Mr. Wilson was graduated from Ouachita Parish High School and attended Louisiana Polytechnic Institute.

The wedding will take place in June.

The Watson Home Demonstration Club Has March Meeting

The Watson Home Demonstration Club met March 23 in the Watson School Cafeteria. The meeting was called to order by the president, Eva Gewin.

The monthly meeting was opened with the club collect said in unison. Following the club collect, a reading, "Live Truly," was read by Mrs. Nora Kelley. The club then joined Miss Craft in singing "Onward Christian Soldiers."

Roll call followed and was answered by giving pattern size and the minutes were read and approved.

The club then agreed to have entertainment for the benefit of the school and club, final plans to be made at the next meeting.

Mrs. T. T. Jones gave a report on "Short Cuts for Homemakers." She stated that a utility room would save much time in helping to keep the house clean, as well as providing a place for washing.

In the absence of the poultry leader, Mrs. Dora Raws, Mrs. Kelley gave the poultry reports.

Mrs. Speilman, assisted by the clothing leader, Mrs. Hamilton, gave a demonstration on "How to Know Ourselves and Patterns." After Mrs. Spielman demonstrated how to measure yourself, select your pattern, and alter, she and Mrs. Hamilton measured each member present and helped them to select their correct pattern size.

The meeting was then adjourned by a prayer given by Mrs. Nora Kelley.

THE ELEMENTARY DISCUSSION GROUP OF SHERROUSE P. T. A. HAVE MEETING

"The Measure of Responsibility" was the subject for thought when the elementary discussion group of the Sherrouse P. T. A. met on Friday morning in the home of Mrs. J. Herbert Walker.

"By the time a youngster arrives at school age, the problem of finding how much he can take in the way of responsibility is a little easier, perhaps, than when he was a pre-school child; but it is none too easy now," stated Mrs. George Pearce, Jr., discussion leader.

Members present took part in the interesting discussion and the following views were agreed upon.

We think of responsibility in two ways. We think of it from an ethical standpoint, as a quality that helps build good moral character and also, more practically, as a very necessary ability to answer for one's conduct and obligations. Responsibility is not the same thing as good behavior or obedience or cooperation. It is not any one particular thing that a child does or refrain from doing. When we say responsibility we are referring not to the process of behavior but to the end product.

Children of all ages will accept responsibilities more readily when they are definite and visible. Hence the more simply they can be defined in terms of space, time, or quantity, the better. To have a certain room in order by a certain time every day will give the young person a feeling of pride and achievement that may be difficult to gain through a miscellany of scattered and irregular tasks.

As has been shown, responsibility can be considered in a practical light—as a way to obtain results. Responsibility also has another aspect, which has to do with developing a quality of character. These two aspects go hand in hand, and the measure of responsibility may also be seen as a measure of the independence and maturity of the child.

This session covered the seventh article in the elementary school series of the "Freedom to Grow" study courses sponsored by the National Parent-Teacher. Time and place of the next discussion will be announced.

LAKE PROVIDENCE

Dr. D. F. Davis, Institutional Representative or contact man between the Rotary Club, Scout sponsors, and Troop 25, was host to a Scout dinner on Tuesday evening. It was a meeting to review activities of 1949 and make plans for 1950, a troop charter review meeting.

Guests invited to enjoy the hospitality of Dr. and Mrs. Davis, participate in the plan-making and enjoy the good eats were Jerry Harrigill, assistant Scout executive of Ouachita Valley Council, Monroe, M. Mr. and Mrs. Jack N. Fisher shown cutting their wedding cake following their marriage of March 18. Mrs. Fisher is the former Audrey Mae Miller, daughter of Mrs. W. C. Miller of Delhi, Mr. Fisher is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Fisher of this city.

MISS GENE COURTNEY BRIDE OF CURTIS ROSS M'KINNEY

In an impressive ceremony, Miss Gene Courtney became the bride of Curtis Ross McKinney of Ruston, Saturday, March 25, in the home of the Rev. L. E. Douglas, pastor of the First Methodist church in Arcadia.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Eunette Kernaghan Courtney of Hattiesburg, Miss., and the late Eugene Gordon Courtney of this city. Her paternal grandfather was the late Captain Eugene Courtney and maternal grandmother is Mrs. Stella Courtney. Her maternal grandparents were Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Kernaghan of Hattiesburg, Mississippi. Mr. McKinney is the son of Mrs. C. R. McKinney of Tallulah and the late Mr. McKinney of Lake Providence.

For the occasion the bride chose a powder blue crepe ensemble fashioned with a sheered bodice and full skirt. Her accessories were pink and navy blue and she wore a single white orchid corsage.

Miss Hellen Marie Stall, of Gibsland, was the bride's only attendant. She wore a navy blue silk model with navy and white accessories. Her shoulder corsage was of pink camelias. Ralph R. Kirkland, of Shreveport, served the bridegroom as best man.

Mrs. McKinney was graduated from Louisiana Polytechnic Institute in Ruston, receiving her degree in journalism. She was a member of Beta Delta sorority in Monroe. At Louisiana Tech she was affiliated with Beta Sigma Omicron social sorority and Sigma Tau Delta, honorary fraternity. She served as Pan Hellenic representative. Society editor of the Tech Talk, and organizations' editor of the Lagniappe.

Mr. McKinney is presently attending Louisiana Polytechnic Institute where he is a senior in the school of business administration. During the war he served as 1st lieutenant in the 8th Air Force in England and later in the 5th Air Force in Japan.

The couple plan to make their home in Ruston.

Bridal Shower Honors Mrs. Tom Herrin In Hodge

Mrs. Harold Leppich, Mrs. Edd Askew and Mrs. G. H. Robinson complimented Mrs. Tom Herrin at the Advance Country Club Monday night March 20, with a lovely and well planned miscellaneous shower. Mrs. Herrin will be remembered by her friends as Miss Norma Stewart before her marriage to Mr. Herrin. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. J. Stewart of Hodge, Louisiana.

The lounge and dining hall of the Country Club was artistically decoarted with bouquets of spring flowers placed at vantage points throughout the rooms. Generous slices of brides cake, coffee and mints were served to the following guests:

Mrs. E. S. Hamilton Entertains Cadeville Club At Meeting

The Cadeville Club held their March meeting in the home of Mrs. E. S. Hamilton, twelve members of the Cadeville Home Demonstration Club met with Mrs. Euna Spielman for their regular monthly meeting.

The club president, Mrs. Lee H. Wilder call i the meeting to order and gave the thought of the day, 'the clothes you wear can be a blessing or a snare'. All joined in singing "Onward Christian Soldiers" and gave the pledge of allegiance to the flag. The roll call was answered by giving the size of the pattern each member buys. In the course of business, the new type mail boxes on rural routes was discussed. Ten boxes were sold to the club members.

The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. Spielman, the parish agent who gave an instructive demonstration on fitting patterns and cutting mat rials. She was assisted by Mrs. J. R. Haynes, the clubs clothing leader. Mrs. James Sturdivant gave the council report.

Mrs. W. O. Roberts, Mrs. W. E. French and Mrs. C. L. Sullivan were appointed to assist with the 4-H club achievement day.

One visitor was present. The April meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. J. R. Haynes.

A social hour followed the business meeting and delicious refreshments were served.

NEWS FROM THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

The Ouachita Parish Public Library is constantly adding new books to the library collection. In addition to popular books of fiction many books of non-fiction and books to be used for reference have recently been purchased. Patterson's American Educational Directory" is a very valuable reference tool. It gives information about school systems in every part of this country. "The N. W. Ayer and Son's Directory of Newspapers and Periodicals" is a complete index to all newspapers and periodicals published in the United States and Canada. If you want to know the name of the newspapers published in any city in this country, if you want the publisher and price of any magazine, this index will find the information for you. Both of these books fill a long felt need in the reference collection of the library.

Every day more and more people are asking for books of general interest "Shakespeare of London" by Marchette Chute is a fascinating new interpretation and criticism of the greatest mind in English literature. "The Doctor Has a Family" by Evelyn Larkins is a continuation of her earlier books "I love my Doctor" and "The Doctor has a Baby". It is written in a most humorous style and will find a public waiting for it. "This is Judaism" by Ferdinand Isserman is a most interesting discussion of Judaism, written by a student of the subject. "I Hear you Calling Me" by Lily McCormack is a fascinating biography of John McCormack. It is beautifully written and well-worth reading.

A beautiful book about New Orleans is the new one by Stuart M. Lunn. He calls it "New Orleans". It has beautiful photographs and the description is well done. "Berlin Command" by Frank Howley is an interesting account of the army of occupation in Berlin. "Pivot of Asia" by Owen Lattimore is an interesting discussion of the Far Eastern situation. All bird lovers would like to own Audubon's "Birds of America." Recently Macmillan has put out a new edition in a popular price. The plates are much smaller and the colors are not quite so true, but it is a lovely book for any child to own. It is also one that the library can circulate. "Jefferson and Madison" by Adrienne Koch is a penetrating discussion of the relation between these two masters of diplomacy.

The most beautiful book that the library has received in a long time is "A Treasury of Early American Homes" by Richard Pratt. This is a reprint of the fascinating articles which appeared last year in the Ladies Home Journal about American homes. The illustrations are in color and it is a fascinating book. Every woman who keeps house will be interested in "Menus and Recipes for the Discriminating Hostess" by Ella Liner Lambert. It has many delightful ideas for entertinaing. "Next Week, East Lynne" by Gladys Hurlbut is a charming book about the days of stock companies and road shows in this country. "I Leap over the Wall" by Monica Baldwin is an interesting account of a girl who spent many years in a convent and then decided to leave it and come back to the everyday world. "Ends and Means in Education" by Theodoer Brameld is a searching evaluation of the educational system of the United States and should be read by all teachers and educators.

"The American Mind" by Henry Steele Commager is a discerning study of the American ideal and thought for the past three centuries. Students of American history and American literature will be especially interested in this book. If you want information on any subject, your library will attempt to furnish it for you.

McKENNEY Answers Your CANASTA Questions

Deuces Can Be Put On Canastas

BY WILLIAM E. McKENNEY

Having canastas and no other melds, many readers find themselves perplexed when a wild card enters their hand. This is particularly true when they are holding only a few cards in their hand and hope to go out. A typical question is:

Q.—I have two mixed canastas and no other melds. Holding a deuce and one other card in my hand, may I place the deuce on a canasta, discard the other card and go out?

A.—Yes. You may add as many wild cards to the canasta as you wish.

Some other questions I have received recently are:

Q.—My mother placed a red trey on the table and drew a card from the stock pile to replace it. She then made her initial meld and discarded. After the next player's turn, she discovered she had only 10 cards, having forgotten to draw at her turn. She wanted to draw two cards at her next turn, but Dad insisted that she play with only 10 cards. Which one was correct?

A.—Dad was correct. The official rule states that if a player fails to replenish his hand for a red trey, and the error is not discovered until the next player has drawn, play continues without correction.

Q.—I laid down two natural nines and picked up the discard pile which had a nine on top. After melding three nines and studying the cards of the discard pile I had picked up, I asked my partner, "May I go out?" My opponents said this was wrong, and that I could not ask for permission to go out after laying down the necessary cards to pick up the discard pile.

A.—Your opponents were right. According to the rules, a player may ask for permission to go out only at his proper turn to play and before melding or indicating a possible meld. As a matter of fact, the rules require that a player must go out if he melds, or indicates a meld, and then asks the question. When you ask the question before drawing, and receive a negative answer from your partner, you still have the right to take the discard pile if you can.

Q.—My opponent declared himself out in the middle of a hand because he had a count of 5000 points, including his previous score plus the melds on the table before him. Is this permissible?

A.—No. Each hand has to be played completely. A score may be added to a previous score only at the end of a hand. According to the official laws, the game terminates at the end of any hand in which a total of 5000 or more points is reached by either side or both sides. If both sides exceed 5000 at the end of a hand, the side with the higher total score wins the game, no matter which side went out on that particular hand.

Q.—Can you put down just a joker for an initial meld of 50 points?

A.—No. You never can meld a single card. You are always required to meld at least two natural cards with one wild card, and you can meld two natural cards with as many as three wild cards. Wild cards may be added to melds, but never melded by themselves.

Q.—I have four black treys in my hand and three wild cards. May I play them as a canasta and go out?

A.—No you cannot form a canasta of black treys. If you have a base of four natural cards on the table, you can put your three wild cards with that base, thus forming a canasta, then put down your four black treys and go out.

Mr. McKenney is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

Use leftover lamb from a Sunday roast for sandwiches, in a salad, or in Shepherd's Pie. To make the pie cut the leftover lamb in small squares, mix with cooked vegetables, leftover gravy and seasonings and pile into a baking dish; top with mashed potatoes and put into oven until heated through and potato topping is a golden brown.

Mrs. Roy Edward Koski, the former Miss Marjorie Horton, daughter of Mrs. A. W. Horton, of Columbia, who was recently married in San Francisco, Calif., sailed this week for Honolulu, Hawaii, where she will make her future home.

Marjorie Horton Recent Bride Of Dr. Roy E. Hoski

Mrs. A. W. Horton of Columbia announces the marriage of her daughter, Marjorie, to Dr. Roy Edward Kiski which took place the Baptist Church in San Francisco, California.

The bride was wearing a bridal gown of traditional white satin fashioned on princess lines with long fitted sleeves coming to a point over the hands and buttoned with tiny self covered buttons. The skirt was full and extended into a short train. Her bridal veil was caught to a head laced trimmed with tiny seed pearls.

Miss Frances Johnson was the maid of honor and was gowned in orchid taffeta. Dr. McBride of Portland, Oregon served the groom as best man.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the St. Frances Hotel. On the bride's table was a lace cloth and a tiered wedding cake. After the reception the bridal couple left for Carmel on a honeymoon trip.

The bride is a graduate of the Columbia High School and a school of nursing. She enlisted in the armed forces in 1941 where she served in the Pacific area. For the past two years Mr. Koski has been stationed in Honolulu, Hawaii.

Dr. Koski is a graduate of Stanford University where he received his degree in dentistry, and also served with the U. S. Army where he held the rank of captain.

Soon after the Pilgrims arrived in America, friendly Indians taught them to make all-leather moccasins which were exported back to England beginning with the middle of the 17th Century.

A bicycling craze in the 1890's brought a demand for better roads.

Patterson's American Educational Directory" is a very valuable reference tool. It gives information about school systems in every part of this country. "The N. W. Ayer and Son's Directory of Newspapers and Periodicals" is a complete index to all newspapers and periodicals published in the United States and Canada. If you want to know the name of the newspapers published in any city in this country, if you want the publisher and price of any magazine, this index will find the information for you. Both of these books fill a long felt need in the reference collection of the library.

Every day more and more people are asking for books of general interest "Shakespeare of London" by Marchette Chute is a fascinating new interpretation and criticism of the greatest mind in English literature. "The Doctor Has a Family" by Evelyn Larkins is a continuation of her earlier books "I love my Doctor" and "The Doctor has a Baby". It is written in a most humorous style and will find a public waiting for it. "This is Judaism" by Ferdinand Isserman is a most interesting discussion of Judaism, written by a student of the subject. "I Hear you Calling Me" by Lily McCormack is a fascinating biography of John McCormack. It is beautifully written and well-worth reading.

A beautiful book about New Orleans is the new one by Stuart M. Lunn. He calls it "New Orleans". It has beautiful photographs and the description is well done. "Berlin Command" by Frank Howley is an interesting account of the army of occupation in Berlin. "Pivot of Asia" by Owen Lattimore is an interesting discussion of the Far Eastern situation. All bird lovers would like to own Audubon's "Birds of America." Recently Macmillan has put out a new edition in a popular price. The plates are much smaller and the colors are not quite so true, but it is a lovely book for any child to own. It is also one that the library can circulate. "Jefferson and Madison" by Adrienne Koch is a penetrating discussion of the relation between these two masters of diplomacy.

The most beautiful book that the library has received in a long time is "A Treasury of Early American Homes" by Richard Pratt. This is a reprint of the fascinating articles which appeared last year in the Ladies Home Journal about American homes. The illustrations are in color and it is a fascinating book. Every woman who keeps house will be interested in "Menus and Recipes for the Discriminating Hostess" by Ella Liner Lambert. It has many delightful ideas for entertinaing. "Next Week, East Lynne" by Gladys Hurlbut is a charming book about the days of stock companies and road shows in this country. "I Leap over the Wall" by Monica Baldwin is an interesting account of a girl who spent many years in a convent and then decided to leave it and come back to the everyday world. "Ends and Means in Education" by Theodoer Brameld is a searching evaluation of the educational system of the United States and should be read by all teachers and educators.

"The American Mind" by Henry Steele Commager is a discerning study of the American ideal and thought for the past three centuries. Students of American history and American literature will be especially interested in this book. If you want information on any subject, your library will attempt to furnish it for you.

McKENNEY Answers Your CANASTA Questions

BY WILLIAM E. McKENNEY

Having canastas and no other melds, many readers find themselves perplexed when a wild card enters their hand. This is particularly true when they are holding only a few cards in their hand and hope to go out. A typical question is:

Q.—I have two mixed canastas and no other melds. Holding a deuce and one other card in my hand, may I place the deuce on a canasta, discard the other card and go out?

A.—Yes. You may add as many wild cards to the canasta as you wish.

Some other questions I have received recently are:

Q.—My mother placed a red trey on the table and drew a card from the stock pile to replace it. She then made her initial meld and discarded. After the next player's turn, she discovered she had only 10 cards, having forgotten to draw at her turn. She wanted to draw two cards at her next turn, but Dad insisted that she play with only 10 cards. Which one was correct?

A.—Dad was correct. The official rule states that if a player fails to replenish his hand for a red trey, and the error is not discovered until the next player has drawn, play continues without correction.

Q.—I laid down two natural nines and picked up the discard pile which had a nine on top. After melding three nines and studying the cards of the discard pile I had picked up, I asked my partner, "May I go out?" My opponents said this was wrong, and that I could not ask for permission to go out after laying down the necessary cards to pick up the discard pile.

A.—Your opponents were right. According to the rules, a player may ask for permission to go out only at his proper turn to play and before melding or indicating a possible meld. As a matter of fact, the rules require that a player must go out if he melds, or indicates a meld, and then asks the question. When you ask the question before drawing, and receive a negative answer from your partner, you still have the right to take the discard pile if you can.

Q.—My opponent declared himself out in the middle of a hand because he had a count of 5000 points, including his previous score plus the melds on the table before him. Is this permissible?

A.—No. Each hand has to be played completely. A score may be added to a previous score only at the end of a hand. According to the official laws, the game terminates at the end of any hand in which a total of 5000 or more points is reached by either side or both sides. If both sides exceed 5000 at the end of a hand, the side with the higher total score wins the game, no matter which side went out on that particular hand.

Q.—Can you put down just a joker for an initial meld of 50 points?

A.—No. You never can meld a single card. You are always required to meld at least two natural cards with one wild card, and you can meld two natural cards with as many as three wild cards. Wild cards may be added to melds, but never melded by themselves.

Q.—I have four black treys in my hand and three wild cards. May I play them as a canasta and go out?

A.—No you cannot form a canasta of black treys. If you have a base of four natural cards on the table, you can put your three wild cards with that base, thus forming a canasta, then put down your four black treys and go out.

Mr. McKenney is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

Use leftover lamb from a Sunday roast for sandwiches, in a salad, or in Shepherd's Pie. To make the pie cut the leftover lamb in small squares, mix with cooked vegetables, leftover gravy and seasonings and pile into a baking dish; top with mashed potatoes and put into oven until heated through and potato topping is a golden brown.

Mrs. Roy Edward Koski, the former Miss Marjorie Horton, daughter of Mrs. A. W. Horton, of Columbia, who was recently married in San Francisco, Calif., sailed this week for Honolulu, Hawaii, where she will make her future home.

Marjorie Horton Recent Bride Of Dr. Roy E. Hoski

Mrs. A. W. Horton of Columbia announces the marriage of her daughter, Marjorie, to Dr. Roy Edward Kiski which took place the caught to a head laced trimmed with tiny seed pearls.

Miss Frances Johnson was the maid of honor and was gowned in orchid taffeta. Dr. McBride of Portland, Oregon served the groom as best man.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the St. Frances Hotel. On the bride's table was a lace cloth and a tiered wedding cake. After the reception the bridal couple left for Carmel on a honeymoon trip.

The bride is a graduate of the Columbia High School and a school of nursing. She enlisted in the armed forces in 1941 where she served in the Pacific area. For the past two years Mr. Koski has been stationed in Honoluia, Hawaii.

Dr. Koski is a graduate of Stanford University where he received his degree in dentistry, and also served with the U. S. Army where he held the rank of captain.

MY MAN and YOURS

Margene

By Margene Danch

Mrs. Fred Whitman of Albany contributes today's column.

". . . My man is really a very good husband with one or two little exceptions. One of these is the habit of forever telling me what wonders the wives of his friends are accomplishing in this matter of living.

". . . Did you know that Paula Hartnett takes care of that big ten room house all by herself? Fred asks whenever the subject of part-time help comes up. 'Not only that, but she sees that their five kids are always perfectly dressed and still finds time for lots of social get-to-gethers.'

Then, if the matter of buying a new dress for myself ever hits the Senate floor, Fred is off like a bird dog again:

". . . Joe So and So says his wife makes every single thing she wears. She doesn't even buy the buttons. Joe says their clothing bill runs about ten bucks a year!

I could point out that if I made my clothes, I'd look like I was outfitted to win booby prize at the fashion show in Lower Slobbovia, but I simply ignore the implication.

It goes on and on. Fred tells me what terrific cooks lurk in the neighborhood. What charming home economists his friends have married and so on, ad infinitum.

But at last, I've stumbled across a way to low Freddie boy up! It happened quite by accident.

"Say, Fred, did you notice that wonderful roof shingling job on the Johnson house across the street? I asked the other day.

'Yes, I did. What company did it?' he answered.

'No company. Mr. Johnson did it all by himself. Saved over a hundred dollars.'

Fred's face clouded. He loudly denied that Johnson could have done this work. Finally, I had to call the Johnsons to prove my story.

But Hooray for my side! I've found my man's Achilles's heel! Now . . . I wonder what other skilled workers we have in our neighborhood!"

FERRIDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Maxwell and attractive children have returned from a visit with Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Shaw at Rayville.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lehman, of Natchez, were guests Friday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Pasternack.

Mr. and Mrs. John Anders have returned from a wonderful trip to points of interest in Florida.

Mrs. J. E. Hudson and daughter, of Dallas, Tex. spent last week with Mrs. Hudson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Beeton.

Rev. H. W. Giles, district superintendent of the Methodist Church, of the Monroe district, spoke at th Sunday morning services at the Methodist Church last Sunday. Rev. John Sewell, of Alexandria, spoke at the evening services.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hammett and children, of Shreveport are guests of Mrs. Pearl Fleming and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Mayer have returned from a short trip to New Orleans.

MISS VIVIAN GREEN, BRIDE-ELECT FETED AT PRENUPTIAL PARTIES

One of the loveliest prenuptial courtesies extended Miss Vivian Green and Mr. Foster Jones, Jr. recently was the dinner party given in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Binion of Shreveport.

Little Johnnie Binion III presented the bride and groom-elect with a lovely revolving tray.

The dining table was centered with white camellias, clematis and bridal wreath extended to the lighted candles in silver candle stick holders. The bridal motif in green and white was carried out in decorations, as well as the menu. The dessert course of individual cakes embossed with Lillies of the Valley and served with perfectly molded bride and groom ices was most attractive.

During the evening several games were played.

Guests beside the honor guests were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Green, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Hutchison, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. John Binion, Jr.

Also complimentary to Miss Green was the coffee hour given recently at the home of Mrs. Dallas Thomason in Rayville, with Miss Claire Aycock as co-hostess For this occasion, the honoree was wearing a green nylon sport dress with a gay scarf and the carnation corsage presented to her by the hostesses. Miss Green was also presented with a dainty piece of lingerie by the hostesses.

Spring flowers were placed throughout the Thomason home and centering the refreshment table was an attractive arrangement of white spring flowers surrounding a miniature bride and groom.

A variety of open faced sandwiches, tea biscuits, and individual cakes were served. Mrs. J. N. Beam presided at the coffee service.

Guests were Mrs. William Green, Jr., Mrs. Frank Schooler, Mrs. Harry Addison, Mrs. Woodrow Coats, Mrs. Allen Buie, Mrs. J.N. Beam, Mrs. William Hubbard, Mrs. Froman Ellerbe, Mrs. Carey Ellis, Jr., Mrs. Bennie Christian, Mrs. William Simms, Miss Jackie Guynes, Miss Nitsy Guynes, Miss Josephine Mendolia, Miss Lula Newberry, and Miss Elsie Duncan.

MY MAN and YOURS

Margene

By Margene Danch

Mrs. Fred Whitman of Albany contributes today's column.

". . . My man is really a very good husband with one or two little exceptions. One of these is the habit of forever telling me what wonders the wives of his friends are accomplishing in this matter of living.

". . . Did you know that Paula Hartnett takes care of that big ten room house all by herself? Fred asks whenever the subjsct of part-time help comes up. 'Not only that, but she sees that their five kids are always perfectly dressed and still finds time for lots of social get-to-gethers.'

Then, if the matter of buying a new dress for myself ever hits the Senate floor, Fred is off like a bird dog again:

". . . Joe So and So says his wife makes every single thing she wears. She doesn't even buy the buttons. Joe says their clothing bill runs about ten bucks a year!

I could point out that if I made my clothes, I'd look like I was outfitted to win booby prize at the fashion show in Lower Slobbovia, but I simply ignore the implication.

It goes on and on. Fred tells me what terrific cooks lurk in the neighborhood. What charming home economists his friends have married and so on, ad infinitum.

But at last, I've stumbled across a way to low Freddie boy up! It happened quite by accident.

"Say, Fred, did you notice that wonderful roof shingling job on the Johnson house across the street? I asked the other day.

'Yes, I did. What company did it?' he answered.

'No company. Mr. Johnson did it all by himself. Saved over a hundred dollars.'

Fred's face clouded. He loudly denied that Johnson could have done this work. Finally, I had to call the Johnsons to prove my story.

But Hooray for my side! I've found my man's Achilles's heel! Now . . . I wonder what other skilled workers we have in our neighborhood!"

FERRIDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Maxwell and attractive children have returned from a visit with Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Shaw at Rayville.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lehman, of Natchez, were guests Friday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Pasternack.

Mr. and Mrs. John Anders have returned from a wonderful trip to points of interest in Florida.

Mrs. J. E. Hudson and daughter, of Dallas, Tex. spent last week with Mrs. Hudson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Becton.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hammett and children, of Shreveport are guests of Mrs. Pearl Fleming and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Mayer have returned from a short trip to New Orleans.

MISS VIVIAN GREEN, BRIDE-ELECT FETED AT PRENUPTIAL PARTIES

One of the loveliest prenuptial courtesies extended Miss Vivian Green and Mr. Foster Jones, Jr. recently was the dinner party given in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Binion of Shreveport.

Little Johnnie Binion III presented the bride and groom-elect with a lovely revolving tray.

The dining table was centered with white camellias, clematis and bridal wreath extended to the lighted candles in silver candle stick holders. The bridal motif in green and white was carried out in decorations, as well as the menu. The dessert course of individual cakes embossed with Lillies of the Valley and served with perfectly molded bride and groom ices was most attractive.

During the evening several games were played.

Guests beside the honor guests were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Green, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Hutchison, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. John Binion, Jr.

Also complimentary to Miss Green was the coffee hour given recently at the home of Mrs. Dallas Thomason in Rayville, with Miss Claire Aycock as co-hostess For this occasion, the honoree was wearing a green nylon sport dress with a gay scarf and the carnation corsage presented to her by the hostesses. Miss Green was also presented with a dainty piece of lingerie by the hostesses.

Spring flowers were placed throughout the Thomason home and centering the refreshment table was an attractive arrangement of white spring flowers surrounding a miniature bride and groom.

A variety of open faced sandwiches, tea biscuits, and individual cakes were served. Mrs. J. N. Beam presided at the coffee service.

Guests were Mrs. William Green, Jr., Mrs. Frank Schooler, Mrs. Harry Addison, Mrs. Woodrow Coats, Mrs. Allen Buie, Mrs. J.N. Beam, Mrs. William Hubbard, Mrs. Froman Ellerbe, Mrs. Carey Ellis, Jr., Mrs. Bennie Christian, Mrs. William Simms, Miss Jackie Guynes, Miss Nitsy Guynes, Miss Josephine Mendolia, Miss Lula Newberry, and Miss Elsie Duncan.

Musical Notes From The Choral Club

By Helen V. Agnew

April — the month of quick changes—of rapid about-faces—and even the Choral Club is caught in the spirit of the month. In the first place—the date of presentation of "The Requiem" has been postponed. In the second place, since our director will be unable to be with us Monday night, we will be rehearsing on Tuesday night for this week only—same place, same hour, but on Tuesday instead of Monday.

Mighty nice of Gertrude Sandrock to ask our group to sing with hers in the Percy Grainger festival. We'll be enjoying it immensely.

We've been sorting through the music, and listing the missing numbers. If you have any out, please check it back in through our librarian, Miss Jean Dozier. There will be some grand old familiar numbers for rehearsal Tuesday night, as well as possibly some new ones. Don't fail to come out Tuesday night. Just for the pure fun of doing it, we're going to brush up some of those delightful Fred Waring arrangements, and give out with song. Tuesday night's rehearsal is not for work, but for fun.

For that particular reason, this week's message is to all old members and also to any new ones who might want to join us. Come on down to the Baptist Church Educational Building this coming Tuesday night, and join us in a good ole song-fest. We're going to have fun!

Deare, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. John Salemi, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Sitton.

Miss Hattie Nelson returned to Vicksburg on Tuesday after spending several days in Lake Providence with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Nelson, and being joined here by her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Hyland Nelson of Bunkie, La.

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Hill, Jr., left today for Hot Springs, Ark., where they will spend the month of April.

Mrs. S. S. Myers and son, Lance Myers of Pelahatchie, Miss., and Mrs. E. B. Ross and children of Jackson, Miss., were in Lake Providence Sunday to visit sons and brothers, Seymour Myers, and L. W. Myers and their families.

Mayor and Mrs. J. L. Johnson, accompanied by their daughters Mrs. A. B. Patrick, Mrs. E. D. Schneider, Jr., and Mrs. Graham Schneider, enjoyed a motor trip to Monroe on Thursday, where Mayor Johnson attended the state mayors convention. Later in the day Mayor Johnson left by train for New Orleans to join the East Carroll parish party attending the international house tour.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. O'Flarity of New Orleans have named their daughter, born March 19, Charlotte Kathleen O'Flarity. Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Hair's daughter was named Laura Elizabeth Hair, and Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Richards named their daughter Joan Catherine, for paternal aunt and grandmother.

Miss Gracie Salemi on a motor trip to New Orleans early in the week, was accompanied by Mrs. J. J. Salemi, Jr., and children Jonnette and John and Mrs. J. L. Baur. Mrs. Salemi and children stopped in Norce for a visit with her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Harkey left Wednesday to spend several days in Memphis.

Episcopal Auxiliary of Grace Church was entertained Tuesday evening in the home of Dr. and Mrs. W. K. Evans.

Officers named by the East Carroll Parish division of the U. S. Department of Agriculture at a meeting Friday afternoon at 5, were County Agent C. A. Rose, president; Rushing B. Green, head of the AAA, vice-president; David Leon Doles, assistant county agent, secretary.

Mrs. W. W. Ward, faculty member of the Lake Providence High School, presents the junior class in "Here Comes Charlie" in a three act comedy, April 14, at 8 p.m., in the school auditorium. Funds will be used to entertain the seniors before the close of the present session. For the cast: Nora Malone, cook at Elliott home, Peggy Schwartz; Officer Tim McGrill, Nora's sweetheart, Dickie Evans; Mrs. Fannie Farnham, Larry's aunt by marriage, Betty Jo Carter; Larry Elliott, a young business man, Bill Evans; Ted Hartley, his old time college pal, Ben Schonfarber; Vivian Smythe-Kersey, Larry's fiancee, Pauline Thrasher; Uncle Aleck Twiggs, in charge of Charley, Edgar Bradley; Charlie Hopps, Larry's ward (mystery of the plot) Mrs. Caroline Smythe-Kersey, Vivian's mother, Nancy Cammack; Mortimer Smythe-Kersey, Vivian's brother, Bernard Newton. Time, the present. Place, Larry's home in suburbs of St. Louis, Mo.

Friends regret to learn that Mrs. J. H. Gilfoil, Jr., was taken to Mercy Hospital, in Vicksburg, Tuesday afternoon for treatment following a severe attack.

Mrs. W. Y. Bell returned home on Tuesday after spending several days in Tallulah with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Jim S. Folk.

Mrs. J. H. Guenard on a motor trip to Coushatta, over the past week end, for a visit with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bethard, had Mrs. C. R. Evans as guest for the trip and visit.

Mrs. H. L. Van Valkenburgh and Mrs. Harry Blount motored to Monroe on Tuesday for a visit with Mrs. Roy Henderson and family.

Miss Margaret Crump, working towards a Masters at Tulane University, is expected home during the coming week to spend the Easter holidays with her parents.

NEWS FROM THE GIRL SCOUTS

Girl Scouts and Brownies, as well as parents, troop leader, sponsors, local educators and clergymen, will be able to see the Warner Brothers technicolor short feature about Girl Scouting, called "Women of Tomorrow", which is playing at a local theatre today, Monday and Tuesday. This short will appeal to all who have the welfare of youth at heart. It's a four-bell picture, so be sure to see "Women of Tomorrow." Just to make it more exciting, a real Brownie from a troop in New Bedford, Massachusetts, is one of the stars of the show.

A soon as March goes out like the lamb it is supposed to be by now, many of our troops will take to the out of doors for their fun. Some of them are already planning ahead for day hikes and troop camping and that day camp that we are beginning to hear about. Troop 5, taking advantage of a school holiday, hiked to the home of their leader Tuesday, where they cooked squaw corn, following a kaper chart which outlined such duties as firebuilding, cooking serving, and cleaning up. Nature observation made another pastime for the sixteen girls, accompanied by five adults.

First aid is another popular subject these days, as it seems to go very naturally with the out of door program. Troops 21 and 26 are starting on first aid badges under the direction of their leaders. Thursday the girls of Troop 26 practiced bandages at their regular meeting. Some of the subjects for bandaging were sights to behold, calling forth much merriment from their tie-er-uppers.

Brownies of Troop 38 received their membership pins last week in a ceremony in the patio of Lida Benton School. Many of their mothers took this occasion to visit the troop and turned the meeting into a party by bringing cookies and punch. Members of Troop 19 were guests, also Miss Annis Klie, executive director.

Brownie Scout leaders, we hear, are going to exchange ideas and learn new skills in the out doors at their meeting Tuesday, following which we foresee quite a spell of penny hikes, backyard cookouts, and the like. It's lots of fun to be a Scout!

THE BONHOMIE CLUB MEETS IN HOME OF MRS. O. WILLIS

The Bonhomie Club met Thursday, March 23rd., in the attractive new Bayou DeSiard home of Mrs. O. Willis.

Mrs. George Feeman, the president, called the meeting to order with the reading of the club collect-and roll call by Mrs. Robert Irby. The president welcomed as guests to the meeting: Mrs. A. R. Doughty, Mrs. Thomas Luckett and Mrs. Rodney Collins. Following a brief business session with reports from various committees, the meeting was adjourned.

Mrs. R. P. Pilant then introduced Mrs. A. R. Doughty, who gave a vivid review of Helen Wright's "Sweeper in the Sky." This book is a biography of Maria Mitchell, who was one of our first American women astronomers. Mrs. Doughty very interestingly told of Maria's early life in a large Quaker family and how she struggled during this time to educate herself. Her books, interest and work with astronomy occupied her soul and complete life. At an early age she won fame by being honored with recognition from the King of Denmark for the discovery of a comet. She was richly rewarded a second time when she was asked to teach astronomy at Vassar College when it first opened its doors. Thus she spent the remainder of her full years teaching and "sweeping the skys."

Following the review, Mrs. Irby assisted the hostes, who served delicious refreshments to the following: Mrs. Thomas Luckett, Mrs. Rodney Collins, Mrs. A. R. Doughty, Mrs. O. C. Lanier, Mrs. George Forman, Mrs. H. M. Rhodes, Mrs. L. H. Leverett, Mrs. A. J. McCready, Mrs. R. P. Pilant, Mrs. W. D. Womach and Mrs. E. L. Hoskins.

LAKE PROVIDENCE

A pre-Easter food sale was planned as was a cake sale for May 13, Saturday before Mothers' Day. Special orders are being taken for the cake sale.

Mrs. Irving Insley, patient at Mercy Hospital following a recent operation, was remembered with good wishes from auxiliary members in a letter written by Mrs. A. S. Cammack, Jr.

Mrs. H. L. Van Valkenburgh reported on shipping of a box of clothes to Tacuba mission, Calzada, Mexico.

Members volunteering to polish altar brass vessels for the Easter services were Mrs. J. R. Adams, Miss Mary Pearl, Mrs. W. K. Evans, Jr., and Mrs. H. L. Van Valkenburgh.

Committee appointed to draft resolutions on the death of a former member, Mrs. Frederick Hall Schneider, were Mrs. C. A. Rose, Mrs. Vail Delony, and Mrs. J. C. Bass.

Officers and members to attend the Northern Convocation in Bastrop, April 13, were Mrs. E. D. Schneider, Mrs. Carmen Purdy, Mrs. A. S. Cammack, Mrs. J. R. Adams and Mrs. H. L. Van Valkenburgh.

Featuring the program Mrs. A.S. Cammack, Jr., told of the charm and lure of Delilah and her romance with Sampson.

The hostesses invited the members and guests into the dining room. The refreshment table was overlaid with cutwork Maderia cloth and centered with an oblong reflector on which was placed a silver vase filled with purple irises. Five branched candelabra holding tall white tapers burned at either end. Silver trays of sandwiches, cake, and salted nuts provided the delightful refreshments and Mrs. J. N. Hill, Jr., at a side table served punch from an early American crystal punch bowl.

Friends in this area regret to learn of the serious illness of Mrs. Thayer C. Harper, patient in Letterman General Hospital in San Francisco. Mrs. Harper is a former resident of Lake Providence and last fall joined Major Harper of the air force in Japan, where twin daughters were born. Mrs. Harper was sent by plane from Japan to San Francisco and Major Harper and three daughters made the trip by boat. Major Harper has been assigned to duty in the states and Helen Harper is with her maternal grandmother, Mrs. W. M. Wallace of Springdale, Ark., and the twins are with Major Harper's mother, Mrs. Ed Harper of Eudora, Ark.

Mrs. P. G. Marron and mother, Mrs. J. Martian Hamley, motored to Jackson, Miss., on Tuesday to take Mr. Marron's mother, Mrs. Ida Marron, and sister, Mrs. O. A. Asprion and son Owen, Jr., to entrain for the return trip to New Orleans, after a visit of three weeks in Lake Providence.

Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Myers and brother, Mr. L. W. Myers, made a business trip to Greenville on Wednesday.

G. L. Levy, East Carroll Parish Fund campaign chairman for the American Red Cross, reports 85 per cent of the quota has been raised. Ward 7, George Bishop, ward chairman, was first to reach the ward quota, and exceeded it. Ward 1, Gus Irving and E. V. Parker, co-chairmen, exceeded their quota as did Ward 5, with J. N. Hill, Jr., chairman.

Miss Carolyn Gillespie, disaster worker of the American Red Cross, came from Atlanta to assist families in East Carroll parish whose homes were demolished or damaged in the Sunday storm. There were five homes destroyed and a total of 23 damaged in the wind and rain. Area affected was in Bunch's Bend, on plantations Panola, Lone Wolf, Sherwood, Helen and Eldergrove.

Mrs. Arthur Crump, hostess to a motor trip to Vicksburg on Wednesday for a farewell visit with Mrs. Irving Insley, who is being taken to Chapel Hill, N. C., to the home of a daughter, had as guests for the trip and visit Mrs. J. R. Adams, Mrs. Carmen Purdy and Miss Mary Pearl.

Mrs. V. H. Sharpe, who recnetly fell and broke her hip and has been a patient at Mercy Hospital, Vicksburg, is being visited by her friends after her return to the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Marlett.

Public schools for white students of East Carroll parish will be closed June 2. The school sessions were late starting due to the building program in different wards.

CALHOUN

Friends will regret to learn that Mr. L. D. Willis is confined to the hospital in Alexandria for a few days.

Captain and Mrs. Ben Baker of Washington, D. C., visited Mrs. Baker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Jones last week-end.

Mrs. Allie Hammonds visited her daughter, Mrs. Alvin Murphy of Calion, Arkansas last week. Mrs. Murphy is recuperating from a very serious operation.

Mrs. Jack Burgess of Monroe spent the past week-end in the home of her sister, Mrs. Maggie Roberts.

Mrs. Alma S. Hale visited her father, Mr. Smith of Kelly the first of this week.

The many friends of Mr. Clinton Kennedy of Monroe are very sorry to hear of his serious illness and hope he will soon be better.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Reece and children, Jay and Judy of Shreveport, spent the past week-end here with relatives.

Mrs. A. V. Hodge returned home a few days ago after spending several weeks with her daughter in Mississippi.

Mrs. Thelma Humble, the Calhoun Postmistress, attended a meeting in Lake Providence.

Mrs. J. H. Caraway of Jonesboro spent the past week-end with her daughter, Mrs. Frank Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Boyd and children of Sterlington spent a few days with Mr. Boyd's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Boyd.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Adam's and children of Junction City, Arkansas visited her grandmother, Mrs. Allie Hammonds.

Little Cherry Burris of Dallas, Texas is spending several weeks in the home of her grandparents, Rev. and Mrs. J. L. Beasley.

Long Says Four Trusts Want Bill

WASHINGTON, April 1. — (AP) — Sen. Russell Long of Louisiana says a bill approved by four "trusts" will leave independent retailers and wholesalers at the mercy of large manufacturers and chain store operators.

He said the bill has been approved by the cement, steel, paper and oil "trusts."

And Sen. Long said the bill would scuttle the anti-price discrimination act of 1936.

The bill says these practices do not constitute unfair competition where:

1. Manufacturers acting independently sell at identical delivered prices at different delivery points.

2. Absorb freight costs to meet the equally low price of a competitor in good faith.

Could Cleopatra Drink a Pearl With Stomach Ulcer Pains?

An intriguing story of Cleopatra is the one where an admirer praised the beauty of two of her pearls, whereupon she dropped one into a glass of wine and drank it. She would hardly have done this had she suffered after-eating pains. If excess stomach acidity causes you distress after eating, or painful heartburn, gas, sour stomach, indigestion, even stomach ulcer pains, then try UDGA for quick relief. UDGA Tablets contain 3 proven fast-acting medicinal ingredients. Like a doctor's prescription, UDGA works soothingly and fast. More than 242 million sold since 1928. STATE FIGHTING AGAINST DEFICITS

Move For Scaling Down Budget Probably Would Only Off-Set Increases

By Edmond LeBreton

BATON ROUGE, La., April 1.—(AP)—Louisiana has pulled the reins in sharply on its public welfare program, with the regular session of the legislature only six weeks off.

The welfare cut is actually a tightening of the rules that spell out who is eligible for public assistance. Plans are to put the change into effect gradually, for an ultimate saving officially estimated at $6,000,000 a year.

But, coming when it does, the rules change has aroused spaculation as to whether there may be a general move for scaling down Louisiana's record budget when the lawmakers convene. That brings up the further question whether any possible tax reductions are in the offing.

There was much economy talk at the special session this month, aimed largely at the school lunch program. Several legislators served notice that, while they were willing to vote for a deficiency appropriation of $2,791,277 to keep the lunch program going on its present basis for the rest of this school year, they would move to restrict the free lunch distribution in the future to needy children.

Gov. Earl K. Long invited suggestions for economies throughout the state government.

It appeared likely, however, that the moves so far made and discussed would be sufficient only to keep state spending from continuing to go up, not to reduce it. Presumably, a net reduction would be necessary before the tax load could be lightened.

Welfare costs had been increasing steadily with more and more persons certified as eligible ever since the expanded program of aid to the aged and other needy was inaugurated in 1948. The state budgeted for welfare this year $42,000,000 from the sales tax and about $51,000,000 in federal grants. Both the sale tax and the federal contributions have been running higher, but still not high enough to overtake the mounting welfare claims. The department had been overspending its current revenue by about $500,000 a month, dipping into a special $25,000,000 reserve to keep the books balanced.

The $6,000,000 annual reduction therefore, even when it comes fully into effect some months from now, would only balance income and outgo—if all other factors remained the same. It would not provide for a reduction in the revenues needed for welfare, but only preserve what is left of the cushion against a real dip into the national economy.

Possibility of tightening eligibility for free school lunches is only in the discussion stage among some members of the legislature, so no one knows how much costs for this item might be reduced. Counting the special session appropriation, the state provided nearly $1,000,000 for the purpose this year. During the special session, some members estimated that the cost might go to $20,000,000 in another year as more schools equipped themselves to serve the lunches and more children enrolled. Already the state is feeding more than 100,000 children in addition to those expected.

So there would appear to be at least a good chance that any restrictions the legislature is likely to put on lunch distribution would, as in the case of welfare, only stabilize the revenues and expenditures, without decreasing either.

In other words, so far as these two big items in the state budget are concerned, the results would be to guard against deficits, rather than to make a tax cut possible.

Miss Mildred Williams, whose engagement and approaching marriage to Sgt. James Cosby Wagnon, son of Mrs. H. C. Cranford, is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Williams of Rayville.

STATE FIGHTING AGAINST DEFICITS

Move For Scaling Down Budget Probably Would Only Off-Set Increases

By Edmond LeBreton

BATON ROUGE, La., April 1.—(AP)—Louisiana has pulled the reins in sharply on its public welfare program, with the regular session of the legislature only six weeks off.

The welfare cut is actually a tightening of the rules that spell out who is eligible for public assistance. Plans are to put the change into effect gradually, for an ultimate saving officially estimated at $6,000,000 a year.

But, coming when it does, the rules change has aroused spaculation as to whether there may be a general move for scaling down Louisiana's record budget when the lawmakers convene. That brings up the further question whether any possible tax reductions are in the offing.

There was much economy talk at the special session this month, aimed largely at the school lunch program. Several legislators served notice that, while they were willing to vote for a deficiency appropriation of $2,791,277 to keep the lunch program going on its present basis for the rest of this school year, they would move to restrict the free lunch distribution in the future to needy children.

Gov. Earl K. Long invited suggestions for economies throughout the state government.

It appeared likely, however, that the moves so far made and discussed would be sufficient only to keep state spending from continuing to go up, not to reduce it. Presumably, a net reduction would be necessary before the tax load could be lightened.

Welfare costs had been increasing steadily with more and more persons certified as eligible ever since the expanded program of aid to the aged and other needy was inaugurated in 1948. The state budgeted for welfare this year $42,000,000 from the sales tax and about $51,000,000 in federal grants. Both the sale tax and the federal contributions have been running higher, but still not high enough to overtake the mounting welfare claims. The department had been overspending its current revenue by about $500,000 a month, dipping into a special $25,000,000 reserve to keep the books balanced.

The $6,000,000 annual reduction therefore, even when it comes fully into effect some months from now, would only balance income and outgo—if all other factors remained the same. It would not provide for a reduction in the revenues needed for welfare, but only preserve what is left of the cushion against a real dip into the national economy.

Possibility of tightening eligibility for free school lunches is only in the discussion stage among some members of the legislature, so no one knows how much costs for this item might be reduced. Counting the special session appropriation, the state provided nearly $1,000,000 for the purpose this year. During the special session, some members estimated that the cost might go to $20,000,000 in another year as more schools equipped themselves to serve the lunches and more children enrolled. Already the state is feeding more than 100,000 children in addition to those expected.

So there would appear to be at least a good chance that any restrictions the legislature is likely to put on lunch distribution would, as in the case of welfare, only stabilize the revenues and expenditures, without decreasing either.

In other words, so far as these two big items in the state budget are concerned, the results would be to guard against deficits, rather than to make a tax cut possible.

Long Says Four Trusts Want Bill

WASHINGTON, April 1. — (AP) — Sen. Russell Long of Louisiana says a bill approved by four "trusts" will leave independent retailers and wholesalers at the mercy of large manufacturers and chain store operators.

He said the bill has been approved by the cement, steel, paper and oil "trusts."

And Sen. Long said the bill would scuttle the anti-price discrimination act of 1936.

The bill says these practices do not constitute unfair competition where:

1. Manufacturers acting independently sell at identical delivered prices at different delivery points.
2. Absorb freight costs to meet the equally low price of a competitor in good faith.

Could Cleopatra Drink a Pearl With Stomach Ulcer Pains?

An intriguing story of Cleopatra is the one where an admirer praised the beauty of two of her pearls, whereupon she dropped one into a glass of wine and drank it. She would hardly have done this had she suffered after-eating pains. If excess stomach acidity causes you distress after eating, or painful heartburn, gas, sour stomach, indigestion, even stomach ulcer pains, then try UDGA for quick relief. UDGA Tablets contain 3 proven fast-acting medicinal ingredients. Like a doctor's prescription, UDGA works soothingly and fast. More than 242 million sold since 1928. Notes From Children's Bookshop

Are you planning an Easter gift of a book for your child? CHILDREN'S BOOKSHOP at 1205 St. John Drive has the right book: Beatrix Potter's "Peter Rabbit" and other Rabbit books in their original format, and many Easter story books. Then, there is a large assortment of children's religious books,-the answers to the numerous questions that your child asks about God and prayer, Jesus and the commandments, and "Why Should I?"

A message came to the Bookshop a few days ago that "The Door in the Wall" by Marguerite de Angeli has been awarded the Nedbery medal as the children's book of the year. Every sixth grade child should own this beautiful story of thirteenth-century England. The book is in evidence at CHILDREN'S BOOKSHOP. Marguerite Henry's horse books and O'Brien's dog books also have a place of prominence, and children love them.

Why not follow the plan of a-book-a-month for your child? One parent who follows such a plan for her two boys delights to hear their, "O, gee! A beautiful book, O, gee!" and to see them pounce upon it. Worth the money, we should say! —Adv.

Helpless Males

Men Are Defenseless Against Female Wiles, Says Miss Dix

DEAR MISS DIX: Recently you said in an article that "men park their brains when dealing with women." I agree with you, but you did not give any remedy. Anyway, how should women be treated by men?

BLANK

ANSWER: There isn't any remedy for men being befooled by women because God made them that way. It has always been that way from the very beginning. Men have worn blinders instead of using spyglasses when it came to looking into the real purposes of women and trying to find out what they were up to. Look now easily the first woman put it over the first man.

DOROTHY DIX

FELL FOR IT

He knew he was risking his good home and a swell job, but Eve rolled her eyes at him and looked wistful and hurt because he wouldn't do a little thing to please her like taking a little bite, or maybe she looked scornful and taunted him with being a fraidcat. And Adam fell for it the same as you and all other men fall for the arts and wiles of the women you love. Why women have been pulling off the same old tricks from the time of our first mother down to today, and they are still good for emerald bracelets and new cars and trips to Europe.

But, of course, every man is convinced that no women could fool him. He would see through her motives as if they were a pane of glass. He would know when she wept for grief and when she wept to get a new hat. He would know she meant it when she told him how wonderful he was and how big and strong and noble. He would know that it was just by chance that she happened to be coming by his office door as he was starting home, and that it was pure accident when she stumbled and fell into his arms. Oh, no. No woman could put anything over on him!

And that is the reason women smile secretly to themselves while they imitate the clinging vine or weep or pout as the occasion may demand. And that's why wives always have a particularly good dinner of the things that hubby likes best to eat before presenting the bill for their new frock or imparting the glad tidings that Aunt Suzanne is coming for a nice long visit.

As to how men should treat women, the present method is satisfactory to both parties. So let it ride.

DEAR MISS DIX: Will you please give me all the arguments in favor of marriage for a boy from a boy's viewpoint.

G. A.

ANSWER: There are none. Nothing but a miracle can save a boy's marriage from being a disaster to him and wrecking his life, and miracles take place so seldom that no one has a right to expect one to happen to him and save him from the result of his folly.

Against the boy's one argument for marriage you can bring a thousand potent reasons against it. First, that because a boy thinks he is in love is no justification of his marriage because a boy's love isn't made of the stuff that lasts. Secondly, a boy has not had his playtime and is not ready to settle down. After marriage he will be just as anxious to step out and amuse himself as he was before marriage. Third, it is eternally true that the young man married is the young man marred. The boy who marries before he has got a start in the world blocks his career. Fourth, a boy has no right to marry because he cannot support a family and it is a dastardly thing for him to burden his poor, hard-worked old parents with his wife and babies.

And lastly there is plenty of time in which to marry, and there is no reason for a boy to rush into matrimony before he is ready for it.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a married man and love my wife, and no one could ever come between us, but I live in another city and can only go home for week ends. I work in an office with a girl whose sweet disposition and ladylike ways have won my admiration. She is 33 years old. I am 52. I have been taking her to work every day in my car. There is no thought of love or anything of the sort between us. Just good friends. But she says that people are beginning to talk about us and refuses to go with me any more. Must we give up a perfectly innocent friendship just because of a few busybodies? T. B.

ANSWER: You will have to give it up if you save the girl's good name. It is folly to talk about ignoring gossip. When a married man is seen habitually with a girl, people believe the worst of it. So no matter how innocent and platonic your sentiments are, nor how altruistic your attentions to the girl, they must cease both for her sake and for yours.

Notes From Children's Bookshop

Are you planning an Easter gift of a book for your child? CHILDREN'S BOOKSHOP at 1205 St. John Drive has the right book: Beatrix Potter's "Peter Rabbit" and other Rabbit books in their original format, and many Easter story books. Then, there is a large assortment of children's religious books,-the answers to the numerous questions that your child asks about God and prayer, Jesus and the commandments, and "Why Should I?"

A message came to the Bookshop a few days ago that "The Door in the Wall" by Marguerite de Angeli has been awarded the Nedbery medal as the children's book of the year. Every sixth grade child should own this beautiful story of thirteenth-century England. The book is in evidence at CHILDREN'S BOOKSHOP. Marguerite Henry's horse books and O'Brien's dog books also have a place of prominence, and children love them.

Why not follow the plan of a-book-a-month for your child? One parent who follows such a plan for her two boys delights to hear their, "O, gee! A beautiful book, O, gee!" and to see them pounce upon it. Worth the money, we should say! —Adv.

DOROTHY DIX

Helpless Males

Men Are Defenseless Against Female Wiles, Says Miss Dix

DEAR MISS DIX: Recently you said in an article that "men park their brains when dealing with women." I agree with you, but you did not give any remedy. Anyway, how should women be treated by men?

BLANK

ANSWER: There isn't any remedy for men being befooled by women because God made them that way. It has always been that way from the very beginning. Men have worn blinders instead of using spyglasses when it came to looking into the real purposes of women and trying to find out what they were up to. Look now easily the first woman put it over the first man.

DOROTHY DIX

FELL FOR 'T

He knew he was risking his good home and a swell job, but Eve rolled her eyes at him and looked wistful and hurt because he wouldn't do a little thing to please her like taking a little bite, or maybe she looked scornful and taunted him with being a fraidcat. And Adam fell for it the same as you and all other men fall for the arts and wiles of the women you love. Why women have been pulling off the same old tricks from the time of our first mother down to today, and they are still good for emerald bracelets and new cars and trips to Europe.

But, of course, every man is convinced that no women could fool him. He would see through her motives as if they were a pane of glass. He would know when she wept for grief and when she wept to get a new hat. He would know she meant it when she told him how wonderful he was and how big and strong and noble. He would know that it was just by chance that she happened to be coming by his office door as he was starting home, and that it was pure accident when she stumbled and fell into his arms. Oh, no. No woman could put anything over on him!

And that is the reason women smile secretly to themselves while they imitate the clinging vine or weep or pout as the occasion may demand. And that's why wives always have a particularly good dinner of the things that hubby likes best to eat before presenting the bill for their new frock or imparting the glad tidings that Aunt Suzanne is coming for a nice long visit.

As to how men should treat women, the present method is satisfactory to both parties. So let it ride.

DEAR MISS DIX: Will you please give me all the arguments in favor of marriage for a boy from a boy's viewpoint.

G. A.

ANSWER: There are none. Nothing but a miracle can save a boy's marriage from being a disaster to him and wrecking his life, and miracles take place so seldom that no one has a right to expect one to happen to him and save him from the result of his folly.

Against the boy's one argument for marriage you can bring a thousand potent reasons against it. First, that because a boy thinks he is in love is no justification of his marriage because a boy's love isn't made of the stuff that lasts. Secondly, a boy has not had his playtime and is not ready to settle down. After marriage he will be just as anxious to step out and amuse himself as he was before marriage. Third, it is eternally true that the young man married is the young man marred. The boy who marries before he has got a start in the world blocks his career. Fourth, a boy has no right to marry because he cannot support a family and it is a dastardly thing for him to burden his poor, hard-worked old parents with his wife and babies.

And lastly there is plenty of time in which to marry, and there is no reason for a boy to rush into matrimony before he is ready for it.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a married man and love my wife, and no one could ever come between us, but I live in another city and can only go home for week ends. I work in an office with a girl whose sweet disposition and ladylike ways have won my admiration. She is 33 years old. I am 52. I have been taking her to work every day in my car. There is no thought of love or anything of the sort between us. Just good friends. But she says that people are beginning to talk about us and refuses to go with me any more. Must we give up a perfectly innocent friendship just because of a few busybodies? T. B.

ANSWER: You will have to give it up if you save the girl's good name. It is folly to talk about ignoring gossip. When a married man is seen habitually with a girl, people believe the worst of it. So no matter how innocent and platonic your sentiments are, nor how altruistic your attentions to the girl, they must cease both for her sake and for yours.

DOROTHY DIX cannot reply personally to readers, but will answer problems of general interest through her column.

League Of Women Voters Supports Sewerage Issue

The League of Women Voters of Monroe in general session and in separate unit sessions has gone on record heartily endorsing the sewerage bond issue and tax equalization election to be held on April 4. Henry Bernstein, city attorney, appeared before all the groups of the league and explained just how it was possible for the entire city to have first class sewerage at a minimum cost to all alike. He appeared also before many other groups. It should also be said that Mr. Bernstein was alert enough to secure legislation at the special session of the legislature that would provide easy payment plans for taking care of the cost of having sewerage in homes of very moderate circumstances, the league pointed out.

The league is especially interested in this election, because it seems to be the climax to a program begun by the league in March 1944, now six years ago. League members are delighted that the city officials have pledged the city to put in laterals in those streets where the owners have been paying for the sewerage since 1920. All the dirty, unsanitary places along Arkansas Avenue and Pine Street between 8th and 20th Streets will be cleared up.

The league urges every eligible voter within the city limits to do his or her part to make Monroe a clean city. Polio is becoming too prevalent for any one to be indifferent about better sewerage, Miss Rodgers told the night group of the league in a recent meeting.

In 1944 the Monroe League of Women Voters urged the mayor to appoint a municipal health board as provided for by law. This was done and that board is a functioning body today and has recently endorsed the sewerage bond election.

In 1944 the Louisiana legislature, through the efforts of Commissioner William Rodriquez, passed a sewer district bill. This was the second forward movement in the program for a clean city. This bill will enable the citiznes to have sewer districts when the bond issue has passed.

All during the years 1944, 1945, and 1946 the league kept up much discussion about more adequate sewerage for the city of Monroe, in the meetings, in the newspapers, and on the air until everybody was sewerage minded. The rains we had in those years were a great help too, in convincing the citizens that septic tanks and outdoor privies must be eliminated from our city. At the present time septic tanks are overflowing into the streets in some sections of our city.

On January 28, 1947 a bond issue election was held in Monroe for the purpose of building a $750,000.00 trunk line for sewerage. The line has been constructed. It begins at Pine and 21st Streets and extends southward to where it intersects the original trunk line at South 13th Street and Texas Avenue. Then it extends on south to Standifer Street where both trunk lines are pumped into the river. This new trunk line has already saved the situation for citizens when a great emergency arose. During a collapse in a section of the old trunk line all the sewerage was directed into the new line until needed repairs could be made in the old line. Those two lines serve everybody—the old part of the city and the new.

The crying need now for the city to be adequately sewered is the construction of sub trunk lines into all subdivisions of the city. The proposed bond issue to be voted on April 4th will enable the City Council to construct all the lateral trunk lines needed and then each sewer district will find it possible to take care of the laterals to their property on easy terms. The cost will be within reach of every citizen in the city of Monroe. There will no longer be any need for septic tanks. They must go.

The League members will be on duty at the polls on the 4th and ready to assist in any way possible. The public will be privileged to call the president, Mrs. J. R. Roark, telephone 2135-W or any other member of the League for information. Some of the precincts have been divided and voters were confused at the time of the last election. League members will be able to assist any voters who wish information. Mrs. Elmer Slagle is the voters' service chairman. Her telephone is 97. She will be able to place any citizen in contact with someone who can give them immediate service.

The League does not make any exaggerated claims about what they have done and are now doing for a greater and cleaner Monroe, but they have been consistently on the job for six years and there will still be a great deal to do after the bond issue is passed. Unlike the efforts of many leagues over the nation, the Monroe League has not been obliged to oppose and fight city officials and politics to secure adequate sewerage for the entire city. The city officials have worked most intelligently and untiringly to bring about the same desirable conditions the League was contending for: a healthy city, a clean city, and a beautiful city.

The greatest service the League has given to the project divides itself into two important phases: breaking down prejudices with correct information and providing widespread publicity. The League had grown up between the new city and the old part of the city. Very few people of the new part of the city were paying any sewerage taxes at all. The same was true of the taxes for the lighting facilities. The old part of the city has been paying a sewerage tax for 30 years. With the bond issue election passing next Tuesday all of these differences will be over and the city of Monroe will be a unified, up and coming city with a great future.

This is the story briefly, of the part the Monroe League of Women Voters has played in the sewerage problem of Monroe as told by Miss Myrtle Rodgers, the first president of the League.

CHAMBER BACKS SEWERAGE BONDS

Unanimous Endorsement By Board Announced By President Strauss

Unanimous endorsement of the city's proposed sewerage program by the board of directors of the Monroe Chamber of Commerce was announced Saturday by Chamber President Clifford M. Strauss. Believing that the future development of the city will be directly affected by the present inadequate sewerage facilities, the Chamber directors urged all Monroe property owners to cast their votes on April 4 in favor of the sewerage expansion bond issue.

Nearly one-half the land area of Monroe, said Strauss, is without any sewerage facilities, a condition which constitutes a continual and serious menace to the health of the city's residents. The dangers of the present condition, it was stated at the meeting, extend to all Monroe residents, since epidemic conditions would spread rapidly beyond sewage boundary lines.

Industrial expansion, in the opinion of the board, has been hampered by the sewerage problem. Strauss stated that the present facilities are incapable of handling the extra load which any large industry would impose. A second factor in the industrial picture, said Strauss, is the necessity of providing adequate health protection for new workers which a large firm would attract. The keen competition among cities, especially in the South, for new industries was also cited by the board as a highly important reason for remedying the present sewage deficiency.

Monroe is rapidly coming to the forefront as an ideal industrial locality, Strauss continued, and its expansion programs in the water and light systems should care for the city's future needs quite adequately. The sewage facilities should be expanded to complete this phase of the overall development program, he stated, and thus remove the threat of epidemic which has jeopardized the city for many years.

Special Drainage District Sought

JONESVILLE, La., April 1.—(Special)—A survey of the possibility of a special drainage district for parts of wards six and seven of Catahoula parish will be made by S. C. "Tige" Smith, district engineer for the state department of public works, probably next week.

Col. J. Lester White, head of the department, authorized the survey and ordered a report made back to him on April 17. If the project appears desirable, a bill will be introduced in the state legislature this hummer to make possible creation of the district.

The action resulted from a conference between a group of Catahoulans and Colonel White in Baton Rouge this week.

Boundaries proposed for the district are Little river from Black river to the vicinity of Walters post office, from Walters in a southeasterly direction to Beard's Eddy, then following Black river to the site of the proposed Smithland cutoff and up the Black to its junction with Little river.

Red Cross Now In Old Quarters

JONESVILLE, La., April 1.—(Special)—Headquarters of the Red Cross in Catahoula will be moved back to Jonesville this weekend. After floodwaters began to cut Jonesville off from the rest of the parish, relief activities were centered in Harrisonburg. Through this week, the Red Cross has spent more than $36,000 for assistance to flood victims. More than 600 tents were issued, and approximately 400 have been returned. Mildred Stephens, in charge of Red Cross in the parish, said national representatives will probably be in Catahoula for a few weeks more.

Thompson Will Head Institute In Brazil

BATON ROUGE, La., April 1—(AP)—Dr. John A. Thompson, director of the division of Latin American relations at Louisiana State University, will become director of the Brazilian-American Institute in Rio de Janeiro May 13, the university announced today.

Dr. Thompson was given a leave of absence to accept the post, to which he was named by the United States department of state. He will leave the university April 16 and spend a few weeks in Washington for orientation before sailing for Brazil.

The institute has an enrollment of about 2,500 students. Thompson will be assisted by four other Americans, 59 '34; 3-'class director, librarian and English teachers.

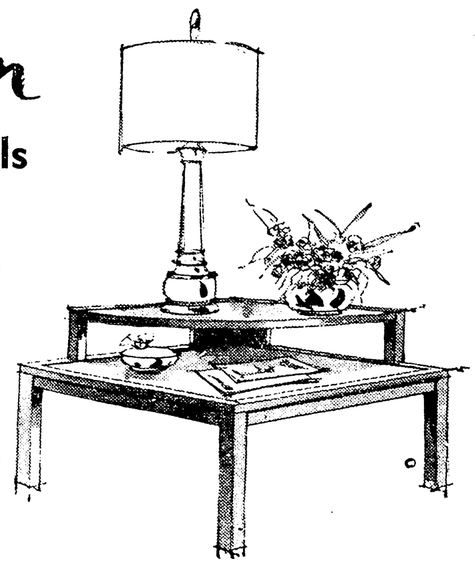
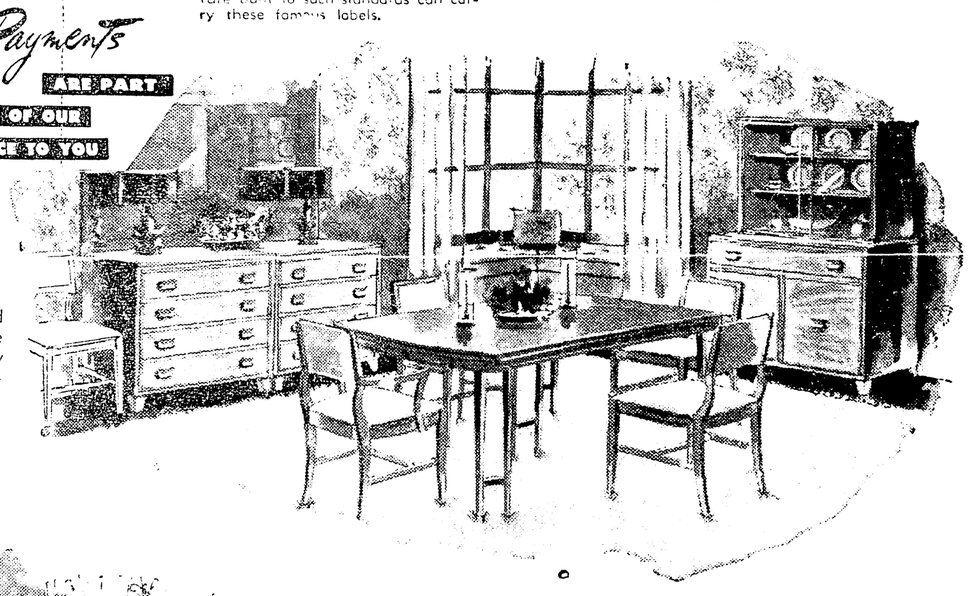
As for prices—both the designers and Durrett's turned themselves inside out to bring them to you at these low introductory prices!

Here you find an emphasis on design and comfort. Planned to add grace to small or large homes. Utilizing only the finest in fabrics, filling materials and frames. Furniture which sets a standard not only in design but in quality . . . because only furniture built to such standards can carry these famous labels.



Easy Payments ARE PART OF OUR SERVICE TO YOU



Modern

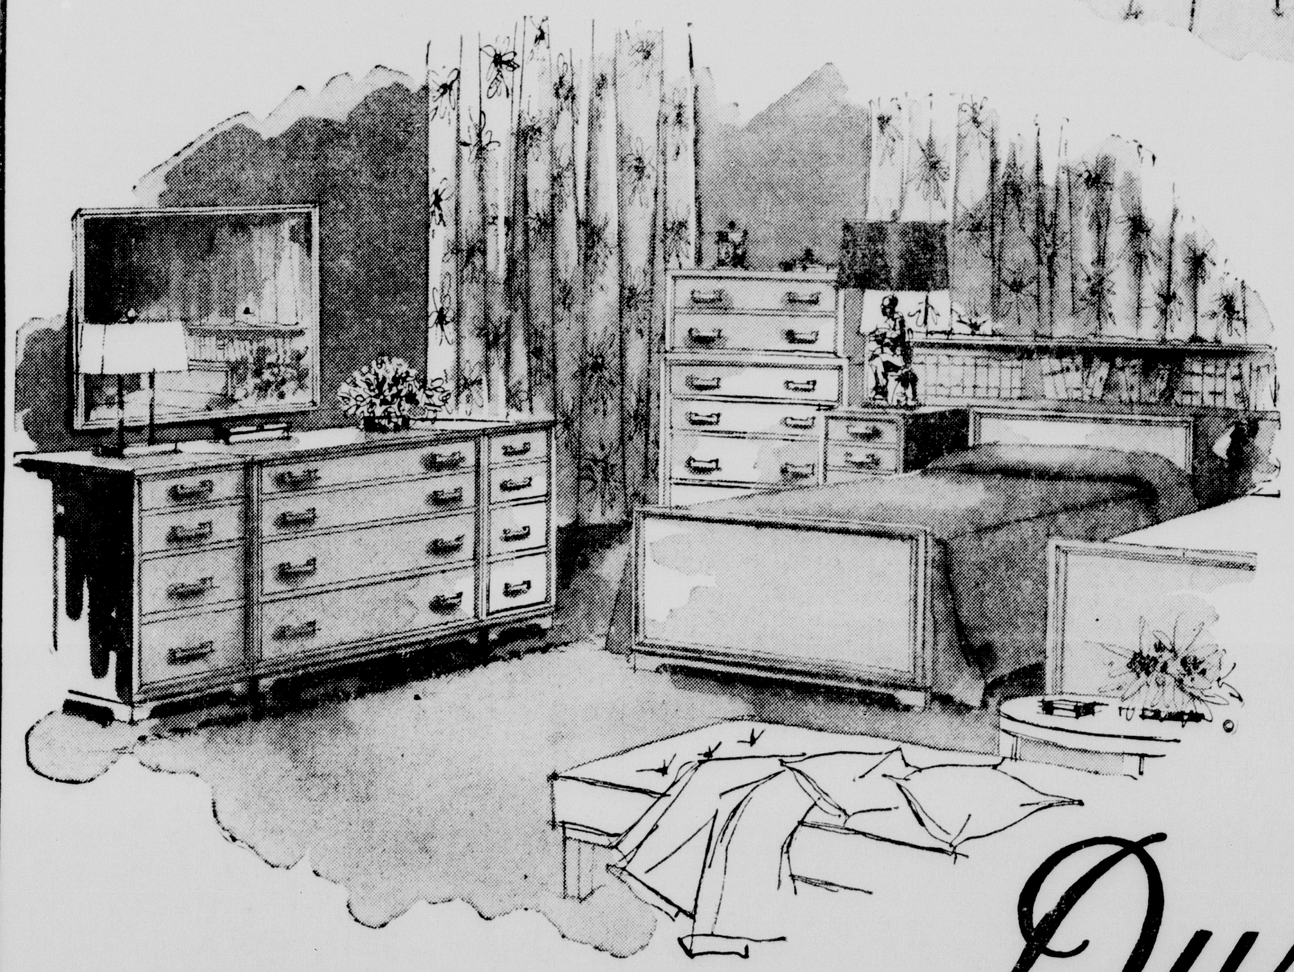
Here's a dining room suite made of beautiful modern woods and finished in a light blonde. The solid wood means you'll never have to fear warping, sticking, swelling or cracking from our extremely damp, hot climate. Lovely in designing; well finished; solidly constructed.



Again, the spirit of Contemporary design is equal to the needs of contemporary living. Today's small homes, low ceilings, call for pieces in proportion to the overall size.

Modern

Available in 2 new finishes. Genuine Korina or Ermine . . . A beautiful modern design, quality material, and excellent workmanship. Choice woods, center drawer guides, dustproof brass hardware, plate mirrors, vanity, chest, bed, bench, or twin dresser.

OLD TIMERS TO HOLD SERVICE

Emmanuel Baptists To Have Unique Program For Sunday Night

All are urgently and cordially invited to attend the Old Timers Service to be held at Emmanuel Baptist Church, North Fifth and Breard Streets, Sunday, 7:30 p.m. You have read and heard of youth nights for a long time, but now you have the opportunity to enjoy a program put on by people forty years of age or above. To qualify, one must have some gray hair, and the first pews in the church will be reserved for those having gray hair. This is one time your gray hair will entitle you to a reserve seat.

Items of special interest are: an old time pedal organ, one like your grandmother used to sing by; a choir of old people, a quartet by the same and a solo. Your heart will rejoice to hear this music program as the best of the old gospel, heart stirring songs will be sung.

The guest speaker for this grand occasion will be Rev. B. C. Smith, Sr. of Bernice. Rev. Smith is an old-time pioneer preachers with years of teaching experience. He helped blaze the trail for Baptist in this state, Texas and Arkansas and has many friends in Monroe and surrounding territory. All will want to hear this man of God bring the gospel to the ears and heart of the people just as he did when he used to "hitch old Dobbin" to the wagon and travel the muddy roads to take words of salvation to all mankind.

DRUGGISTS' HEAD

FRED M. GRANT

GRANT ELECTED PHARMACY HEAD

Will Be Inducted At State Convention Here Next May

When the Louisiana State Pharmaceutical association meets in annual convention in Monroe, May 16 and 17, Fred M. Grant will be inducted as president, having been elected at a recent meeting.

Mr. Grant is well known in his line throughout the state. He has been a resident with his family in Ouachita parish since 1919. His wife, Mrs. Elvie Grant, is a highly regarded teacher in Ouachita parish schools.

Mr. Grant was graduated in 1912 from the New Orleans College of Pharmacy which is now affiliated with Loyola University. He first came to Monroe to serve as pharmacist at the Chase-Amman Drug store, then located at DeSiard and North Second street. At a later date he was employed by the Monroe Wholesale Drug Company and 10 years ago he opened his present drug store located at 623 DeSiard street.

He states that it is expected that as many as 400 will attend the convention in Monroe. No other officer is to be inducted at this time. An excellent program is being arranged for the convention, Mr. Grant stated.

Newspaperman In Orleans Expires

NEW ORLEANS, April 1.—(AP)—Andrew J. Ojeda, 65, retired newspaperman whose by-line appeared in papers here for 47 years, died at his home in Bay St. Louis, Miss., last night.

He had begun his journalism career at 17 and had just retired last October.

The body was being returned to New Orleans today for funeral arrangements.

Ojeda began his newspaper life by answering an ad for a reporter in the old New Orleans Daily News. Later he worked on the staff of the Item and New Orleans States.

A roll of paper towels in your kitchen will have a great many uses; use a toweling to drain bacon on, use it to wipe salad greens dry, and put it under cake and cookie racks to save counter and table tops from crumbs.

Cartoonist Given Literary Award

BATON ROUGE, La., April 1.—(AP)—John Chase, New Orleans states cartoonist honored by the Louisiana Library Association for literary achievement, says he has yet to win "anything for being a cartoonist."

Chase received the association's award last night for the year's most distinguished book on Louisiana. His work is "Frenchmen, Desire Good Children," an illustrated treatise on the streets of New Orleans. John Hall Jacobs, New Orleans librarian, presented the award plaque.

Chase told delegates to the association convention that his previous honors were a blue ribbon for fencing and a dictionary for public speaking. He won the fencing award, he said, by competing left-handed against right-ted opponents.

The Iberia Parish Library received the association's Modisette Memorial Award for making the greatest progress in the public library field in 1949. Miss Ruth Lefkovits accepted it on behalf of the library.

The Iberia library was selected on three counts—increased financial support bringing its standard to more than $1 per capital; a functionally planned headquarters building and improved book collections.

The association convention ends today.

T. G. T. EXPANSION STARTS IN APRIL

$100,000,000 Project Will Include Many To West Monroe 30-Inch Line

HOUSTON, April 1. — (AP) — A $100,000,000 expansion program to start in April has been announced by Tennessee Gas Transmission Company officials.

Vice-President Charles S. Soates said some 6,000 workers by midsummer will be on the job along a 1750-mile front running from the Gulf of Mexico to Lake Erie.

Increases to be made in the natural gas pipe line's capacity, Coates said, will take care of expanded markets in Ohio, Pennsylvania and Western New York.

W. G. McGee, Jr., general operations superintendent, said the extensions will be completed in time to provide additional gas supplies to the new area next winter.

The company's line now runs 1,365 miles from within 24 miles of the Rio Grande to a West Virginia terminal. New additions will extend the system to a total of 1,750 miles.

The new program will enlarge and extend the line to Buffalo, N. Y.

It is designed to increase the system's capacity to 1,060,000,000 cubic feet per day as authorized by the federal power commission. Current capacity is 710,000,000 and primarily serves Appalachian states.

The new construction is to involve 527 miles of 30-inch and 100 miles of 25-inch steel pipe parallel to the existing system. Work is to be done in each state crossed by the line, including Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, Mississippi, Tennessee and Kentucky.

Ten existing compressor stations will be construted near Agua Dulce, Tex., and Load, Green-up county, Ky.

To increase the reach of the system, a 385-mile main-line of 26-inch pipe will be laid from Green-up county in northeastern Kentucky, across eastern Ohio and northwestern Pennsylvania to a point near Buffalo.

Also included will be a 32-mile 16-inch lateral line from near Bessemer, Pa., to near Pittsburgh.

Texas projects include 32-miles of 26-inch pipe from near Premont, Jim Wells county, to near Agua Dulce, Nueces county. This is to start in April.

A 72-mile 30-inch line between Agua Dulce and Woodsboro in Refugio county and between Inez, Victoria county, and El Campo, Wharton county, is to begin in May.

Compressor projects in Texas include completion of a station near Agua Dulce, and new building and facilities near east Bernard, Cleveland, and Jasper.

All compressor work is to begin in April.

Other plans include:

Louisiana — 90 miles of 30-inch line from near Many to near West Monroe, beginning in June: 95 miles of 20-inch lateral line from the main line at Natchitoches to near Edna, plus additional mileages of smaller lateral gathering lines to connect at Edna, beginning in April. New compressor building near Natchitoches.

Arkansas — 32 miles of 30-inch line across southeast corner of the state, starting in June.

Mississippi — 93 miles of 30-inch line across southeast corner of the state, starting in June.

Mississippi — 93 miles of 30-inch line from near Drew to near Holly Springs, beginning in June. Replacing of two existing 18-inch lines with four 26-inch lines across the Mississippi river bridge at Greenville. Bridge to be re-designed. Work to begin in May. New compressor buildings at Greenville and Batesville.

Tennessee — 102 miles of 30-inch line at intervals from near the Tennessee-Kentucky line near Portland to near Selmer, starting in May. New compressor buildings at Middleton and Portland.

Kentucky — 137-miles of 30 inch line from near Lancaster to near Lebanon and from Lebanon in Rowan, Lewis, Carter, Boys and Greenup counties. New compressor station at Greenup and new buildings and equipment at Catlettsburg, Morehead, and Load.

Former Oklahoma Co-Ed Is Freed

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 1. —(AP)—A 29-year-old former University of Oklahoma co-ed who tried both poetry-writing and robbery in a whirlwind career if free on parole today.

Pardon and parole board authorities announced that Mrs. Evelyn Cornish Globaker had been released after serving three years of a 10-year robbery sentence.

She was arrested in Dallas, Tex., after the daring holdup of a Mobile, Ala., restaurnt in 1946.

Officers found a considerable sum of money in red boots Mrs. Globaker was wearing.

Mrs. Globaker told officers she married a marine corps sergeant in Cleveland after a brief romance, but soon left him. Traveling by way of Atlanta, where she left a fake suicide note, she headed for Mobile.

Mrs. Globaker escaped from the Julia Tutwiler women's prison near Wetumpka in the summer of 1947, fleeing while picking peas with a work detail. She was caught walking along a highway soon afterward.

Building Permits In March $381,483

Building permits issued for the month of March totaled $381,483, according to the report of Samuel H. Awl, city building inspector.

The monthly report showed 40 permits for new dwelling units amounted to $180,550; one apartment permit $9,800; 13 non dwellings $157,071; 35 additions and alterations $34,062.

Four buildings were demolished, the inspector said, and one moved.

L. S. U. SEEKING MILLION MORE

Stoke Announces Increase In Budget Of That Amount Asked

BATON ROUGE, La., April 1.—(AP)—Louisiana State University is asking for a million-dollar increase in its budget for the next fiscal year, President Harold W. Stoke reported today.

He said in a financial statement prepared for the board of supervisors, meeting here, that the university was presenting a budget of $12,133,727, up $1,045,000 above the amount budgeted for the current year. The requested budget, the president explained, would require an appropriation of about $2,616,441 from the state general fund, offset by about $300,000 of surplus funds from this year. The university operates principally on revenues from dedicated state taxes, federal grants and income from fees and various activities.

Dr. Stoke said the proposed increase was "moderate" and that no major innovations were planned. He continued, "At the moment, the university needs to consolidate ground gained. It needs to concentrate its resources more effectively rather than to use them more expansively."

The university head said that in round figures the proposed increase would include:

$300,000 to the agricultural experiment stations for completion, maintenance and operation; $90,000 for the college of chemistry and physics, principally for increased supplies and expense and capital equipment incidental to the completion of the new building; $100,000 to the school of medicine, a substantial portion of which is for costs of enlarged enrollment; $75,000 to the three junior colleges a considerable part of which is a replacement of 'cut-backs' of a year ago because of the small freshman enrollment; $59,000 to the library, most all of which is for additions to the book purchase fund; $83,000 for operation and maintenance at all university plants, including the new buildings; $65,000 for general expense, of which $44,000 is for student health and $13,000 for pensions; $37,000 in engineering, most of which is for capital expenditures."

In addition, he said, the university plans to strengthen its basic scientific work, especially in physics and the biological sciences, put more money into the medical school and continue to try to increase faculty salaries, which he said still put the university at a competitive disadvantage.

Some regular sources of university revenue are declining, Dr. Stoke continued, noting that fees for veteran students were dropping rapidly, enrollment was temporarily smaller because of the addition of a twelfth grade in the public school system, and that "a larger provision must be made for fee exemptions for legislative and other scholarships."

Queen Mary Sets Own Style

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY

One of the most cheering bits of news in the past few months was the nine or so ballots the Dowager Queen Mary received in the voting for the world's Ten Best Dressed Women.

Queen Mary was not among the final winners — her granddaughter was — but the fact that a number of people considered her to rank very high is heartening news to many of us who have debated just what makes a Best Dressed Woman.

England's proud, handsome dowager undoubtedly was amused by her inclusion. Now in her eighties, Queen Mary has been dressing in her own style since the days when she was Princess of Wales and her mother-in-law, Queen Alexandria, more or less set the vogue.

Skirts have been short and long many times since Queen Mary decided that long dresses looked best on her. Hats have been pancake, cloche, pill-box, silly, homely and handsome in turn since the good queen determined for all times what style of hat looked best on her. Through innumerable vagaries of fashion and style, Queen Mary has pursued her own convictions of dress. She has always looked like Queen Mary, never has bowed to fashion and always looked every inch a queen and always well-dressed.

So now, fashion has come around to her. And the obeisance in her direction by the votes of fashion "experts" all over the world brings up anewthe familiar complaint of clothes designers that American women seem to want to look like each other — not like individuals. Queen Mary is a prime example of a woman who never has cared what other people looked like. She knew what she liked best on herself and she stuck to it through thick and thin, youth and age. That takes conviction, even for a queen.

It also brings up the question of just what a Best Dressed Woman dresses like. A perennial inclusion Mrs. Harrison Williams, is a fashion-maker, usually in the vanguard of new styles, the possessor of lacquered hair jobs, fabulous jewels and an expensive wardrobe. Mrs. Williams is also very social, and one wonders if Mrs. Williams were not the possessor of a widely acclaimed reputation for fashion-awareness whether she would regularly get a spot on the coveted list.

As a matter of fact, a few women have a reputation of being stylish: Mrs. Williams, the Duchess of Windsor and Mrs. William Paley, for instance. It would be a poor list without their names — just as a list of the 10 Best Looking Legs would be incomplete without the names of Betty Grable and Marlene Dietrich. The latter two ladies have a reputation for lissome gams, and get votes even from people who have never glimpsed same.

I'll bet dollars that there are any number of unpublicized women without large bank accounts and many carat jewels who are every bit as well dressed as the Ten Best Dressed Women. I'll also bet that every city of 50,000 or more population has a baker's dozen of ladies who could give both Miss Grable and Miss Dietrich a run on the conformation of nether extremities.

Looks to me like it's just a matter of publicity.

All the same, I enjoy thinking that the Queen — probably wearing this minute a last year's hat with new feathers and a fresh bow atop — is giving still competition to the ladies who spend their lives between mirrors and hairdressers.

C. Y. A. AGAIN TO PORTRAY SCENES

Resurrection Will Be Shown In Sunrise Event In Cemetery

The Christian Youth Association will again have charge of the sunrise service annually conducted in Memorial Park cemetery Easter Sunday. This year the inspirational pageant of Christ's resurrection from the dead will be re-enacted, sponsored by this group.

Bedecked with white Easter lillies and dogwood boughs and pines, a garden scene which will portrary the Holy Sepulchre within it will form an effective background for the Biblical story.

After the choir marches over the hill toward the assemblage and forms a cross, the story will be enacted by the cast with choral readings by the Ouachita Parish High School Choir.

One scene will indicate the soldiers on guard at the tomb, angels opening the tomb, and the final scene will portray the resurrection.

L. S. U. SEEKING MILLION MORE

Stoke Announces Increase In Budget Of That Amount Asked

BATON ROUGE, La., April 1.—(AP)—Louisiana State University is asking for a million-dollar increase in its budget for the next fiscal year, President Harold W. Stoke reported today.

He said in a financial statement prepared for the board of supervisors, meeting here, that the university was presenting a budget of $12,192,727, up $1,045,000 above the amount budgeted for the current year. The requested budget, the president explained, would require an appropriation of about $2,616,441 from the state general fund, offset by about $300,000 of surplus funds from this year. The university operates principally on revenues from dedicated state taxes, federal grants and income from fees and various activities.

Dr. Stoke said the proposed increase was "moderate" and that no major innovations were planned. He continued, "At the moment, the university needs to consolidate ground gained. It needs to concentrate its resources more effectively rather than to use them more expansively."

The university head said that in round figures the proposed increase would include:

$300,000 to the agricultural experiment stations for completion, maintenance and operation; $90,000 for the college of chemistry and physics, principally for increased supplies and expense and capital equipment incidental to the completion of the new building; $100,000 to the school of medicine, a substantial portion of which is for costs of enlarged enrollment; $75,000 to the three junior colleges a considerable part of which is a replacement of 'cut-backs' of a year ago because of the small freshman enrollment; $50,000 to the library, most all of which is for additions to the book purchase fund; $83,000 for operation and maintenance at all university plants, including the new buildings; $65,000 for general expense, of which $44,000 is for student health and $13,000 for pensions; $37,000 in engineering, most of which is for capital expenditures."

In addition, he said, the university plans to strengthen its basic scientific work, especially in physics and the biological sciences, put more money into the medical school and continue to try to increase faculty salaries, which he said still put the university at a competitive disadvantage.

Some regular sources of university revenue are declining, Dr. Stoke continued, noting that fees for veteran students were dropping rapidly, enrollment was temporarily smaller because of the addition of a twelfth grade in the public school system, and that "a larger provision must be made for fee exemptions for legislative and other scholarships."

German Writes To Morning World— Wants Wife In U. S.

A German living in Munich wants an American wife, so the Morning World was advised last week by mail. His name is Rudolf Braun.

He wrote his qualifications as simply being spry, active, single, reliable, a waiter and cook by trade and quite willing and ready to work for a wife—an American wife that is, who will help him become an American citizen.

In part his letter read:

"I trust that you may give my letter publicity which may result in enabling me to return to America and there give more practical help to a deserving case.

"My only aim in life is to live again in America. You could help me do it by publishing this letter and I beg you very much for it.

"I got sick in Germany before the war on a visit to my relatives in Germany. I have no relatives in America and have lost connection with friends there. I have the entry permit to America and can sail as soon as I furnish and affidavit of support and a declaration that my ship ticket will be paid by a sponsor in America.

"I am 57, healthy, spry, active, medium size, 130 pounds, single, waiter and cook but will take any other work, too, also farm work, having worked one year on a farm in Germany.

"I would like to marry a woman in America with a little farm or something who needs a steady, willing, reliable fellow to work for her. I am best suited for a woman who wants an absolutely adaptable, appreciative, obliging fellow who devotedly serves and caters to her.

"I will accept all conditions and go to any place, city or county no matter how modest. I am diligent and good-natured. I give herewith the promise of marriage to the woman who endorses for me the "affidavit of support" and ship ticket. I will be ever thankful to her. I was no solder, no Nazi, but always a great admirer and adherent of America and enlightened many Germans by my American attitude."

Fisherman Gets Snakes

SYDNEY—A big octopus climbed into the launch of George Miles while he was fishing off Ulladulla, 150 miles south of Sydney. Miles had hooked the octopus, and hauled it to the surface.

Then the octopus took over. It placed tentacles over the side of the launch and hauled itself into the cockpit. It squirted a black fluid at Miles and reached for him with its tentacles. Miles seized a piece of board and fought off the octopus for several minutes. Then he killed it by crashing the board on its head.

The octopus was 10 feet from tip to tip of its tentacles.

Wrong-Way Prayers

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya—(AP)—Malayan Muslims have been praying the wrong way for years, says Tuan Sheikh Tahir Jalaluddin, Muslim theologian and astronomer. The mosques at Kuala Lumpur, the capital, and at Taiping and Telok Anson, in Perak state, are all "facing away from Mecca," he explains.

Tuan Sheikh says religious authorities in Malaya are aware of the "mistake" but have so far done nothing to correct it.

Get Rewarded--Solve 3 Murders In This Area

By Percy Fant

Do you like investigations? Ever take part in one? If they interest you—this solving of crimes, especially murders—then roll up your sleeves brother, this is going to be right down your alley. There's three unsolved murder cases in Ouachita parish and nearby Franklin parish, and there may be a reward if you dig up "information leading to the arrest and conviction of the party or parties" guilty of the murders.

So far the cases have professional investigators of police and sheriff departments baffled. Why not try your hand at them. Who knows, maybe the officers have overlooked a small detail that could easily bring the guilty person to justice.

Besides, it is generally accepted that there is no "perfect crime." Even murderers make mistakes. It's just a matter of time and method of uncovering the error before the accused or guilty person comes to trial.

Let's look over the facts of two unsolved murders in Ouachita parish—then turn to the "double murder" in Winnsboro.

Thumbing through the files of the Morning World, we find the first story written on the shooting of John Bezz. It read:

"An elderly DeSiard street groceryman, John Bezz, was in the St. Francis Sanitarium last night suffering a bullet wound sustained during what police called an apparent holdup attempt of his store late yesterday afternoon."

The story was dated January 20, 1949. Bezz was shot the day before and died shortly before midnight January 20.

However, before his death, Bezz explained to his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Ben Bezz that:

He was attending his store shortly after 6 p.m. A Negro entered the store and asked for a jar of peanut butter.

And in Bezz's own words: "While I was getting it off the shelf, the Negro switched off the electric light and when I turned, he fired. The bullet hit me in my chest."

The wounded grocer went on to tell how the Negro rushed outside, met another Negro, and together they fled. Bezz said there was no attempt to "rob me."

Bezz had operated his grocery, 1105 DeSiard street, for many years. He was the victim of a $1,100 robbery during the summer of 1947, according to police records.

A few days after the murder, police took into custody what they called a "good suspect" but several days later, the suspect, a young Negro, was cleared and released from jail.

The case was just recently brought to life when local police, March 21 of this year, booked two Negroes as suspects in the case. But that didn't pan out either and the pair was released.

Another unsolved murder in Monroe occurred March 19, 1950, about a couple of weeks ago. The murdered person was 77-year-old Sam Michatto. He was found critically beaten early that morning near 3006 Jackson street, four blocks from his home at 2814 Dick Taylor street. Michatto died in a local hospital almost eight hours later without regaining consciousness.

Investigating officers said the injured man was found by J. S. Osterling, of 309 Newman street. Michatto's head, when found, was resting on a loaf of bread. Missing from his pockets was five dollars and a new billfold.

A part of a wooden plank, spotted with blood, was found near Michatto and later sent to Shreveport for an analysis. The spots were human blood, the report showed. Michatto had been a resident of Monroe for the past 45 years. He was a former grocer. Police have questioned a number of Negroes in th case, but haven't found sufficint proof needed to convict the guilty person The motive for this murder was obviously robbery.

Thumbing back through the files we come to the double murder in Winnsboro. There's a thousand dollars reward if you can find the solution to this one.

On Halloween night, 1948, neighbors of Sam Paola and his wife heard several shots and screams, but they thought it was only the work of merrymakers. Later however, police discovered it was "double murder."

Paola's body was found lying in a puddle of his own blood near the kitchen door of his Taylor addition home at Winnsboro. His wife's body was found stretched in a small hallway dividing the bath and dining room. Both the Paolas were shot once in the head and again in the body with a .22 cal. firearm.

Mrs. Paola was the first to be found when a friend, William Baker, a surveyor, came to see Paola about their shortwave broadcasting units.

Mrs. Florence Taylor, wife of the Winnsboro postmaster, told officers that she heard shots and screams, but since it was Halloween, it was natural to believe it was children shooting firecrackers and playing.

Paola was 45, his wife, Mary, was 40. They had lived in their Taylor Addition home for the past 20 years and had a son, George Paola, who at the time of his parents' deaths, was working in Texas with an oil company.

After the two killings, residents in and around Winnsboro got jittery and local hardware stores sold out of pad locks and bolts. People were sleeping with their electric lights on and a firearm close to their beds.

Several suspects were brought to Monroe and given lie detector tests. But the murders are not much nearer being solved than they were the day the bodies were first discoverd.

All three of the unsolved murders are still being investigated by police. Any information or leads you might have or find may give officers just the clue they're looking for and at the same time, put reward money in your pocket.

Ghost with a Heart

BERLIN,—(AP)—In a drab five-story apartment in Berlin ghostly taps on the wall scared tenants. One woman occupant lost her reason and was removed to an asylum. Four families left their flats in despair after many sleepless hours.

After two years, the West Berlin police assigned a squad to investigate. A sergeant was posted in the quarters of an aged, deaf spinster in the attic. He could hear the eerie tapping. Tow nights the sergeant was baffled. At last, he happened to lean over the woman's bed, pressing his head tightly against the wall. As he did so, the tapping was heard.

Further tests apparently confirmed his solution. The hollow walls of the house were built of porous clay slabs. The spinster's bed had been placed close to the wall. In certain positions of sleep her heart beat was transmitted to the wall and the sound carried farther through the building.

SETS THREE OBJECTIVES

THE HAGUE, The Netherlands, April 1.—(AP)—U. S. Defense Secretary Louis Johnson today set three objectives for the 12-nation north Atlantic defense program.

Garden Success Aided By Fertilizer

By Cynthia Lowry
(Associated Press Newsfeatures Writer)

April showers may make May flowers, but lots more than rainwater goes into the production.

Soil care is a year-round job, but the quality of the garden depends, almost entirely on the good rich earth. And the quantity of richness is the responsibility of the gardener. But even after too-sandy soil had been enriched or heavy clay soil had been lightened it must continue to be fed judiciously on a diet which will maintain it.

This means fertilizing the soil. And the ways to do it are roughly three: Organic or inorganic fertilizer, lime and compost.

Organic fertilizers are primarily the manures—cow, horse, sheep or chicken. Fresh manure has its uses, but must be handled carefully, for it is strong and apt to burn the tender young roots of plants. Well-rotted manure, mixed with straw, rich and more bland is better to general purposes.

It improves the quality of soil and breaks down slowly when dug into and incorporated into the earth. Some plants—particularly roses and peonies (which hate it to come into contact with the inner roots) are among those which benefit immeasureably by an annual feeding. Even during the winter, manure spread over inactive ground provides a tonic, particularly combined with snow. Snow alone is a fertilizer of a type, carrying nitrogen into the soil.

Another, important use for manure is in liquid form. This involves the use of a barrel (best placed in an obtrusive spot). A foot or so of manure is placed in the bottom of the barrel which is ten filled with water and a cover placed on it. After brewing for a month or so, the liquid may be drawn off as needed—used diluted to the color of weak tea. It is particularly handy for feeding plants in midsummer or where quick feeding is indicated. If you have enough of it, there's nothing better for trees as well as flowers and vegetables.

Wood ashes, bonemeal, superphosphate—all these are fertilizers, too, to be used where and as needed in the job of giving plant food to sterile earth of replenishing the supplies absorbed by growing things. But none of them should be used thoughtlessly or even too often. You'd never dig in wood-ashes around acid-loving plants or scatter it on lawns, for instance.

Lime is a soil conditioner—good for sandy soil as well as clay—and is an important tool of the gardener. It will sweeten sour soil, make a too-rich soil better, but it is rare earth indeed which requires an annual dosage.

Commercial fertilizers are the ones with the numerical legends traced on the bags, 5-10-5, 2-6-4 and such. These magic figures merely represent the proportions of nitrogen, phosphorus and potash contained in the compound. They are necessary adjuncts to every garden—but they are supplementary aids. They are safe and easy to use but they are more like shots-in-the-arm, not long term soil improvers.

Peat moss, like lime, is not a fertilizer. There's no plant food in it, but it's a wonderful soil ingredient to lighten and aerate heavy soil.

Bonemeal is a wonderful plant food, it's expensive—when compared to lime, for instance—but its advantage when mixed into the garden is that it dissolves slowly and does a long-term enriching job.

EARLY ATTEMPTS TO MAKE RAIN REVEALED

Rain Making Is Old Idea

By Sherry Bowen

NEW YORK—Attempts to make rain—something New York is about to begin in hopes of filling its resevoirs—have been going on at least 10,000 years. Of course, it's new to spend $50,000 to seed clouds with dry ice and chemicals to quench a city's thirst. But man's dream of rain making is an old story.

Primitive man tried to make rain as soon as he had crops to water.

First he tried magic. The best rain maker of a tribe often became chief. It was a good job, except when he failed to bring rain he often was killed.

Wierd Rites Tried

Most of the rites hinged on sprinkling or pouring out water. The Omaha Indians, for instance, dumped water and then sucked up the mud and blew it from their mouths to imitate spray. But in Java, Australia and other places they beat each other until blood flowed to imitate rain.

Or the rain maker might take a bath. The Arabs used to toss their holy man into a pool when they wanted rain. In South Africa grass and leaf-clad women sang ribald songs while they cleaned the wells.

The rites of the Hope Indians in which they dance with rattlesnakes in their mouths are known to most Americans. That, too, is a rain making ceremony.

Twins, frogs, black animals, were among the things some people thought helped bring rain. These became the center of the rites. Or they might call upon their dead. Orinoco Indians scattered the ashes of relatives a year after death as a rain charm.

Men also appealed to their gods. Zeus in Greece was a rain god, among other things, as was Jupiter in Rome. Or they might become angry at their gods after a long drouth. As late as 1893 in Sicily, images of saints were turned to the wall, stripped, thrown into pools and otherwise abused.

Smoke Clouds Prescribed

South American Indians also burned grass in a drouth, thinking the smoke would rise and form clouds. Very early men believed that battles caused rain. This was supposed to be due to the noise or to the blood and sweat evaporating and forming clouds. Or the gods were supposed to want to cleanse the battle field.

When guns came to be used, the smoke and concussion were supposed to bring rain. This was taken seriously even in the United States. Between 1890 and 1893 congress spent $19,000 trying to make rain by sending up balloons and kites with explosives. Some of the experiments were near Washington, but most of them were in Texas.

A series of dry years started in the United States in 1891. This set off a wave of rain makers with secret formulas. Frank Melbourne, supposed to be an Audtralian, gained repute as a rain maker near Canton, Ohio. Then Goodland, Kans., called him. He set up a two-story building and let fumes of his secret formula escape through a vent in the roof. It rained and he collected.

In Australia in 1903 zinc was put in sulphuric acid. Hydrogen was thus generated in an attempt to make rain.

"Mystery Chemicals" Used

In 1905 Charles Hatfield collected $1,000 for making rain in southern California. He released mystery chemicals from a tower. He operated all over western United States and is even said to have gone to Alaska.

Another rain making surge came in the early 1920's. This time it was thought rain could be made by seeding clouds with electrified sand. In one test army planes seeded clouds over McCook Field, Dayton, Ohio. They are said to have produced a small shower

Since dry ice has worked, all that seems necessary now is enough clouds of the right kind and enough ice.

20 Million Given Test To Stop T. B. In Karachi, Pakistan

By Alton L. Blakeslee

NEW YORK —In Karachi, Pakistan, a three-year-old girl held out her arm to a Danish doctor. tuberculosis. And a photographer took a picture.

The girl, Zora Mohamood, was recorded as the 20,000,000th child to be tested in an international campaign against TB. Later she received a shot of BCG, an anti-tuberculosis vaccine. About 10,000,000 youngsters throughout the world have received the vaccine so far in the huge drive against the killer disease.

The vaccine may save Zora's life. Her test and vaccination marked almost the halfway point in this TB campaign. Some 50,000,000 children and young adults are to be tested. One-third or one half of them will be vaccinated.

The skin test shows whether a person has TB, or has ever had an attack. Those who show no sign can often be protected by the vaccine.

The campaign is sponsored by the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund (UNICEF), the Danish Red Cross, Norwegian Relief for Europe, and Swedish Red Cross.

It has been underway for two years as a joint enterprise. Before that, the Scandinavian agencies had been carrying on mass-vaccination programs in some war-ravaged European countries, where TB was especially bad. In the spring of 1948, UNICEF allocated $5,000,000 to extend and continue the vaccination program.

The tests and vaccinations are completed in Finland, Czechoslovakia and Poland. The campaign still is underway in Austria, Greece, Italy and Yugoslavia, Israel, Palestine, Lebanon, Egypt, Morocco, Algeria, and Tunisia.

Building Up Earth Is Gardener's Job

By Cynthia Lowry

Every gardener dreams of the day he can go into any corner of his garden and pick up a damp, dark and rich handful of soil. Some people undoubtedly achieve this happy condition, but most of us work year after year building and improving the earth.

But even for the fortunate ones with productive loam of the right consistency, there remains constantly the job of keeping soil rich in organic material which is plant food.

Diagnosis, treatment and care of soil is a huge subject, and it would be easy to acquire quite a heavy library on this phase of gardening alone. The gardener can carry on an intelligent program of garden betterment, however, without understanding all the whys or wherefores of his activities.

What Soil Does

It's almost enough to know that soil is a handy way of growing plants. It provides a place where roots can grow and spread, giving plants a toe hold from which they can grow up into the air and sun. At the same time it is acting as a root anchor, it gives to the feeding roots the plant food to make growth.

Plants can take food only when the chemical elements are dissolved in water—and soil is a handy receptacle to hold the food in.

Finally, the soil acts as a reservoir or storage place for water and food, so that last week's rainstorm can turn into next week's dinner for the plants.

Unhappily, not all soil—in fact, most of it—isn't ideally constituted to act as double-duty anchor and feeder. That's where the gardener gets into the act.

The Sand Problem

Soil which is too sandy fails in both its functions. It dries out quickly and permits water to leach out, thus providing neither a firm gripping place for the roots nor a constant supply of food. Soil which is mostly clay is too solid to permit the roots to make their growth holds water so hard that air doesn't reach the root and — when dry—bakes to a hard crust. Obviously ideal soil is somewhere between the two. Good garden soil contains sand, clay and—very important—the organic matter which is the food itself.

To remedy a too-sandy condition, the gardener has the job of supplying matter to bind the minute sand particles and provide organic matter. About the best materials for this purpose are well-rotted stable manures, compost leafmold or peatmoss. Sowing sandy soil with a cover-crop of rye, buckwheat or cowpeas—and then digging the crop into the soil, is a wonderful soil conditioner. Powdered clay, evenly distributed, will provide water-holding qualities, and finely sifted coal ashes will help, too.

Where the soil is too firm, because of an over-supply of clay, adition of coarse sand will lighten it. Oddly enough, such soil also will be improved by the digging in manure, compost and the other organic tonics, as well as by raising a cover crop and adding coal ashes, too.

The Water Problem

Good garden soil—or lawn soil—is a fairly delicate balance. How it handles water is vitally important. Unhappily, we depend almost entirely on rainfall to feed plants. Water which soil particles can't hold is useless to most plants. The idea is to create soil which holds a film of water around each particle of soil. This film—known as capillary water-rises from permanent ground water and is used either by the plant or lost by evaporation.

What all of us want is the way of growing soil can be easily identified. Scoop up a damp—not wet—handful and squeeze the soil into a ball. If it holds this form when released by the hand, yet crumbles apart when touched lightly, chances are it's the consistency seeds and plants will like.

MODEL SKYSCRAPERS PLANNED FOR MOSCOW

Skyscrapers Tried Out In Russia

MOSCOW — Muscovites are fascinated by the construction of more than a dozen new tall buildings in the Soviet capital.

These structures, rising, from 16 to 26 stories, are to be provided with the most modern equipment, and will dominate the skyline of the city.

One of them is to be a Moscow University building, 26 stories high, rising from the highest point in the city, the Lenin Hills. It will be the central structure in a massive ensemble of university buildings.

Another new structure will house the capital's newest and largest hotel. It will be near the Kiev Railway Station on the Moscow River.

Others will be apartment and office buildings. One office structure is going up within a few hundred yards of the residence of the American Ambassador. It is on Smolenk Square. Its steel framework has been erected and concrete work already extends up for about 16 out of its 26 stories. Work on this building has gone on all winter.

Moscow factories are building the first high speed elevators in the U.S.S.R. The cars will rise 26 stories in 30 seconds. Each will carry 20 persons.

Surfers Are Risking Lives Down Under

By Barbara Gormley

SYDNEY—Every summer Sunday—from November to March down here—about 50,000 Sydneysiders risk life and limb for fun.

Only a few think about it. To the rest, there is nothing at all hazardous about going for a surf.

A few of us sat on the beach the other day and talked about it. We had just come out of the rolling Pacific. To listen to our talk, you would think surfing was dangerous.

First we discussed sharks. Nearly daily during the summer, newspapers carry warnings to the unwary about the shark menace. Sunday after Sunday, surfers come charging out of the water at the sound of a shark alarm. They stand on the beach while lifesavers take out their boats and chase the shark out to sea. Then they scramble back into the waves.

One of the most nerve racking experiences you can have is to hear the alarm, then see the shark between you and dry land.

However, there are amazingly few shark fatalities; about one a year on Sydney beaches.

After sharks we brooded on the chances of being swept out to sea in a strong current. This is usually the fate of those who can't swim too well. Out they go to the first line of breakers, in they go with a current, and out they go to sea.

Life savers are kept busy rescuing surf riders off Australia beaches.

Then you can break your neck in a dumper, but somehow or other you don't. A dumper is a curly wave. After breaking, instead of the wave head sliding down itself, it curls out and under. Get caught up in one of these and you don't know if you're coming or going.

After dumpers, we got on the subject of blue bottles—another hazard of surfing. These bright blue, bottle-shaped sea creatures have thin cotton-like tails—yards long. The tails give you the sting of all stings. The pain lasts only a few hours, but while it's on you wish a shark got you.

Sea weed usually is just a smelly, unpleasant nuisance to surfers. But this year, two life-savers were drowned when sea weed fouled their rescue lines and dragged them under.

We thought seriously about it all for a good two minutes. Then we had another surf. We'll be there again next Sunday.

German Writes To Morning World— Wants Wife In U. S.

A German living in Munich wants an American wife, so the Morning World was advised last week by mail. His name is Rudolf Braun.

He wrote his qualifications as simply being spry, active, single, reliable, a waiter and cook by trade and quite willing and ready to work for a wife—an American wife that is, who will help him become an American citizen.

In part his letter read:

"I trust that you may give my letter publicity which may result in enabling me to return to America and there give more practical help to a deserving case.

"My only aim in life is to live again in America. You could help me do it by publishing this letter and I beg you very much for it.

"I got sick in Germany before the war on a visit to my relatives in Germany. I have no relatives in America and have lost connection with friends there. I have the entry permit to America and can sail as soon as I furnish and affidavit of support and a declaration that my ship ticket will be paid by a sponsor in America.

"I am 57, healthy, spry, active, medium size, 130 pounds, single, waiter and cook but will take any other work, too, also farm work, having worked one year on a farm in Germany.

"I would like to marry a woman in America with a little farm or something who needs a steady, willing, reliable fellow to work for her. I am best suited for a woman who wants an absolutely adaptable, appreciative, obliging fellow who devotedly serves and caters to her.

"I will accept all conditions and go to any place, city or county no matter how modest. I am diligent and good-natured. I give herewith the promise of marriage to the woman who endorses for me the affidavit of support" and ship ticket. I will be ever thankful to her. I was no solder, no Nazi, but always a great admirer and adherent of America and enlightened many Germans by my American attitude."

Fisherman Gets Snakes

SYDNEY—A big octopus climbed into the launch of George Miles while he was fishing off Ulladulla, 150 miles south of Sydney. Miles had hooked the octopus, and hauled it to the surface.

Then the octopus took over. It placed tentacles over the side of the launch and hauled itself into the cockpit. It squirted a black fluid at Miles and reached for him with its tentacles. Miles seized a piece of board and fought off the octopus for several minutes. Then he killed it by crashing the board on its head.

The octopus was 10 feet from tip to tip of its tentacles.

Wrong-Way Prayers

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya—(AP)—Malayan Muslims have been praying the wrong way for years, says Tuan Sheikh Tahir Jalaluddin, Muslim theologian and astronomer. The mosques at Kuala Lumpur, the capital, and at Taiping and Telok Anson, in Perak state, are all "facing away from Mecca," he explains.

Tuan Sheikh says religious authorities in Malaya are aware of the "mistake" but have so far done nothing to correct it.

Get Rewarded--Solve 3 Murders In This Area

By Percy Fant

Do you like investigations? Ever take part in one? If they interest you—this solving of crimes, especially murders—then roll up your sleeves brother, this is going to be right down your alley. There's three unsolved murder cases in Ouachita parish and nearby Franklin parish, and there may be a reward if you dig up "information leading to the arrest and conviction of the party or parties" guilty of the murders.

So far the cases have professional investigators of police and sheriff departments baffled. Why not try your hand at them. Who knows, maybe the officers have overlooked a small detail that could easily bring the guilty person to justice.

Besides, it is generally accepted that there is no "perfect crime." Even murderers make mistakes. It's just a matter of time and method of uncovering the error before the accused or guilty person comes to trial.

Let's look over the facts of two unsolved murders in Ouachita parish—then turn to the "double murder" in Winnsboro.

Thumbing through the files of the Morning World, we find the first story written on the shooting of John Bezz. It read:

"An elderly DeSiard street groceryman, John Bezz, was in the St. Francis Sanitarium last night suffering a bullet wound sustained during what police called an apparent holdup attempt of his store late yesterday afternoon."

The story was dated January 20, 1949. Bezz was shot the day before and died shortly before midnight January 20.

However, before his death, Bezz explained to his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Ben Bezz that:

He was attending his store shortly after 6 p.m. A Negro entered the store and asked for a jar of peanut butter.

And in Bezz's own words: "While I was getting it off the shelf, the Negro switched off the electric light and when I turned, he fired. The bullet hit me in my chest."

The wounded grocer went on to tell how the Negro rushed outside, met another Negro, and together they fled. Bezz said there was no attempt to "rob me."

Bezz had operated his grocery, 1105 DeSiard street, for many years. He was the victim of a $1,100 robbery during the summer of 1947, according to police records.

A few days after the murder, police took into custody what they called a "good suspect" but several days later, the suspect, a young Negro, was cleared and released from jail.

The case was just recently brought to life when local police, March 21 of this year, booked two Negroes as suspects in the case. But that didn't pan out either and the pair was released.

Another unsolved murder in Monroe occurred March 19, 1950, about a couple of weeks ago. The murdered person was 77-year-old Sam Michatto. He was found critically beaten early that morning near 3006 Jackson street, four blocks from his home at 2814 Dick Taylor street. Michatto died in a local hospital almost eight hours later without regaining consciousness.

Investigating officers said the injured man was found by J. S. Osterling, of 309 Newman street. Michatto's head, when found, was resting on a loaf of bread. Missing from his pockets was five dollars and a new billfold.

A part of a wooden plank, spotted with blood, was found near Michatto and later sent to Shreveport for an analysis. The spots were human blood, the report showed. Michatto had been a resident of Monroe for the past 45 years. He was a former grocer. Police have questioned a number of Negroes in th case, but haven't found sufficint proof needed to convict the guilty person The motive for this murder was obviously robbery.

Thumbing back through the files we come to the double murder in Winnsboro. There's a thousand dollars reward if you can find the solution to this one.

On Halloween night, 1948, neighbors of Sam Paola and his wife heard several shots and screams, but they thought it was only the work of merrymakers. Later however, police discovered it was "double murder."

Paola's body was found lying in a puddle of his own blood near the kitchen door of his Taylor addition home at Winnsboro. His wife's body was found stretched in a small hallway dividing the bath and dining room. Both the Paolas were shot once in the head and again in the body with a .22 cal. firearm.

Mrs. Paola was the first to be found when a friend, William Baker, a surveyor, came to see Paola about their shortwave broadcasting units.

Mrs. Florence Taylor, wife of the Winnsboro postmaster, told officers that she heard shots and screams, but since it was Halloween, it was natural to believe it was children shooting firecrackers and playing.

Paola was 45, his wife, Mary, was 40. They had lived in their Taylor Addition home for the past 20 years and had a son, George Paola, who at the time of his parents' deaths, was working in Texas with an oil company.

After the two killings, residents in and around Winnsboro got jittery and local hardware stores sold out of pad locks and bolts. People were sleeping with their electric lights on and a firearm close to their beds.

Several suspects were brought to Monroe and given lie detector tests. But the murders are not much nearer being solved than they were the day the bodies were first discoverd.

All three of the unsolved murders are still being investigated by police. Any information or leads you might have or find may give officers just the clue they're looking for and at the same time, put reward money in your pocket.

Or the rain maker might take a bath. The Arabs used to toss their holy man into a pool when they wanted rain. In South Africa grass and leaf-clad women sang ribald songs while they cleaned the wells.

The rites of the Hope Indians in which they dance with rattlesnakes in their mouths are known to most Americans. That, too, is a rain making ceremony.

Twins, frogs, black animals, were among the things some people thought helped bring rain. These became the center of the rites. Or they might call upon their dead. Orinoco Indians scattered the ashes of relatives a year after death as a rain charm.

Men also appealed to their gods. Zeus in Greece was a rain god, among other things, as was Jupiter in Rome. Or they might become angry at their gods after a long drouth. As late as 1893 in Sicily, images of saints were turned to the wall, stripped, thrown into pools and otherwise abused.

Smoke Clouds Prescribed

South American Indians also burned grass in a drouth, thinking the smoke would rise and form clouds. Very early men believed that battles caused rain. This was supposed to be due to the noise or to the blood and sweat evaporating and forming clouds. Or the gods were supposed to want to cleanse the battle field.

When guns came to be used, the smoke and concussion were supposed to bring rain. This was taken seriously even in the United States. Between 1890 and 1893 congress spent $19,000 trying to make rain by sending up balloons and kites with explosives. Some of the experiments were near Washington, but most of them were in Texas.

A series of dry years started in the United States in 1891. This set off a wave of rain makers with secret formulas. Frank Melbourne, supposed to be an Audtralian, gained repute as a rain maker near Canton, Ohio. Then Goodland, Kans., called him. He set up a two-story building and let fumes of his secret formula escape through a vent in the roof. It rained and he collected.

In Australia in 1903 zinc was put in sulphuric acid. Hydrogen was thus generated in an attempt to make rain.

"Mystery Chemicals" Used

In 1905 Charles Hatfield collected $1,000 for making rain in southern California. He released mystery chemicals from a tower. He operated all over western United States and is even said to have gone to Alaska.

Another rain making surge came in the early 1920's. This time it was thought rain could be made by seeding clouds with electrified sand. In one test army planes seeded clouds over McCook Field, Dayton, Ohio. They are said to have produced a small shower

Since dry ice has worked, all that seems necessary now is enough clouds of the right kind and enough ice.

By Alton L. Blakeslee

The girl, Zora Mohamood, was recorded as the 20,000,000th child to be tested in an international campaign against TB. Later she received a shot of BCG, an anti-tuberculosis vaccine. About 10,000,000 youngsters throughout the world have received the vaccine so far in the huge drive against the killer disease.

The vaccine may save Zora's life. Her test and vaccination marked almost the halfway point in this TB campaign. Some 50,000,000 children and young adults are to be tested. One-third or one half of them will be vaccinated.

The skin test shows whether a person has TB, or has ever had an attack. Those who show no sign can often be protected by the vaccine.

The campaign is sponsored by the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund (UNICEF), the Danish Red Cross, Norwegian Relief for Europe, and Swedish Red Cross.

It has been underway for two years as a joint enterprise. Before that, the Scandinavian agencies had been carrying on mass-vaccination programs in some war-ravaged European countries, where TB was especially bad. In the spring of 1948, UNICEF allocated $5,000,000 to extend and continue the vaccination program.

The tests and vaccinations are completed in Finland, Czechoslovakia and Poland. The campaign still is underway in Austria, Greece, Italy and Yugoslavia, Israel, Palestine, Lebanon, Egypt, Morocco, Algeria, and Tunisia.

Building Up Earth Is Gardener's Job

By Cynthia Lowry

Every gardener dreams of the day he can go into any corner of his garden and pick up a damp, dark and rich handful of soil. Some people undoubtedly achieve this happy condition, but most of us work year after year building and improving the earth.

But even for the fortunate ones with productive loam of the right consistency, there remains constantly the job of keeping soil rich in organic material which is plant food.

Diagnosis, treatment and care of soil is a huge subject, and it would be easy to acquire quite a heavy library on this phase of gardening alone. The gardener can carry on an intelligent program of garden betterment, however, without understanding all the whys or wherefores of his activities.

What Soil Does

It's almost enough to know that soil is a handy way of growing plants. It provides a place where roots can grow and spread, giving plants a toe hold from which they can grow up into the air and sun. At the same time it is acting as a root anchor, it gives to the feeding roots the plant food to make growth.

Plants can take food only when the chemical elements are dissolved in water—and soil is a handy receptacle to hold the food in.

Finally, the soil acts as a reservoir or storage place for water and food, so that last week's rainstorm can turn into next week's dinner for the plants.

Unhappily, not all soil—in fact, most of it—isn't ideally constituted to act as double-duty anchor and feeder. That's where the gardener gets into the act.

The Sand Problem

Soil which is too sandy fails in both its functions. It dries out quickly and permits water to leach out, thus providing neither a firm gripping place for the roots nor a constant supply of food. Soil which is mostly clay is too solid to permit the roots to make their growth holds water so hard that air doesn't reach the root and —when dry—bakes to a hard crust. Obviously ideal soil is somewhere between the two. Good garden soil contains sand, clay and—very important—the organic matter which is the food itself.

To remedy a too-sandy condition, the gardener has the job of supplying matter to bind the minute sand particles and provide organic matter. About the best materials for this purpose are well-rotted stable manures, compost leafmold or peatmoss. Sowing sandy soil with a cover-crop of rye, buckwheat or cowpeas—and then digging the crop into the soil, is a wonderful soil conditioner. Powdered clay, evenly distributed, will provide water-holding qualities, and finely sifted coal ashes will help, too.

Where the soil is too firm, because of an over-supply of clay, adition of coarse sand will lighten it. Oddly enough, such soil also will be improved by the digging in manure, compost and the other organic tonics, as well as by raising a cover crop and adding coal ashes, too.

The Water Problem

Good garden soil—or lawn soil—is a fairly delicate balance. How it handles water is vitally important. Unhappily, we depend almost entirely on rainfall to feed plants. Water which soil particles can't hold is useless to most plants. The idea is to create soil which holds a film of water around each particle of soil. This film—known as capillary water-rises from permanent ground water and is used either by the plant or lost by evaporation.

What all of us want is the way of growing soil can be easily identified. Scoop up a damp—not wet—handful and squeeze the soil into a ball. If it holds this form when released by the hand, yet crumbles apart when touched lightly, chances are it's the consistency seeds and plants will like.

CENTURY, Fla., April 1.—(AP)—A 25-year-old mother was fatally burned when her housecoat caught fire while she was playing with her three sm..ll children yesterday.

The victim was Mrs. Margaret Brooks. Her husband, an employe of a Century lumber company, was at work when the tragedy occurred. Flames from the fireplace ignited the flowing coat.

MODEL SKYSCRAPERS PLANNED FOR MOSCOW

Skyscrapers Tried Out In Russia

MOSCOW — Muscovites are fascinated by the construction of more than a dozen new tall buildings in the Soviet capital.

These structures, rising, from 16 to 26 stories, are to be provided with the most modern equipment, and will dominate the skyline of e city.

One of them is to be a Moscow iversity building, 26 stories high, ng from the highest point in city, the Lenin Hills. It will be the central structure in a massive ensemble of university buildings.

Another new structure will house the capital's newest and largest hotel. It will be near the Kiev Railway Station on the Moscow River.

Others will be apartment and office buildings. One office structure is going up within a few hundred yards of the residence of the American Ambassador. It is on Smolenk Square. Its steel framework has been erected and concrete work already extends up for about 16 out of its 26 stories. Work on this building has gone on all winter.

Moscow factories are building the first high speed elevators in the U.S.S.R. The cars will rise 26 stories in 30 seconds. Each will carry 20 persons.

Surfers Are Risking Lives Down Under

By Barbara Gormley

SYDNEY—Every summer Sunday—from November to March down here—about 50,000 Sydneysiders risk life and limb for fun.

Only a few think about it. To the rest, there is nothing at all hazardous about going for a surf.

A few of us sat on the beach the other day and talked about it. We had just come out of the rolling Pacific. To listen to our talk, you would think surfing was dangerous.

First we discussed sharks. Nearly daily during the summer, newspapers carry warnings to the unwary about the shark menace. Sunday after Sunday, surfers come charging out of the water at the sound of a shark alarm. They stand on the beach while lifesavers take out their boats and chase the shark out to sea. Then they scramble back into the waves.

One of the most nerve racking experiences you can have is to hear the alarm, then see the shark between you and dry land.

However, there are amazingly few shark fatalities; about one a year on Sydney beaches.

After sharks we brooded on the chances of being swept out to sea in a strong current. This is usually the fate of those who can't swim too well. Out they go to the first line of breakers, in they go with a current, and out they go to sea.

Life savers are kept busy rescuing surf riders off Australia beaches.

Then you can break your neck in a dumper, but somehow or other you don't. A dumper is a curly wave. After breaking, instead of the wave head sliding down itself, it curls out and under. Get caught up in one of these and you don't know if you're coming or going.

After dumpers, we got on the subject of blue bottles—another hazard of surfing. These bright blue, bottle-shaped sea creatures have thin cotton-like tails—yards long. The tails give you the sting of all stings. The pain lasts only a few hours, but while it's on you wish a shark got you.

Sea weed usually is just a smelly, unpleasant nuisance to surfers. But this year, two life-savers were drowned when sea weed fouled their rescue lines and dragged them under.

We thought seriously about it all for a good two minutes. Then we had another surf. We'll be there again next Sunday.

Our pastor will speak Sunday Morning on "I Believe". We sincerely welcome all who can to come and worship with us this and every Sunday. If you were not with us last week end for the three day revival, Bro. Fred McLelland speaking, you missed a wonderful blessing. During that period, one of our young men, J.W. Walker surrendered his life to become a missionary. He is a fine consecrated Christian and is now attending North Junior College.

Sunday Night is "Old Timers Night". Only those people above forty will be on program. We feel sure you will want to come for this service. Our guest speaker will be Rev. B.C. Smith, Sr.

Our Sunday Service is as follows:
Sunday School, 9:45.
Morning Worship, 11:00.
Training Union, 6:30.
Evening Worship, 7:30.
Brotherhood, 6:30.

YOU ARE CORDIALLY INVITED TO ATTEND

Glorify your church services with this magnificent organ music!

Now—thanks to the new Hammond Organ—your church can have glorious organ music that is second to none!

Here is a range of tone and wealth of color that cannot be equaled by any comparable instrument—a quality of music that will be an inspiration to all in your church.

Here, too, is music of cathedral quality for your church, regardless of its size. For the Hammond Organ creates — within itself — the majestic reverberating quality produced by towering walls and vaulted ceilings. No other organ has this exclusive Reverberation Control.

The Hammond Organ, too, is the only organ which cannot get out of tune in any kind of weather. It is installed without requiring any structural changes in your church—and upkeep is negligible.

But you must see and hear this wonderful instrument to fully appreciate all that it can mean to your church. Then you will know why 15,000 churches, large and small, already own the Hammond Organ.

You will understand why, since its introduction, more churches have bought the Hammond Organ than all other comparable instruments combined.

To hear, see, and play the new Hammond Organ, you are invited to stop in soon. There is no obligation.

YOU ARE CORDIALLY INVITED TO ATTEND

Glorify your church services with this magnificent organ music!

Now—thanks to the new Hammond Organ—your church can have glorious organ music that is second to none!

Here is a range of tone and wealth of color that cannot be equaled by any comparable instrument—a quality of music that will be an inspiration to all in your church.

Here, too, is music of cathedral quality for your church, regardless of its size. For the Hammond Organ creates — within itself — the majestic reverberating quality produced by towering walls and vaulted ceilings. No other organ has this exclusive Reverberation Control.

The Hammond Organ, too, is the only organ which cannot get out of tune in any kind of weather. It is installed without requiring any structural changes in your church—and upkeep is negligible.

But you must see and hear this wonderful instrument to fully appreciate all that it can mean to your church. Then you will know why 15,000 churches, large and small, already own the Hammond Organ.

You will understand why, since its introduction, more churches have bought the Hammond Organ than all other comparable instruments combined.

To hear, see, and play the new Hammond Organ, you are invited to stop in soon. There is no obligation.

A. P. Staff Writer Tells Of 'Flying Saucer' Tales

Says Stories Of Flying Objects Not Proved And Not Disproved

EDITOR'S NOTE: People in many places and many lands report they've been seeing things in the sky that look like flying saucers. Or they've heard rumors or read some fantastic stories about mysterious flying objects. The U. S. air force, having investigated 375 such reports over a two-year period, insists it's all due to "misinterpretation of various conventional objects, a mild form of mass hysteria and hoaxes." The current crop of flying saucer reports is reviewed in the accompanying story by a staff writer of the Associated Press.

By Ed Creagh

NEW YORK, April 1.—(AP)—Those flying saucers!

Is it possible that some of them may be real, after all?

Or—note well that this is the season of All Fools' Day—are some people "seeing things in the dark" while others are up to the well-loved American pastime of telling tall stories?

One thing is sure:

Myth or military secret, optical illusion or "invasion" from Mars, the so-called flying saucer is getting plenty of attention—more serious attention, probably, than at any time since it whirled into the news nearly three years ago.

The armed forces, meanwhile, continue to dismiss the whole subject of flying saucers as so much moonshine.

What brings the flying saucers back into the headlines?

1.—More people of late have reported more strange objects in the skies. Some of these turn out to be quite ordinary things such as weather balloons. Others go unexplained. And people who report the unexplained objects give detailed, highly colored descriptions.

2.—There are hints -- no more than hints—of a secret weapon that looks like a flying saucer. An Italian scientist says such a weapon could easily be made. Despite official denials, radio commentator Henry J. Taylor says he's convinced the U. S. is making it. But to repeat: there's no evidence whatever to back up this talk.

3.—Some practical jokers have been spreading flying saucer stories. Many people show themselves ready — even eager — to believe these stories, however fantastic. Even the exploded yarn about a space ship from Venus, with "little men" aboard, finds widespread belief.

We've heard flying saucer stories, off and on, since June 24, 1947, when Kenneth Arnold of Boise, Idaho, reported discs streaking through the air at better than 1,000 miles an hour.

In the summer that followed, the heavens were filled with mysterious objects—if you believed all the accounts "eyewitnesses" gave.

But who believed all of them? How many people believed any?

Flying saucers became the topic, then the joke of the year—remember?

A New York psychiatrist, Dr. J. L. Moreno, said it was only to be expected that people should "see things" in the sky—things that scientists assured them really would be flying around in the future.

"The basic cause seems to be fear of coming disaster," he said. "Mankind has experienced many similar developments in the past. These produced the belief in witches, pixies, devils, giants, Santa Claus. . . ."

The air force set up a flying saucer investigation at Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio. Over a two-year period it made some 375 investigations. Last December it made its report: "There's nothing whatever to flying saucers that can't be explained by "misinterpretation of various conventional objects, a mild form of mass hysteria or hoaxes."

This week, confronted by new saucer stories, an air force news officer said it again:

"If anybody can show us anything with any substance in it, we'll be glad to look at it. But we've seen nothing since the air force discontinued the project that would make it necessary to reopen the formal investigation."

The statement came after commentator Taylor said at Dallas, Texas:

"They (disc-like flying objects) are not from another planet, not from Russia, but from right here in the United States. It will be wonderful for all of us when the military announces the story involved here."

An Italian authority on weapons, Guiseppe Belinzo, said in Rome that both Italy and Germany designed types of flying discs as early as 1942.

"The truth is that these instruments of destruction can be built and operated," said Belluzo, a cabinet minister under Mussolini. "The principle of the flying disc is very simple and construction with light metal very easy.

"Some great power is now launching discs to study them."

And, on the other hand, there is the strange case of the mysterious objects in the sky over Farmington, N. M.

Hundreds of people saw them last St. Patrick's Day. Some counted 20, others more than 100. One witness said they loafed along at about 15,000 feet, and added:

"They were perfect replicas of a dinner table plate, even to the bottom ring."

But State Patrolman Andy Andrews turned in the final report: "They looked as though they were 'way high. Then after a while I could see they were really only about 40 feet off the ground. I watched three of the things float down onto the garage. They were just cotton—pieces about the size of a quarter."

Editor Walt Rogel of the Farmington Times interviewed a number of the sky-gazers. He reported about half were willing to believe there are such things as interplanetary space ships.

Staff members of the Newark (N. J.) Star-Ledger wouldn't dispute Rogel's estimate. On a recent Sunday the Star-Ledger, spoofing the saucer legend, published a gagged-up story about a space ship from Mars landing on the newspaper building's roof.

Telephone calls started jamming the switchboard as soon as the story appeared. One group of citizens held a meeting to see what action should be taken. Next day the Star-Ledger proclaimed in big type on page one that the story was pure hoax. Yet it was another 24 hours before the floor of phone calls stopped. Then there's the classic story that spread throughout the west. Maybe you heard it.

The government (this is pure fiction, remember) has two flying saucers at a radar station near the Arizona-New Mexico border. One is badly damaged and the other is in almost perfect condition.

Actually (this is still fiction) the saucers are space ships—from Venus—six feet wide, encompassed by rings 18 feet across and two feet thick. They are equipped with tripod ball-bearing type landing gears. In the air the rings whirl around the stationary cabins, giving the ships a gyroscope effect.

Each ship (hold on to you hat, now) contained two little men. The bodies in the damaged ship were too charred to tell much about them. The other two bodies were well preserved. The men were three feet tall, blond, bardless and with perfect teeth.

They were built much like human beings on earth except for size. They wore clothes of a blue, wiry material and their trousers were skin-tight. They wore no underwear but the bodies were taped.

Each ship carried a supply of white tablets and some small brown cubes. When doused in water the cubes fizled and frothed in to a volume of about a gallon.

Well, a Denver engineer named George Coulter made up the story some three months ago. He told it as a practical joke, to a visiting Kansas City auto dealer named Rudy Fick.

Back in Kansas City, Fick passed the story on to some friends. It spread like wildfire. In Mexico, Kay L. Dimmick, a powder company executive, heard it—people even showed him a strip of metal which they said came from one of the spaceships.

Dimmick went back to Los Angeles and told the story. It got into the papers. It was denied. Coulter, who made it up in the first place, plainly described it as a gag. Still the story circulates. And people almost always are disappointed when they learn it isn't true.

But what of the saucer stories that are not denied?

Take the one told by Capt. Jack Adams and First Officer G. W. Anderson of Chicago and Southern Airlines. They were over Stuttgart, Ark., at night less than two weeks ago when they saw what they describe as "a bright blinking light that was approaching us from the south."

As Adams tells the story:

"We watched it for 20 or 30 seconds. As it drew nearer to us and crossed our path, we saw on the under side of the object a circular group of lights arranged in a manner that gave it the appearance of a definite circle.

"The lights were bluish or flourescent in nature and the object appeared to be about 100 feet in diameter.

"The way it was flying, I'm positive it was a definite and controlled flight. It maintained a constant altitude and constant course and traveled at a terrific rate of another planet, operated by anifying saucer and, further, that these discs are space ships from about 105 feet across, and flying speed."

"I am convinced that it was a nor I have ever seen anything that approached this. It's nothing like jet or anything else we've ever heard of other than the flying saucer itself."

The airmen told their story, on a television program, to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt. The former first lady shook her head in laughing bewilderment.

"I will say I've been a little skeptical before," she said. "I thought people were seeing things."

Another account of an aerial what-is-it comes from Charles B. Moore, Jr., of Minneapolis, an engineer and director of the General Mills high altitude balloon project.

Moore had scientific measuring devices with him when he and four navy men sighted the object from a point 57 miles northeast of the White Sands N. M., proving ground.

Based on their calculations, the object was elliptical in shape, some 56 miles high at a speed of about four miles per second.

Moore's report led Navy Commander Robert B. McLaughlin to write in True Magazine:

Moore himself said recently he sees no reason to believe it either a flying saucer or space ship.

"It was no hallucination, however, and I believe objects like this are worth much further investigation," he said.

So the stories multiply. On a single day recently, more or less similar reports—none confirmed, none proved false—came from Erie and Clearfield, Pa.; Havana, Cuba; Dallas, Texas; and Mexico City.

Sometimes the "flying saucers" can definitely be identified as ordinary, innocent objects. One such was spotted over two Michigan communities, Petoskey and Ironton, a few days ago, it turned out to be a weather balloon.

In Washington, I. R. Tannehill, chief of the weather bureau's division of reports and forecasts, says this can be expected to happen often:

"We're putting a lot of that stuff in the air and it drifts around. Anybody could see one of those things and think he'd had too much to drink, or get the idea he was seeing two moons or a flying saucer."

Another device that may fool people is the target drone—a small, pilotless airplane used for testing guided missiles. The University of Texas defense research laboratory has disclosed that it's working on them.

They don't look saucerlike, but an official commented:

"I suppose people with imagination could see a target drone as a flying saucer, just as they might call a jet plane or a weather balloon a flying saucer."

Especially on April Fool's Day? mate, intelligent beings."

MANY BENEFITS

Monroe, La.
March 31, 1950

To the Editor

There has been a great deal of growing concern over the possible loss of our State Extension City Home Demonstrater if $1,000 isn't provided by some of the Twin City Governing Boards to go with the $2,000 paid by L. S. U. This is such a valuable service at such a nominal cost that it would be a discredit to our community to lose it.

The benefits derived by our children alone would warrent the $1,000. As part of the summer recreation work six weeks is given to teaching cooking classes to girls from 9 to 14. The work with Y-teens at the Y. W. C. A. includes health, manners and good grooming. Work with Girl Scouts includes health, cooking, sewing room arrangements, closet arrangement and grooming. Besides this classes are offered throughout the year in tailoring, short cuts in sewing, upholstering, making slip covers and dress forms and helps in cooking. Assistance has been given without charge to anyone in making draperies, curtains, lamps, lamp shades, interior decorating, gardening, landscaping and so many other subjects helpful to successful home making there is hardly room here to list them all.

With Monroe and West Monroe the growing, thriving communities they are, it seems unbelievable that these services could be lost because of $1,000.00. I for one hope the citizens of the Twin Cities will see that they won't be.

Sincerely,

MRS. J. L. ADAMS, JR...

A. P. Staff Writer Tells Of 'Flying Saucer' Tales

Says Stories Of Flying Objects Not Proved And Not Disproved

(EDITOR'S NOTE: People in many places and many lands report they've been seeing things in the sky that look like flying saucers. Or they've heard rumors or read some fantastic stories about mysterious flying objects. The U. S. air force, having investigated 375 such reports over a two-year period, insists it's all due to "misinterpretation of various conventional objects, a mild form of mass hysteria and hoaxes." The current crop of flying saucer reports is reviewed in the accompanying story by a staff writer of the Associated Press.)

By Ed Creagh

NEW YORK, April 1.—(AP)—Those flying saucers!

Is it possible that some of them may be real, after all?

Or—note well that this is the season of All Fools' Day—are some people "seeing things in the dark" while others are up to the well-loved American pastime of telling tall stories?

One thing is sure:

Myth or military secret, optical illusion or "invasion" from Mars, the so-called flying saucer is getting plenty of attention—more serious attention, probably, than at any time since it whirled into the news nearly three years ago.

The armed forces, meanwhile, continue to dismiss the whole subject of flying saucers as so much moonshine.

What brings the flying saucers back into the headlines?

1.—More people of late have reported more strange objects in the skies. Some of these turn out to be quite ordinary things such as weather balloons. Others go unexplained. And people who report the unexplained objects give detailed, highly colored descriptions.

2.—There are hints — no more than hints—of a secret weapon that looks like a flying saucer. An Italian scientist says such a weapon could easily be made. Despite official denials, radio commentator Henry J. Taylor says he's convinced the U. S. is making it. But to repeat: there's no evidence whatever to back up this talk.

3.—Some practical jokers have been spreading flying saucer stories. Many people show themselves ready — even eager — to believe these stories, however fantastic. Even the exploded yarn about a space ship from Venus, with "little men" aboard, finds widespread belief.

We've heard flying saucer stories, off and on, since June 24, 1947, when Kenneth Arnold of Boise, Idaho, reported discs streaking through the air at better than 1,000 miles an hour.

In the summer that followed, the heavens were filled with mysterious objects—if you believed all the accounts "eyewitnesses" gave.

But who believed all of them? How many people believed any?

Flying saucers became the topic, then the joke of the year—remember?

A New York psychiatrist, Dr. J. L. Moreno, said it was only to be expected that people should "see things" in the sky—things that scientists assured them really would be flying around in the future.

"The basic cause seems to be fear of coming disaster," he said. "Mankind has experienced many similar developments in the past. These produced the belief in witches, pixies, devils, giants, Santa Claus. . . ."

The air force set up a flying saucer investigation at Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio. Over a two-year period it made some 375 investigations. Last December it made its report: "There's nothing whatever to flying saucers that can't be explained by "misinterpretation of various conventional objects, a mild form of mass hysteria or hoaxes."

This week, confronted by new saucer stories, an air force news officer said it again:

"If anybody can show us anything with any substance in it, we'll be glad to look at it. But we've seen nothing since the air force discontinued the project that would make it necessary to reopen the formal investigation."

The statement came after commentator Taylor said at Dallas, Texas:

"They (disc-like flying objects) are not from another planet, not from Russia, but from right here in the United States. It will be wonderful for all of us when the military announces the story involved here."

An Italian authority on weapons, Guiseppe Belinzo, said in Rome that both Italy and Germany designed types of flying discs as early as 1942.

"The truth is that these instruments of destruction can be built and operated," said Belluzo, a cabinet minister under Mussolini. "The principle of the flying disc is very simple and construction with light metal very easy.

"Some great power is now launching discs to study them."

And, on the other hand, there is is the strange case of the mysterious objects in the sky over Farmnigton, N. M.

Hundreds of people saw them last St. Patrick's Day. Some counted 20, others more than 100. One witness said they loafed along at about 15,000 feet, and added:

"They were perfect replicas of a dinner table plate, even to the bottom ring."

But State Patrolman Andy Andrews turned in the final report: "They looked as though they were 'way high. Then after a while I could see they were really only about 40 feet off the ground. I watched three of the things float down onto the garage. They were just cotton—pieces about the size of a quarter."

Editor Walt Rogel of the Farmington Times interviewed a number of the sky-gazers. He reported about half were willing to believe there are such things as interplanetary space ships.

Staff members of the Newark (N. J.) Star-Ledger wouldn't dispute Rogel's estimate. On a recent Sunday the Star-Ledger, spoofing the saucer legend, published a gagged-up story about a space ship from Mars landing on the newspaper building's roof.

Telephone calls started jamming the switchboard as soon as the sroty appeared. One group of citizens held a meeting to see what action should be taken. Next day the Star-Ledger proclaimed in big type on page one that the story was pure hoax. Yet it was another 24 hours before the floor of phone calls stopped. Then there's the classic story that spread throughout the west. Maybe you heard it:

The government (this is pure fiction, remember) has two flying saucers at a radar station near the Arizona-New Mexico border. One is badly damaged and the other is in almost perfect condition.

Actually (this is still fiction) the saucers are space ships—from Venus—six feet wide, encompassed by rings 18 feet across and two feet thick. They are equipped with tripod ball-bearing type landing gears. In the air the rings whirl around the stationary cabins, giving the ships a gyroscope effect.

Each ship (hold on to you hat, now) contained two little men. The bodies in the damaged ship were too charred to tell much about them. The other two bodies were well preserved. The men were three feet tall, blond, bardless and with perfect teeth.

They were built much like human beings on earth except for size. They wore clothes of a blue, wiry material and their trousers were skin-tight. They wore no underwear but the bodies were taped.

Each ship carried a supply of white tablets and some small brown cubes. When doused in water the cubes fizled and frothed in to a volume of about a gallon.

Well, a Denver engineer named George Coulter made up the story some three months ago. He told it as a practical joke, to a visiting Kansas City auto dealer named Rudy Fick.

Back in Kansas City, Fick passed the story on to some friends. It spread like wildfire. In Mexico, Kay L. Dimmick, a powder company executive, heard it—people even showed him a strip of metal which they said came from one of the spaceships.

Dimmick went back to Los Angeles and told the story. It got into the papers. It was denied. Coulter, who made it up in the first place, plainly described it as a gag. Still the story circulates. And people almost always are disappointed when they learn it isn't true.

But what of the saucer stories that are not denied?

Take the one told by Capt. Jack Adams and First Officer G. W. Anderson of Chicago and Southern Airlines. They were over Stuttgart, Ark., at night less than two weeks ago when they saw what they describe as "a bright blinking light that was approaching us from the south."

As Adams tells the story:

"We watched it for 20 or 30 seconds. As it drew nearer to us and crossed our path, we saw on the under side of the object a circular group of lights arranged in a manner that gave it the appearance of a definite circle.

"The lights were bluish or flourescent in nature and the object appeared to be about 100 feet in diameter.

"The way it was flying, I'm positive it was a definite and controlled flight. It maintained a constant altitude and constant course and traveled at a terrific rate of another planet, operated by anifying saucer and, further, that these discs are space ships from about 105 feet across, and flying speed."

"I am convinced that it was a nor I have ever seen anything that approached this. It's nothing like jet or anything else we've ever heard of other than the flying saucer itself."

The airmen told their story, on a television program, to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt. The former first lady shook her head in laughing bewilderment.

"I will say I've been a little skeptical before," she said. "I thought people were seeing things."

Another account of an aerial what-is-it comes from Charles B. Moore, Jr., of Minneapolis, an engineer and director of the General Mills high altitude balloon project.

Moore had scientific measuring devices with him when he and four navy men sighted the object from a point 57 miles northeast of the White Sands N. M., proving ground.

Based on their calculations, the object was elliptical in shape, some 56 miles high at a speed of about four miles per second.

Moore's report led Navy Commander Robert B. McLaughlin to write in True Magazine:

Moore himself said recently he sees no reason to believe it either a flying saucer or space ship.

"It was no hallucination, however, and I believe objects like this are worth much further investigation," he said.

So the stories multiply. On a single day recently, more or less similar reports—none confirmed, none proved false—came from Erie and Clearfield, Pa.; Havana, Cuba; Dallas, Texas; and Mexico City.

Sometimes the "flying saucers" can definitely be identified as ordinary, innocent objects. One such was spotted over two Michigan communities, Petoskey and Ironton, a few days ago. It turned out to be a weather balloon.

In Washington, I. R. Tannehill, chief of the weather bureau's division of reports and forecasts, says this can be expected to happen often:

"We're putting a lot of that stuff in the air and it drifts around. Anybody could see one of those things and think he'd had too much to drink, or get the idea he was seeing two moons or a flying saucer."

Another device that may fool people is the target drone—a small, pilotless airplane used for testing guided missiles. The University of Texas defense research laboratory has disclosed that it's working on them.

They don't look saucerlike, but an official commented:

"I suppose people with imagination could see a target drone as a flying saucer, just as they might call a jet plane or a weather balloon a flying saucer."

Especially on April Fool's Day? mate, intelligent beings."

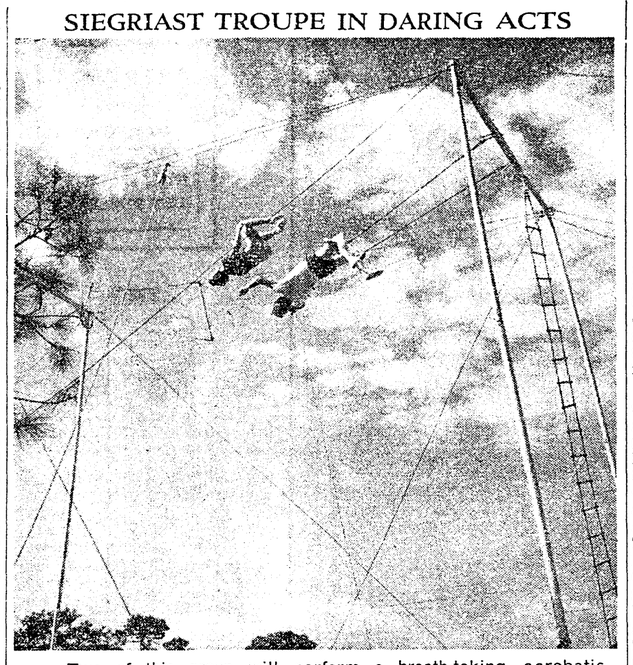
SIEGRIAST TROUPE IN DARING ACTS



Two of this group will perform a breath-taking acrobatic stunt. The group was trained by Charley Siegriat, who claims to have trained more outstanding trapezists than any other man.

'Greatest Aerialist' Will Have Group On Plum Street

Charley Siegrist, who has taken unto himself the application of the song, "The Man on the Flying Trapeze," will be seen with Southern Valley Shows, on the Plum street circus lot in Monroe Monday through Saturday.

Now 69, he doesn't "float through the air with the greatest of ease" anymore. He has his own high-wire troupe, which he trained himself, to do the floating, though he quit the dangerous trade only four years ago.

Charley, who has trained more great trapezists than any other man, began his own career, in true success-story style, as a paper boy.

Selling papers back in the days when he was young called for true salesmanship. So, with the sure insinct of a born showman, Charley would give the propsective customers a little act. He would do a back somersault, flip-flop, or stand on his head and make change with his feet.

The turning point in his life was probably the day after the Oklahoma territory was opened, April 23, 1889. With the big news and his rather strenuous selling routine, his papers went out like hotcakes.

But the important event of the day for Charley came when he was spotted in his act by a Vaudeville comedian. Impressed with the lad's acrobatic ability, the comedian invited him to team up.

Since that day, Charley, who is still referred to as the "greatest living aerial artist" has barnstormed the entire country, performing as comedian, acrobat, bareback rider, and trapeze artist. He has also performed for all the big circuses.

It's been a rugged game. Almost twenty years ago, he fell forty feet during an act, and broke his neck. He was back again, however, the next season.

It took a broken muscle, sustained in a fall four years ago to get Charley out of the air. He was 65 at the time, and still going strong.

Why does he think he inspired the song hit? Well, it seems the author was in his dressng room one day, questioning him about the trade. Shortly afterward, the son was published.

And so 69-year-old Charley Siegrist, his high-flying days now over, is positive that he's still the daring young man on the flying trapeze."

TO BUILD THEATER

JONESVILLE, La., April 1.—A modern $60,000 movie theater will be built in Harrisonburg, parish seat of Catahoula, soon. Owners will be Mr. and Mrs. Jack Knicely, formerly of Baton Rouge. Construction is expected to begin in two weeks and be completed in three months time. The theater when finished will seat 600 persons.

Three Catahoula Schools Closed

JONESVILLE, La., April 1.—All but three of the Catahoula Parish schools which have been closed since mid-February because of the floodwaters reopened Wednesday. Remaining closed are Block at Jonesville, Enterprise and Central.

Block, largest school in Catahoula, opened Wednesday but closed again until April 10, after a survey showed that less than three-fifths of the enrolled pupils were present because of road conditions.

Enterprise school did not attempt reopening Wednesday, also because of road conditions, but it is scheduled to make a stab at it Monday. Central School at Larto will not try reopening for another few weeks, as water is still over much of the area it serves.

Sicily Island, with approximately 98 per cent of its students reporting Wednesday, and Harrisonburg, with 75 per cent, will continue operation, as will Manifest School.

All colored schools have reopened.

Aubrey Brooks, parish superintendent, said that condensed schedules will probably permit the closing of all schools by June 30 for the summer vacation period.

For a salad luncheon serve peach halves and cottage cheese on a bed of water-cress or salad green. Accompany the salad with sour cream or French dressing.

CUBS PRESENT MINSTREL SHOW

Large Group Of Parents And Friends Present For Meeting

Cub Scout Pack No. 1, sponsored by St. Matthew's P.-T. A. association, held its monthly Pack Meeting in the school auditorium on Monday night March 2. A large group of parents and friends of the Cubs were present to take part in a very interesting meeting.

The meeting opened with the singing of America and the program for the meeting was then presented by Den No. 3, under the leadership of Mrs. John J. Spatafora, Den Mother. The den presented a minstrel show, cleverly and excellently staged, in which all Cubs of the den participated. They are: Bradley Biggar, Abdalla Elias, George Elias, Bennie La Cour, Jimmy Schroeder, Steve Spatafora, Jimmy Tonore, and Joe Varino. In addition to these Cubs, a group of Girl Scouts took part. They were Teeny DeLarot, Barbara Schroeder and Marietta Spatafora. As an added attraction, Larry McCarthy and John Guerriero, Jr., former members of the den tap-danced several numbers. Present at the meeting from Cub Scout headquarters were Cub Commissioner S. C. Lea and Council Cub Commissioner J. C. Crawford. Mr. Lea presented the Pack with the new charter for 1950 and presented the committee with their registration cards for the new year. The Cub committee for the pack is composed of George Heller, chairman, Ray R. Updegraff, Lawrence McCarthy and Rev. Marvin Bordeleon, with S. E. Burgoyne as cubmaster.

The Scout commissioners also held an inspection of Cubs, as required by the national council; all Cubs were found to be neatly and correctly dressed, for the most part; Mr. Lea and Mr. Crawford complimented the pack on its appearance and excellence at the conclusion of the inspection.

Following the inspection, the advancements and awards for the month were given the Cubs. Bobcat pins were presented to Vernon Jones, Tom Crawford, Richard Norman, and Anthony Correro. Advanced to Lion rank was Frank Parrino; advanced to Wolf rank was J. C. Zagone and Joseph Marsala; advanced to Bear rank was Julian Fontana. The following Cubs merited Gold arrows for work successfully accomplished: Tom Mulhearn and Donald Scott. Silver arrows were presented to Allan Trousdale, Don Updegraff, Ron Updegraff, Abdalla Elias, Jimmy Devereaux, Jimmy Schroeder, Edwin Ritter, and Fred Brinson. These Cubs were given a round of applause by the parents and guests for the work done.

The meeting was closed with the remarks and announcements by the Cubmaster and the Cub Scout benediction by Commissioner Lea. The Cubs were served refreshments through the kindness of Mrs. Lawrence McCarthy.

Liquid Veil

New Make-Up Has Lanolin

By Alicia Hart
NA Staff Writer

Girls who use make-up foundation creams or lotions only for special glamor occasions underrate its practical importance as skin protector. Naturally, one expects foundation to help make-up cling longer and to give skin a smoother, more flawless appearance.

But a good cream or lotion base also acts as an effective buffer between skin and the elements. Given the protection of a foundation, skin is better able to resist the roughening and drying effects of wintry winds and steam-heated rooms.

One new liquid make-up base intended to keep skin soft and pliant no matter what the temperature is has as one of its ingredients a form of lanolin. The lanolin is processed so that it will have a softening effect without leaving an oily film. This new base is light in texture and is easy to apply with the fingertips. It does not dry in uneven streaks, say the makers, and can be used with equal success on dry or oily skins.

WOMEN OF TOMORROW

This Girl Scout film is being shown at the Paramdunt in Monroe April 2 through April 4.

COLORFUL GIRL SCOUT FILM SET

Will Be Shown At Paramount Theater April 2 Through April 4

One of the year's most important short subjects, "Women of Tomorrow," will be the added attraction at the Paramount theater starting Sunday and continuing through Tuesday. The value of this two-reel film, produced by Warner Bros. in cooperation with the Girl Scouts of the United States of America, lies in its portrayal of the character building methods of the Girl Scout organization. In picturesque print by technicolor sequences, the camera captures all phases of the scouting program for the varied age groups which participate in it.

The Brownies, comprised of girls ranging in age from seven to 10, are indoctrinated with the ideals which will help them to become good scouts and conscientious and worthwhile citizens. They learn that as members of a family there are certain things which they are expected to do for the ease and welfare of their parents, brothers and sisters. In terms a child can understand they learn the purpose and fun of being useful and cheerful.

The Intermediate Scouts, age 10 through 14, are divided into three groups consisting of Tenderfoot, Second and First Class Scouts. A Tenderfoot is one who has just joined a troop. Second and First Class rank are achieved by participating and acquiring badges in the various phases of scouting. In this manner a girl gets a chance to try out all of the different activities and determine that for which she is best suited. Homemaking, handicraft, nursing, boating and others, are all part of the many fields of knowledge she may become acquainted with through Girl Scouting.

The Senior Scout program enables the scout to specialize in that field which her previous experience in scouting has proven to be her greatest interest. If interested in hospital work, she may become a nurses' aide. If boats or aircraft have captured her imagination, she may join the Mariners or Wing Scouts. No matter what her particular interest, the Girl Scouts endeavor to give her the finest background possible and help her to obtain whatever more intensive training she may need for a future career.

"Women of Tomorrow," written by Owen Crump and supervised by Gordon Hollingshead, also covers the International Girl Scout camp meeting which was held at Cooperstown, New York. The film is narrated by Art Gilmore.

NEW ROTARY HEAD

JONESVILLE, La., April 1.—(Special)—M. I. Saltzman was elected president of the Sicily Island Rotary Club at the annual election of the group held this week. He will succeed C. B. Coney. Other new officers are B. K. Miller, vice-president; J. C. Gilbert, secretary, and Bruce Edmonds, treasurer. Board members are Rev. J. J. Davis and Louis Little.

But the important event of the day for Charley came when he was spotted in his act by a Vaudeville comedian. Impressed with the lad's acrobatic ability, the comedian invited him to team up.

Since that day, Charley, who is still referred to as the "greatest living aerial artist" has barnstormed the entire country, performing as comedian, acrobat, bareback rider, and trapeze artist. He has also performed for all the big circuses.

It's been a rugged game. Almost twenty years ago, he fell forty feet during an act, and broke his neck. He was back again, however, the next season.

It took a broken muscle, sustained in a fall four years ago to get Charley out of the air. He was 65 at the time, and still going strong.

Why does he think he inspired the song hit? Well, it seems the author was in his dressng room one day, questioning him about the trade. Shortly afterward, the son was published.

And so 69-year-old Charley Siegrist, his high-flying days now over, is positive that he's still the daring young man on the flying trapeze."

Three Catahoula Schools Closed

JONESVILLE, La., April 1.—All but three of the Catahoula Parish schools which have been closed since mid-February because of the floodwaters reopened Wednesday. Remaining closed are Block at Jonesville, Enterprise and Central.

Block, largest school in Catahoula, opened Wednesday but closed again until April 10, after a survey showed that less than three-fifths of the enrolled pupils were present because of road conditions.

Enterprise school did not attempt reopening Wednesday, also because of road conditions, but it is scheduled to make a stab at it Monday. Central School at Larto will not try reopening for another few weeks, as water is still over much of the area it serves.

S cily Island, with approximately 98 per cent of its students reporting Wednesday, and Harrisonburg, with 75 per cent, will continue operation, as will Manifest School.

All colored schools have reopened.

Aubrey Brooks, parish superintendent, said that condensed schedules will probably permit the closing of all schools by June 30 for the summer vacation period.

For a salad luncheon serve peach halves and cottage cheese on a bed of water-cress or salad green. Accompany the salad with sour cream or French dressing.

TO BUILD THEATER

JONESVILLE, La., April 1.—A modern $60,000 movie theater will be built in Harrisonburg, parish seat of Catahoula, soon. Owners will be Mr. and Mrs. Jack Knicely, formerly of Baton Rouge. Construction is expected to begin in two weeks and be completed in three months time. The theater when finished will seat 600 persons.

CUBS PRESENT MINSTREL SHOW

Large Group Of Parents And Friends Present For Meeting

Cub Scout Pack No. 1, sponsored by St. Matthew's P.-T. A. association, held its monthly Pack Meeting in the school auditorium on Monday night March 2. A large group of parents and friends of the Cubs were present to take part in a very interesting meeting.

The meeting opened with the singing of America and the program for the meeting was then presented by Den No. 3, under the leadership of Mrs. John J. Spatafora, Den Mother. The den presented a minstrel show, cleverly and excellently staged, in which all Cubs of the den participated. They are: Bradley Biggar, Abdalla Elias, George Elias, Bennie La Cour, Jimmy Schroeder, Steve Spatafora, Jimmy Tonore, and Joe Varino. In addition to these Cubs, a group of Girl Scouts took part. They were Teeny DeLarot, Barbara Schroeder and Marietta Spatafora. As an added attraction, Larry McCarthy and John Guerriero, Jr., former members of the den tap-danced several numbers. Present at the meeting from Cub Scout headquarters were Cub Commissioner S. C. Lea and Council Cub Commissioner J. C. Crawford. Mr. Lea presented the Pack with the new charter for 1950 and presented the committee with their registration cards for the new year. The Cub committee for the pack is composed of George Heller, chairman, Ray R. Updegraff, Lawrence McCarthy and Rev. Marvin Bordeleon, with S. E. Burgoyne as cubmaster.

The Scout commissioners also held an inspection of Cubs, as required by the national council; all Cubs were found to be neatly and correctly dressed, for the most part; Mr. Lea and Mr. Crawford complimented the pack on its appearance and excellence at the conclusion of the inspection.

Following the inspection, the advancements and awards for the month were given the Cubs. Bobcat pins were presented to Vernon Jones, Tom Crawford, Richard Norman, and Anthony Correro. Advanced to Lion rank was Frank Parrino; advanced to Wolf rank was J. C. Zagone and Joseph Marsala; advanced to Bear rank was Julian Fontana. The following Cubs merited Gold arrows for work successfully accomplished: Tom Mulhearn and Donald Scott. Silver arrows were presented to Allan Trousdale, Don Updegraff, Ron Updegraff, Abdalla Elias, Jimmy Devereaux, Jimmy Schroeder, Edwin Ritter, and Fred Brinson. These Cubs were given a round of applause by the parents and guests for the work done.

The meeting was closed with the remarks and announcements by the Cubmaster and the Cub Scout benediction by Commissioner Lea. The Cubs were served refreshments through the kindness of Mrs. Lawrence McCarthy.

Liquid Veil

New Make-Up Has Lanolin

By Alicia Hart
NA Staff Writer

Girls who use make-up foundation creams or lotions only for special glamor occasions underrate its practical importance as skin protector. Naturally, one expects foundation to help make-up cling longer and to give skin a smoother, more flawless appearance.

But a good cream or lotion base also acts as an effective buffer between skin and the elements. Given the protection of a foundation, skin is better able to resist the roughening and drying effects of wintry winds and steam-heated rooms.

One new liquid make-up base intended to keep skin soft and pliant no matter what the temperature is has as one of its ingredients a form of lanolin. The lanolin is processed so that it will have a softening effect without leaving an oily film. This new base is light in texture and is easy to apply with the fingertips. It does not dry in uneven streaks, say the makers, and can be used with equal success on dry or oily skins.

WOMEN OF TOMORROW

This Girl Scout film is being shown at the Paramount in Monroe April 2 through April 4.

COLORFUL GIRL SCOUT FILM SET

Will Be Shown At Paramount Theater April 2 Through April 4

One of the year's most important short subjects, "Women of Tomorrow," will be the added attraction at the Paramount theater starting Sunday and continuing through Tuesday. The value of this two-reel film, produced by Warner Bros. in cooperation with the Girl Scouts of the United States of America, lies in its portrayal of the character building methods of the Girl Scout organization. In picturesque print by technicolor sequences, the camera captures all phases of the scouting program for the varied age groups which participate in it.

The Brownies, comprised of girls ranging in age from seven to 10, are indoctrinated with the ideals which will help them to become good scouts and conscientious and worthwhile citizens. They learn that as members of a family there are certain things which they are expected to do for the ease and welfare of their parents, brothers and sisters. In terms a child can understand they learn the purpose and fun of being useful and cheerful.

The Intermediate Scouts, age 10 through 14, are divided into three groups consisting of Tenderfoot, Second and First Class Scouts. A Tenderfoot is one who has just joined a troop. Second and First Class rank are achieved by participating and acquiring badges in the various phases of scouting. In this manner a girl gets a chance to try out all of the different activities and determine that for which she is best suited. Homemaking, handicraft, nursing, boating and others, are all part of the many fields of knowledge she may become acquainted with through Girl Scouting.

The Senior Scout program enables the scout to specialize in that field which her previous experience in scouting has proven to be her greatest interest. If interested in hospital work, she may become a nurses' aide. If boats or aircraft have captured her imagination, she may join the Mariners or Wing Scouts. No matter what her particular interest, the Girl Scouts endeavor to give her the finest background possible and help her to obtain whatever more intensive training she may need for a future career.

"Women of Tomorrow," written by Owen Crump and supervised by Gordon Hollingshead, also covers the International Girl Scout camp meeting which was held at Cooperstown, New York. The film is narrated by Art Gilmore.

NEW ROTARY HEAD

JONESVILLE, La., April 1.—(Special)—M. I. Saltzman was elected president of the Sicily Island Rotary Club at the annual election of the group held this week. He will succeed C. B. Coney. Other new officers are B. K. Miller, vice-president; J. C. Gilbert, secretary, and Bruce Edmonds, treasurer. Board members are Rev. J. J. Davis and Louis Little.

I'M SORRY, BLOWTOP —I'M SORRY.

EVER SINCE BROTHER FLATTOP DROWNED I SWORE I WOULDN'T REST TILL I SQUARED THINGS WITH THAT DICK.

AW, COME ON! CAN'T YOU FORGET? YOU'VE GOT ENOUGH TROUBLE.

FORGET? NOT IN A HUNDRED YEARS! I'LL NEVER FORGET THAT HE KILLED FLATTOP.

BUT WHAT HAS THIS PICTURE GOT TO DO WITH IT?

LISTEN, THIS DOOR IS ELECTRICALLY OPERATED. ELECTRICITY AND EXPLOSIVES GO TOGETHER. I WORKED WITH EXPLOSIVES DURING THE WAR.

SHALL WE ALL SIT IN ABSOLUTE SILENCE FOR 2 MINUTES? MAYBE THIS WHOLE THING WILL BLOW OVER.

MYRTLE PUTS ON A SHOW

I GUESS YOU FORGOT THAT I USED TO RUN A PUPPET SHOW WHEN I WAS WITH THE CARNIVAL. NOW YOU DANCE WHILE I PICK UP A FEW NEW HOLDS TO FINISH OFF THE EVENING!

SORRY, MADAM, BUT THERE ARE NO MORE SEATS AVAILABLE FOR THIS PERFORMANCE

YOU'D BETTER HOLD BINGO WHEN I BRING OUT MY WABBIT!

I DON'T KNOW ANYTHING ABOUT PUPPETS, BUT MYRTLE SURE IS A KEEN OBSERVER OF WHAT GOES ON AROUND THIS NEIGHBORHOOD!

SIT DOWN, SUSIE. THIS IS GOOD!

OH, YEH? JUST WAIT UNTIL YOU SEE THE ONE SHE MADE OF YOU COMING HOME FROM THE CLAMBAKE!

OH, MYRTLE! I DON'T SEE WHY YOU CAN'T PUT ON A NICE PRETTY SHOW INSTEAD OF THIS!

OH, FOR PITY THAKE!

GEE, SAMPSON, I GUESS WE STARTED SOME-THING!

THIS NEW HOME—OURS—EVEN THE TAXES PAID, FROM NOW ON—AND I'M TO GET TWENTY-FIVE THOUSAND A YEAR, TO START, AS "CONSULTANT TO WARBUCKS ENTERPRISES"! IS THAT BAD?

OH, DAN! THIS WONDERFUL HOME!

OF COURSE, HAVING TO MOVE FROM OUR HOME TO THIS PLACE NEAR MY NEW OFFICE WAS A HARD DECISION—BUT WARBUCKS IS O. K.—THAT TEN THOUSAND CASH BONUS HELPS—

OH, NOW THE GIRLS CAN HAVE PROPER CLOTHES—WE CAN GIVE THEM ALL THE ADVANTAGES NOW—

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off. Copyright, 1934, by News Syndicate Co. Inc.

WHY NOT? AND WE GET A BIG NEW CAR WITH A DRIVER, FREE—I TELL YOU THAT WARBUCKS IS A SMART APPLE—

OH, HE'S THE MOST WONDERFUL MAN IN THE WORLD!

HE COULD SEE I HAD REAL CLASS! HE'S NO SUCKER—HE NEEDS A MAN WITH MY BRAINS! YES, SIREE! THAT'S WHY HE'S A BIG SHOT! HE RECOGNIZES A REALLY SMART GUY WHEN HE SEES ONE!

OH, MY LITTLE ONES! NOW YOU CAN HAVE ALL THOSE THINGS I'VE DREAMED OF FOR YOU—

PAPA HIT IT AT LAST!

MR. WARBUCKS HIT IT FOR PAPA!

MR. WARBUCKS IS A WUNNERFUL MAN!

HE GAVE US THIS BEE-UTIFUL HOME!

HE GAVE PAPA A JOB!

WHAT'S A JOB?

BUT, "DADDY"! IT'S SWELL O' YOU TO DO IT, AN' ALL THAT—BUT 'MEMBER WHEN "UNCLE" GEORGE GAVE DAN A JOB, TO TRY TO HELP TH' DRIFTS?

AND DAN'S STUPIDITY RUINED "UNCLE GEORGE"! —I'M NOT UNCLE GEORGE! DAN CAN'T HURT A THING WHERE I'M PUTTING HIM—

BUT ALL TH' DOUGH YOU'RE PAYIN' HIM—WON'T HE HAVE A RESPONSIBLE JOB?

LET'S NOT BE NAIVE, ANNIE—THE DRIFTS TOOK ME IN WHEN MY LIFE WAS AT STAKE—

BUT IF YOU'RE JUST MAKING A PHONY JOB FOR DAN, WON'T HE GET WISE AND FEEL HURT?

DAN'? NOT IN A THOUSAND YEARS! HE'LL BE KEPT BUSY—HE CAN INVESTIGATE AND MAKE LONG REPORTS—

COME OUT, PIG! SOMEONE HAS POSTED BAIL FOR YOU! FOR THE MOMENT YOU ARE FREE! LATER, THERE WILL BE A TRIAL AND WE SHALL SEE!

BAIL? BLAZES! I HAVEN'T A FRIEND IN THIS TOWN! WHO DID IT?

HERE IS YOUR FRIEND! SENOR HIDALGO CORALLO, THE MOST DISTINGUISHED CRIMINAL LAWYER IN ALL PALAGONIA!

AH, CAPTAIN EASY! YOU ARE SURPRISED, PERHAPS? BUT COME WITH ME AND I WILL CLEAR THE MYSTERY!

LOOK, SKIDROW! ISN'T THAT THE SAILOR YOU FRAMED?

GREAT JUPITER, KINKLE! YOU'RE RIGHT! AND HE'S WITH CORALLO!

AND THIS IS THE BRIDGE BUILDER--SENOR CALKINS!

OMAR CALKINS! WHY, I KNEW YOU, SUH, WHEN YOU WORKED FOR MY OLD FRIEND, J.P. McKEE, IN THE STATES!

AND SO YOU DID! SORRY I DIDN'T RECOGNIZE YOU WHEN I FOUND YOU IN THE CABIN, BUT AFTER I JOGGED MY MEMORY, I HIRED CORALLO TO GET YOU OUT OF JAIL!

THINGS DON'T LOOK SO GOOD--

MY STORY SOUNDS FISHY--A PRETTY SIREN, DOPED COFFEE AND PLANTED EVIDENCE! BUT IF MY SHIP CAN BE REACHED AT SEA--

CHAKA, TURNING, SAW THE APE-MAN. "AIEE!" HE SCREAMED. "THE WHITE DEVIL HAS TRICKED US! AFTER HIM! AVENGE OUR SERPENT GOD!"

HOGARTH~

"WE'RE WASTING TIME, BAKER—OUR FRIEND TARZAN'S BODY WILL COME UP EVENTUALLY. WE'VE GOT WORK TO DO."

WHEN ALL HAD QUIETED, TARZAN MOVED CAUTIOUSLY OUT, AND CLIMBED TO THE LEDGE.

FLASH GORDON

by MAC RABOY and DON MOORE ®

"TREACHERY ON EXILA? NOW YOU'RE PAYING FOR YOUR MERCY IN MERELY BANISHING REBELS LIKE ZIN AND RUBIA," MUTTERS ZARKOV. FLASH GRINS AND SAYS: "I'LL SEE FOR MYSELF WHAT'S COOKING ON THAT MOON!"

"YOU WANT TO SEE RUBIA AGAIN," DALE CRIES. ZARKOV WARNS THAT WARDEN GROF COULDN'T PROTECT FLASH FROM ALL THE EXILES WHO KNOW AND HATE HIM. BUT FLASH CHUCKLES. "I'LL GO AS A PRISONER --EXILED FOR IMPERSONATING FLASH GORDON!"

"I'LL HIDE A MICRO-PASSPORT," FLASH SAYS. "PICK ME UP IN TEN DAYS. BUT DON'T TELL EVEN WARDEN GROF THE TRUTH. NOW, I'LL GET ARRESTED."

Copr. 1950, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.

THE SCHEME WORKS EXACTLY AS IT WAS PLANNED! THE DISGUISED FLASH IS BANISHED BY COURT ORDER AND IS BOOED AS HE BOARDS THE SPACE-ROCKET FOR THE PRISON MOON.

SCORNED EVEN BY HIS GUARD, FLASH GETS HIS FIRST CLOSE LOOK AT EXILA, WHICH SWARMS WITH EXILED TRAITORS WHO HATE HIM.

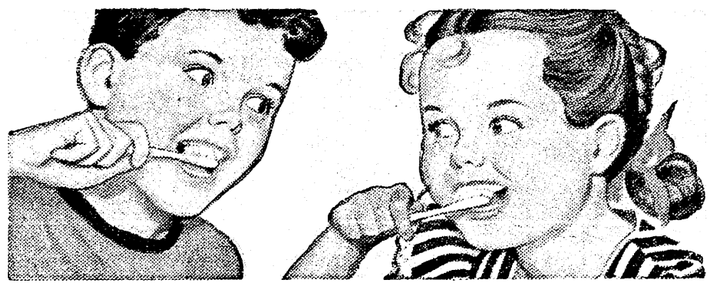
No Other Dentifrice Offers Proof of Such Results!
Proof That Using

HELPS STOP TOOTH DECAY!

Years' Research at FIVE LEADING UNIVERSITIES Proves That Using Colgate's Right After Eating Helps Stop Tooth Decay Before It Starts!

THE MOST CONCLUSIVE PROOF IN ALL DENTIFRICE RESEARCH ON TOOTH DECAY! Proof based on 2 years' research at leading universities—hundreds of case histories! Conclusive proof that when teeth are brushed with Colgate's right after eating, Colgate's helps stop decay before it starts! Colgate Dental Cream has been proved to contain all the necessary ingredients, including an exclusive patented ingredient, for effective daily dental care.

YES, THE TOOTHPASTE YOU USE TO CLEAN YOUR BREATH WHILE YOU CLEAN YOUR TEETH, offers a safe, proved way to reduce tooth decay! Modern science shows decay is caused by mouth acids which are at their worst right after eating. Brushing teeth with Colgate's as directed, helps remove these acids before they harm enamel. And Colgate's penetrating foam gets between teeth where food particles often lodge.



CHILDREN LOVE COLGATE'S FLAVOR! By the time they enter school, 9 out of 10 children have one or more decayed teeth. Children love Colgate's flavor—so it's easy to start them on the proved Colgate way to reduce decay! No dentifrice can stop all tooth decay, or help cavities already started. But using Colgate's as directed is a safe way to reduce cavities—help stop tooth decay! And only Colgate Dental Cream offers proof of such results!

Captain EASY

EASY HAS BEEN IN JAIL 24 HOURS AS A SUSPECT IN A SABOTAGE MURDER ON A BRIDGE CONSTRUCTION JOB

COME OUT, PIG! SOMEONE HAS POSTED BAIL FOR YOU! FOR THE MOMENT YOU ARE FREE! LATER, THERE WILL BE A TRIAL AND WE SHALL SEE!

BAIL? BLAZES! I HAVEN'T A FRIEND IN THIS TOWN! WHO DID IT?

HERE IS YOUR FRIEND! SENOR HIDALGO CORALLO, THE MOST DISTINGUISHED CRIMINAL LAWYER IN ALL PALAGONIA!

AH, CAPTAIN EASY! YOU ARE SURPRISED, PERHAPS? BUT COME WITH ME AND I WILL CLEAR THE MYSTERY!

LOOK, SKIDROW! ISN'T THAT THE SAILOR YOU FRAMED?

GREAT JUPITER, KINKLE! YOU'RE RIGHT! AND HE'S WITH CORALLO!

YOU AND PEPITA MUST HAVE OVERLOOKED SOME MONEY IN HIS POCKETS! OUT OF JAIL, THIS SAILOR IS DANGEROUS--HE MIGHT MAKE PEPITA TALK, IF HE FINDS HER!

T. M. REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

SO NOW WE PUT HER OUT OF THE WAY, EH, KINKLE?

NOTHING SO CRUDE! USE HER FOR BAIT! WHEN HE FINDS HER WE PUT HIM OUT OF THE WAY FOR KEEPS!

SO THAT'S THE BRIDGE I'M CHARGED WITH TRYING TO WRECK!

AND THIS IS THE BRIDGE BUILDER--SENOR CALKINS!

OMAR CALKINS! WHY, I KNEW YOU, SUH, WHEN YOU WORKED FOR MY OLD FRIEND, J. P. McKEE, IN THE STATES!

AND SO YOU DID! SORRY I DIDN'T RECOGNIZE YOU WHEN I FOUND YOU IN THE CABIN, BUT AFTER I JOGGED MY MEMORY, I HIRED CORALLO TO GET YOU OUT OF JAIL!

THINGS DON'T LOOK SO GOOD--

COPR. 1950 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

MY STORY SOUNDS FISHY--A PRETTY SIREN, DOPED COFFEE AND PLANTED EVIDENCE! BUT IF MY SHIP CAN BE REACHED AT SEA--

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

With Major Hoople

NICE SHOT, MAJOR! RIGHT DOWN THE MIDDLE!

NOW PERHAPS YOU'LL BELIEVE ME WHEN I TELL YOU I PLAYED THE FAMED ST. ANDREWS COURSE FIVE YEARS WITH THE SAME BALL!

T. M. REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

IF THERE WAS A REVOLVING DOOR HERE, I'D KNOW WHERE TO LOOK--MY BALL WOULD BE IN IT!

WHAT FIEND IN HUMAN FORM INVENTED THIS GAME?

I'LL TEAR DOWN THIS WOODS, TREE BY TREE!

MINE WAS A BRAND NEW BALL--IT'S LIKE LOSING A PINT OF BLOOD!

WHERE'S HIS NIBS? HIDING BEHIND A DIVOT?

HE VANISHED AFTER THAT ONE HORSESHOE SHOT DOWN THE FAIRWAY!

HE MUST HAVE PLAYED ON--THE OLD BOY'S AS INDEPENDENT AS A ONE-MAN ORCHESTRA!

LET'S GO--WE'VE WAITED 20 MINUTES!

DRAT! I'VE LOST EVERY ONE OF MY BALLS IN THIS BEASTLY FOREST!

I'LL CUT THROUGH HERE TO THE 18TH GREEN AND RELAX!

LOOK! ISN'T THAT THE BIG WALRUS THERE ON THE VERANDA?

RIGHT! HE'S AS EASY TO SPOT AS A BULL FIDDLE IN A PAWNSHOP WINDOW!
